United Nations Vote Down Red Indictment Of U. S.

ACCUSED OF BEATING and hacking to death a European farmer in Kenya, Africa, 12 Mau Mau terrorists are arraigned on murder charges in Naivasha. Supt. P. S. A. Steenkamp stands at the right. With arrests mounting steadily in the Mau Mau anti-white warfare, the number of prisoners has far exceeded existing facilities to care for them.

Lad, 15, Is Killed, Four Others Injured In Accidents In County

A 15-year-old West Union boy was killed at about 12:30 p. m. Sunday west of Circleville when he ran into the path of an automobile containing servicemen going home on leave for Christmas.

Four other persons were injured in two additional mishaps in the county during the weekend.

Killed was Ralph Copas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Copas of West Union.

The accident happened at a small cement bridge on Route 22, about 4 miles west of the city.

Deputies Walter Richards and Jim Diltz said the car in which young Copas was riding with his mother, younger brother and an unidentified man, was travelling east on Route 22.

The deputies said the auto had travelled through the bridge and stopped about 200 feet beyond while Copas and his younger brother were sent back to the small stream to get water for the car's radiator.

The two lads walked back to the bridge, the younger brother staying on the south side of the bridge as the victim crossed the highway and down a steep bank to the water.

Returning to the road, deputies said, the youth started to run across to his brother when he was struck by an auto operated east by Kenneth Smith, 21, of Grove City, Pa.

Smith and several Air Force companions were returning to their homes for 15 day Christmas leaves from Keesler Field, Miss.

Dr. Ned Griner, Pickaway County coroner, said the youth had fractures of the right leg, hip, pelvis, collarbone and neck.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff said detailed information was sought from the boy's mother, younger brother and the man who was driving the car.

"THEY WERE put in one of our cruisers while the boys performed their jobs at the scene," the sheriff said. "Then they got out of the cruiser and into their car and drove off before we could talk to them."

The youth's body was taken to Defenbaugh Funeral Home and later transferred to West Union. The Air Force driver was not held, and after his auto was repaired he and his companions continued their journey.

Another accident involving one injury happened at about 2:45 p. m. Sunday at Routes 104 and 22.

State Highway Patrolman Ray Hoylman said an auto operated east on Route 22 by Bob Keller, 19, of Williamsport, was struck by an auto operated south on Route 104 by Howard Leedom, 45, of Columbus.

Injured was Clarence Hastings, 21, of Williamsport, treated in Berger hospital for a lacerated forehead. Leedom later was fined $100 and costs before the Court of Mayor Ed Amey for failing to yield the right of way.

Final personal injury crash happened at 4:50 p. m. Saturday on Route 22, 2.6 miles west of Circleville on Route 22.

State Highway Patrolman Gene Miller said a pickup truck operated by Warren Dennis, 31, of Circleville Route 2, was struck from the rear by an auto operated by Lt. Thomas Bradley, 31, of Ft. Campbell, Ky., enroute to his home in Pennsylvania for a Christmas holiday.

M. Kirkwood, Henkle Homes Win Awards

Duplicate first-prize awards of $25 in cash were won by Kirkwood for the best-trimmed house in the northend; and Henkle for the best-trimmed in the southend.

The Kirkwood home was selected by a panel of four judges as the outstanding decorated home in the northend with its "Merry Christmas" theme in a shadow-box effect.

Henkle's home was chosen the best in the southend of the city for its display of Santa and Rudolph, the red-nosed reindeer.

Other winners in the southend were: Carl Manson and Mrs. Jack Swyers, who decorated the Manson house on Dunmore Road with a "tired" Santa scene; and Robert Dick of 341 East Franklin street, whose house showed a Santa and toys scene.

Duplicate awards of $10 for second and $5 for third were offered in both northend and southend contests.

William Cook of Park Place and Mrs. Stanley Peters of 313 South Court street were singled out by the judges for honorable mention in the contest.

Judges for this year's contest, directed by Joe Bell for the Chamber of Commerce, were Mr. and Mrs. William Ingle of Bainbridge; and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Beam of Wilmington.

Bell said a total of 28 houses were entered in this year's contest.

16 Ohioans Killed During Week End

COLUMBUS (AP)—Highway accidents took the lives of 12 Ohioans in the state over the week end.

Three others died in fires and another in an industrial accident, an Associated Press survey showed today.

Carl Bennett Home Damaged By Fire

Circleville fire department was called at 8:10 a. m. Sunday to extinguish a fire in the home of Carl Bennett, unsuccessful candidate for state representative in last month's elections.

The Bennett home is on Walnut Creek pike, about five miles northeast of Circleville.

Fire Chief Talmer Wise said a fireplace in the residence was not correctly built and that fire, eating through the floor of the living room, had apparently smoldered for several days before it was detected Sunday.

Wise said flooring immediately beneath the fireplace lacked adequate protection.

Damage to the home was estimated at approximately $100.

Work Needed To Ready Gift For Christmas

Circleville's huge Christmas present—a new house the city is building for a family left homeless in a fire Dec. 10—may be ready to place under the tree on Christmas Eve.

But if it is, someone is going to have to work very hard to get the job done.

The site of the new house was attacked by local workmen Sunday and put under roof. About 18 men turned out to give a hand to the family of Montford (the Mole) Pollock, who were burned out.

Talmer Wise, who formed the project of building the Pollocks a new home for Christmas, said the job could be completed by Christmas Eve "if people will turn out in the evenings to work at it."

WORKMEN Sunday completely sheathed the walls and roof of the house, felt-covered the roof and made two partitions.

Wiring under the supervision of Leonard Lytle was roughed in, and electrical circuits were set up.

And city roofers Monday morning were to have moved onto the site to place a shingle roof on the new four-room home.

And the chimney located in the center of the home is to be completed Monday by Firemen Fred Howell and Bern Wolfe.

But needed to be done yet are:

Installation of doors and windows;

Inside panelling;

Flooring;

Installing one more partition; and

Tacking on imitation brick siding.

Wise said workmen who want to help on the project can report at the site behind the ice plant on Island Road in the evening. Lights will be set up at the site.

Winter Comes On Heels Of Nasty Storm

CHICAGO (AP)—Winter blew in officially and violently on a driving storm of snow, sleet and freezing rain across the Great Plains today.

Four to nine inches of snow fell in parts of Nebraska and Kansas, and lesser amounts through Iowa, Northern Missouri and the Dakotas. Winds of 35 to 50 miles an hour velocity whipped the snow into drifts.

Outside the snow areas on the Plains, icing was the traffic and communications hazard. East-Central Iowa reported communications lines were breaking faster than they could be repaired, and the state had about 300 long distance circuits out of service.

The first full day of winter (the new season officially began at 4:44 p. m. EST., Sunday) was a miserable one.

Low clouds, fog, some snow and drizzle were general from the storm area eastward to the Appalachian Mountains; it was raining along the Middle Atlantic coast, snowing in the Rocky Mountains and upstate New York, and the Pacific Northwest had more of the showers that hit Sunday.

Lancaster Airman Escapes Tragedy

MOSES LAKE, Wash. (AP) — Airman 1-C Joseph C. Stout of Lancaster, O., today was being treated in Brooke Army General Hospital, San Antonio, Tex., for injuries suffered Saturday in the crash of an Air Force plane in which 86 persons were killed.

He was flown there Sunday night. Stout was one of 30 survivors of the crash.

Chillicothe GI Stranded In Iowa

CHILLICOTHE (AP) — Airman 1-C Vern Richards, 21, of Chillicothe, was one of 67 servicemen on Christmas leaves stranded at the Des Moines Airport Sunday.

He was aboard an Operation Santa Claus chartered plane which ran into foul weather. He has not been home in 2½ years.

McCrady 'Reporting For Duty,' Claims His Suspension Illegal

Circleville Police Chief William F. McCrady, declaring his recent suspension by Mayor Ed Amey illegal, announced by letter Monday he was "reporting for duty as of now." His 15-day suspension has one week yet to go.

McCrady also announced claim on his salary for the past week and "any costs payable."

The Chief's action turned the spotlight on the city's civil service commission, which plans to meet at 8 p. m. Monday to "iron out the legal points involved."

A spokesman for the commission said McCrady has yet to ask formally for a hearing before the group.

MAIN PURPOSE of the commission's meeting Monday night presumably would be to study and rule on two technicalities stressed in the Chief's bombshell notice to the mayor.

The Chief's letter, announcing his return to duty, was handed to the mayor by Joe Adkins, counsel for McCrady.

It read as follows:

"This is to advise that I am immediately reporting for duty as chief of police of the city of Circleville for the reason that I have been advised by my attorney that the purported suspension given to me on Dec. 15, 1952, is not valid and is null and void for the reason that the Civil Service Commission of the city was not notified forthwith of said suspension and I was not given an opportunity for a hearing before said commission within five days as provided by law.

"I expect to be entitled to my full salary during the past week that I was illegally suspended, together with any costs payable to the chief of police during that time."

McCrady's defiance of the suspension order in effect put two men in charge of Circleville police force pending action by the Civil Service Commission.

"Unless I'm overruled by the commission," Amey declared, "McCrady is still suspended and is not on duty as the chief of police."

AT THE TIME of McCrady's suspension for alleged violation of a rule covering the use of city police cruisers, Amey appointed Policeman Elmer Merriman as acting chief.

Main debate in the controversy, latest chapter in a long series of disputes involving police department authority, was expected to center on the word "forthwith" as used in the Chief's letter.

Point at issue was whether the commission was notified "forthwith" of McCrady's suspension.

Amey wrote a letter of notification to the commission and dated it Dec. 17. He said he is under the impression it was mailed immediately and pointed out he had no control of its progress through local postal channels.

However, Vernon Hawkes, a member of the Civil Service group, said he didn't receive the letter of notification until Monday morning and that it was postmarked as Sunday.

Legal counsel for the Mayor said there is no cause for the chief's reference to the second point stressed in his letter, claiming rights to a hearing before the commission "within five days."

CONTENTION is that the law reads within five days of the date the commission receives the letter—and not within five days of the suspension announcement.

McCrady at first declared there was nothing doubtful in the legal points involved and merely announced, as he stood in the police station:

"I'm here and I'm going to work."

The Chief, however, later left the police headquarters on the advice of his attorney when Amey threatened to ask for a restraining order against the Chief.

McCrady was suspended Dec. 15, the Mayor announced, because the Chief took a police cruiser outside the city without authorization.

Hydrogen Blast Kills 15 In Nagoya, Japan

NAGOYA, Japan (AP)—A thunderous blast of exploding hydrogen levelled a chemical fertilizer plant here today, killing at least 15 workers.

Police, still digging through the ruins, said five persons were missing and 370 injured, 70 critically.

Their search for bodies dropped their figures from earlier reports of 30 killed and 550 injured.

The violent blast ripped apart the main works of the Toa Synthetic Chemical Company, one of Japan's major producers of chemical fertilizer. Homes and stores in a radius of several blocks were badly damaged.

The explosion demolished the new ferro-concrete building that housed part of the factory's ammonium sulphate plant. Damage was estimated at $14 million.

Authorities who launched an immediate investigation said the blast may have been touched off by a spark in a hydrogen tank where ammonium sulphate is extracted from a liquid chemical.

The company's president, Ikoma Nonaka, said the whole factory system probably would have to be closed. There was no fire of any proportions, however, Nagoya firemen said.

Experts Study Air Crash In Which 86 Died

Exhaustive Probes Sought Into Tragedy Involving Globemaster

And civilian officials, in and out of government circles, began a concerted demand for action to reduce the number of military plane accidents.

Saturday's crash, which killed all but 30 of the men aboard the U. S. military's biggest airplane, was the 10th in a recent series which has snuffed out more than 300 lives. Calls began immediately for grounding of military aircraft while safety precautions and plane checks are taken.

Sen. Richard Russell (D-Ga) called for an exhaustive investigation. He said it was possible a subcommittee of his Senate Armed Services Committee would take action in the disaster.

AT LARSON Air Force Base, starting point of the flight, the grim and tedious job of identifying the dead continued. The process was slow because many of the victims were mangled and burned beyond recognition.

Meanwhile, four Air Force generals huddled with other officers, civilians and technical representatives of aircraft and equipment manufacturers, trying to piece together the cause of the accident.

An Air Force captain with years of experience flying heavy equipment said he thought the plane just couldn't develop enough power to rise from the runway.

He was Capt. George Demas of Cleveland. His observations were made first hand—he was one of the passengers who lived through the crash.

"I had a peculiar feeling," he said from his hospital bed at Larson AFB, "that we were staying too long on the ground. I became convinced of this when I felt the plane bounced at the end of the runway and it seemed the plane had not developed enough power to complete the takeoff."

The pilot, Capt. Demas said, ap-

More Atom Energy Private Enterprise Urged By Board

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Security Resources Board urged today the government encourage greater participation by private enterprise in the development and use of atomic energy as a source of power.

This is one way, the board said in a report to President Truman, the nation can plan to insure against exhaustion of its strategic materials resources.

Other steps it recommended after a six-month study of long-term materials and energy supply problems included:

1 — A mineral leasing system as an optional alternative to claim-staking on public lands. The board said many provisions of existing law are obsolete.

2 — A law prescribing policy to be followed by the Department of the Interior in managing off-shore oil lands.

3 — Laws authorizing United States participation with Canada in constructing the St. Lawrence Seaway and power project, and providing for other multiple - purpose river development.

4 — LEGISLATION authorizing reduction or elimination of tariffs on raw materials in which this country is substantially deficient.

5 — Greater emphasis on mineral resources in technical assistance programs for under-developed areas of the world.

The board proposed that interested agencies draw an amendment to the Atomic Energy Act specifying conditions under which private interests "could operate commercially to benefit from their atomic power research, development and production."

The conditions would include such things as patent rights, availability of fissionable materials, and allocation of costs between industrial power and weapons.

The board said the interest of industry in participating in atomic power development is retarded by undertainties as to how it would be permitted to use its results. These uncertainties stem from restrictions in the present law.

Man, 36, Dies In Farm Lot

A 36-year-old man was found dead Monday morning in a hog lot on the farm of Mrs. Sam Tootle, north of Five Points in Monroe Township, where he worked.

He was identified by Pickaway County Sheriff Charles Radcliff as Fred Thomas Harmon, who moved onto the Tootle farm two weeks ago.

The sheriff said an unidentified man driving an oil truck past the farm early Monday spotted the man lying in the lot.

He drove on to the farm house and notified the persons there and then they returned to the lot. The man was dead.

DR. NED Griner, Pickaway County coroner, said the man died of a heart attack. He was believed to have died at about 10 a. m.

Radcliff said the man is survived by his widow, three children and three step-children.

DuPont Anti-Trust Suit Dismissed

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—Du Pont President Crawford H. Greenwalt says the Justice Department has withdrawn a criminal antitrust suit against E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Company but failed to publicize the action.

The suit accused the company and a retired employe, Henry Lackey, of conspiring with six other companies to fix prices, discounts and terms of sale of wood finishes. The case dismissed had no connection with the so-called "General Motors" antitrust sit involving Du Pont, Greenwalt said. This civil suit is now being argued in Chicago.

Ferman Larie Held For Jury

Ferman Larie of Columbus was held on a total of $200 bond in the court of Mayor Ed Amey for grand jury action on accusations of driving under revocation and being in actual physical control of an auto while drunk.

Larie lost his license here last Spring when he appeared in common pleas court for drunken driving.

Councilmen, Fire Group Set Meeting

City councilmen will meet with spokesmen for Pickaway County's Rural Township Fire Association here Tuesday night in an effort to iron out two important points in the city's agreement with the township group.

City firemen aid in fighting fires outside Circleville under terms of a contract between the municipality and the association, which covers nine townships in the county.

City Council recently declared the contract between the city and Association had lapsed, apparently by a misunderstanding never officially clarified. One item of business will be to seek renewal of the agreement.

Much more controversial is the claim, backed by several of the city lawmakers, that Circleville does not receive enough compensation for its help in battling fires in the townships. Leaders of the Association will probably be asked for a readjustment in this respect at Tuesday's meeting.

ONE OFFICIAL of the township firemen's organization has already said privately there will be no increase in the city's remuneration, presently set at $14 for each time the city takes the township fire truck on calls outside Circleville.

Councilman Harold Clifton, one of those who believe the city has sufficient compensation under the present setup, pointed out the township truck is available for fires inside Circleville.

He also emphasized that the city, by housing and operating the township truck, is able to get a lower rate for fire insurance.

Poultry Struck By Thieves Here

Thieves were hard on poultry in Pickaway County last weekend.

Officer Rod List said Mrs. Dora Reed of 386 East Mound street reported someone took two pet ducks from the back yard of her home during the weekend.

And Sheriff Charles Radcliff said John Parrott of Kinderhook reported the theft of 40 White Rock pullets from his henhouse Sunday night.

Parrott said thieves had picked the lock on the henhouse door.

In addition, city police were called to the home of Mrs. Henry Renick of Pontius Lane, where burglars had entered through the cellar door. Nothing was reported missing.

Brodie Twins Still Holding On

CHICAGO (AP) — The Brodie Siamese twins clung tenaciously today to the separate life surgeons sought to give them last week.

The 15-month-old sons of Mr. and Mrs. Royt Brodie of Moline, Ill., born joined at the tops of their heads, were separated in a 12 hour and 40 minute operation. Roger, the weaker of the two, is still in a coma and his condition is precarious. Rodney is still regarded in critical condition and has failed to continue the progress he had made.

45-5 Ballot Goes Against POW Claims

West Laughs Aloud At Accusations Hurled By Russia's Gromyko

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—A weary United Nations Assembly early today turned down a bitter Russian demand for condemnation of the United States for the alleged mass murder of Red prisoners on Pongam Island in Korea.

Red-eyed after a tense all-night debate, Assembly delegates voted 45 "nays" to 5 Soviet bloc "yeas" against the Russian proposal. Ten members of the Arab-Asian bloc abstained. Three in that group, Iraq, Lebanon and Thailand, voted against the Soviet move.

The Soviet bloc gained no support outside of its own tight little group for the resolution, which was denounced by U. S. Delegate Ernest A. Gross as a "sickening" and "shabby midnight propaganda stunt."

GROSS, replying to charges launched at midnight Saturday by Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko said the riot on Dec. 14 in which 87 persons were killed was engineered to help the Kremlin cover up the fact that "the aggressors and their sponsors have rejected peace in Korea." He said the guards fired at the rioting Reds to quell them and to avoid greater casualties.

Gross referred to the blunt rejection by the Communists of the India peace plan approved by the General Assembly Dec. 3 by a vote of 54 to 5 (Soviet bloc) with Nationalist China abstaining.

"The Soviet government," Gross said, "may now recognize the mistake it made in so brutally rejecting the Indian resolution for peace in Korea and in so contemptuously flouting the will of the UN.

"There is a lesson to be drawn from this midnight maneuver by the Soviet government. It is proof that when members of the United Nations unite on a moral issue and rally from all corners of the earth around the cause of peace and defense of the Charter—the enemies of peace are driven into corners of desperation. We do not believe that our upity can be broken or undermined by acts of lying desperation such as those we have witnessed here."

SELWYN LLOYD, British minister of state; Henri Hoppenot, France; Selim Sarper, Turkey; Alexis Kyrou, Greece; David Johnson, Canada, and Leslie K. Munro, New Zealand — whose countries have troops fighting in Korea—assured Gross they were standing with him in indignant repudiation of the Soviet tactics and allegations. Lloyd said it "is a matter of bitter regret on the eve of Christmas to have this poisonous propaganda injected here." He expressed confidence in the UN Command in Korea.

Gromyko, looking natty in a blue suit, also linked the riots with the UN adoption of India's peace plan. He said the U. S. wanted to perpetuate the Korean war and the India resolution was part of that scheme.

Gromyko said the International Red Cross report on last spring's prison outbreak at Koje Island criticized the U. S. for using weapons gaainst rioting prisoners. He said use of force against the prisoners was part of an American scheme to coerce prisoners into saying they did not want to go home. Those who refused, he added, were brutalized.

Gromyko charged that in May, 1951, the U. S. shipped 1,400 Chinese and North Korean prisoners to the U. S. to serve as "guinea pigs in atom experiments."

HE CLAIMED that on May 10, 1952, American hangmen gouged out the eyes of 18 prisoners, and that on May 30, 1952, the U. S. burned 800 prisoners alive in flame thrower experiments.

Lloyd burst out laughing at these claims. Jessup and Gross joined him.

Looking at the British, Gromyko said: "They are laughing louder

Experts Study Air Crash In Which 86 Died

parently agreed, as he "tried to yank it into the air because it was too late to reverse the propellers and stop it."

The plane rose sharply, the captain related, then started to settle.

"THEN THE pilot turned sharply like he was attempting to come back to the runway. I looked out the window ad estimated we were about 75 feet in the air."

The pilot, later identified in the list of dead as Lt. William O'Connell of Portland, Me., probably changed his mind and attempted to resume normal course, Demas said. After that, the first thing Demas could recall was making his painful way from the wreck.

The 116 men in the giant twin-decked plane was not unusual, Air Force officials said. They told of tests in which 160 men with 100-pound packs have flown in C124s without overloading.

But Rep. Edith N. Rogers (R-Mass) asked the Air Force to ground the transports until the accident causes can be determined. Servicemen, she told Secretary of Air Finletter, "should not be crowded into one large airplane like cattle."

Sen. Stennis (D-Miss), a member of the armed services committee, called for a full report on recent Globemaster crashes.

ONCE UPON A CHRISTMAS EVE

By WILLIAM RITT

ESKI boards the ice floe and asks the reindeer what happened. "It's all Dunder's fault," says Blitzen. "He suggested we go for a little ride on this ice floe and before we knew what had happened it drifted out to sea."

JOYFUL, at finding the reindeer, Eski now faces another big problem: How to get them back to Santa Claus in time for the Christmas Trip. A whale, swimming up to see what's going on, gives Eski a good idea.

"SURE," says the friendly whale, "I'll be glad to take you fellows ashore. Just climb aboard and stand real still so you won't slip off into the sea. O. K., you lead the way and I'll follow you." So off they go back to Santa!

than the American delegation. I wonder why."

Hoppenot, answering for the West, said the guinea pig charge was "odious."

Lloyd, in his turn on the rostrum, referred to a statement by Mrs. Gertrude Sekaninova, the Czech delegate, that the UN Command destroyed the "modest effects" the prisoners kept in their huts.

The British minister reminded the Assembly that he had visited the camps himself and had noticed that among the "modest effects" were such things as spears, guns, knives and other weapons.

The debate alternated among Soviet satellites and members of the Western or neutral camps until the speakers were talked out, utterly weary.

DEATHS

MRS. PERRY GAINES

Mrs. Hazel Arledge Gaines, 39, of Meade, died at 10 p. m. Saturday in her home following an illness of 18 months.

Mrs. Gaines was born Feb. 1, 1913, near Adelphi, daughter of Rexy and Dessie Smith Arledge, who survive.

Also surviving her is her husband, Perry Gaines; four daughters, Mrs. Doris Poling, Margie Gaines, Martha Jane Gaines and Linda Gaines, all at home; two sons, Larry Gaines and Perry Gaines Jr., both at home; three sisters, Mrs. Janey Goodman of Circleville Route 1 and Mrs Marlene Black and Miss Georgia Arledge, both of near Adelphi; three brothers, Melvin Arledge of Circleville Route 3, Wesley Arledge of Adelphi and Wayne Arledge of Columbus; and one grandchild.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday in Meade Methodist church with the Rev. J. B. Brown officiating. Burial will be in the churchyard cemetery by L. E. Hill Funeral home of Kingston.

Friends may call in the residence.

HARLEY HUFFMAN

Harley Huffman, 72, a former resident of Saltcreek Township, died at 3 a. m. Monday in Pickaway County Home.

Mr. Huffman was born Oct. 24, 1880, in Hocking County, son of Frederick and Mary Huffman.

Surviving are one brother, Jacob Huffman, of Carroll, and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held at 10:30 a. m. Wednesday in Defenbaugh Funeral Home with the Rev. George Troutman officiating. Burial will be in Whisler cemetery.

Friends may call in the funeral home Tuesday evening.

Health Council May Consider Dump Problem

Pickaway County Health Council has officially listed three projects already submitted as proposed targets for the organization's efforts.

The council also has announced plans for its meeting next month, when steps will be taken to decide formally what the group will try to accomplish first.

Selection of a new president has also become a priority business.

Mrs. Walter F. Heine agreed to take the council's helm at the time of its organization earlier this year, but stipulated she would have to be relieved of the top duties early in 1953.

Potentially one of the most representative organizations in the county, the council is composed of spokesmen from all local units interested in health programs In at least one of the projects already proposed, the group's activities would be turned parallel to a problem which has already had the spotlight in Circleville.

"The city dump" is listed as one of the projects proposed for study by the new organization.

ALTHOUGH the health group would only have power to recommend changes under the present setup, its weight as a medium for public opinion is generally recognized.

Other two projects listed for the health group's consideration are:

Education for physically handicapped children;

Unification of city and county health departments.

Mrs. Heine has emphasized no projects have yet been selected officially by the organization she heads. It was indicated additional projects will be suggested when the council meets Jan. 28.

24 Deer Rout Car From Road

EPPING FOREST, England (AP)—A large stag led a charge of 25 deer against an automobile driving on a road through a forest north of London last night and knocked the car rolling over an embankment.

Two occupants of the small vehicle, an Austin 7, Mr. and Mrs. William Thomas Coe, were injured.

Married Pupil Ban Is Rapped By Attorney

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Florida's Atty. Gen. Richard Ervin says there is no legal reason to bar married children or girls in early stages of pregnancy from attending public schools.

"It's questionable that a rule to bar married children from attending public schools would be reasonable or be to the best interest of the school or pupils and could be enforced," Ervin told State School Supt. Thomas D. Bailey yesterday.

"It is commendable in married persons of school age to further their education and thereby be better fitted for life's work and its duties."

He said a pregnant girl under 16, young enough to be required to attend school, might need to be exempted from attendance for health reasons.

Bailey said he did not know how many married pupils are attending Florida schools but county school boards had often asked what should be done about them and he sought the attorney general's opinion.

Taft-Hartley Law Kill Drive Slows

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new head of the American Federation of Labor says the AFL, which long has demanded repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act, now is willing to settle for satisfactory amendments to the labor law.

George Meany, AFL president, said yesterday in a radio interview that the November election results "more or less stopped" the drive for repeal.

Favoritism In 37th Denied By General

COLUMBUS (AP) — The artillery commander of the 37th Infantry Division, formerly of the Ohio National Guard, says it isn't true that favoritism has been shown some division members in early discharges.

Brig. Gen. Kenneth Cooper cited the case of Vic Janowicz, All-America football player from Ohio State University, who got out of the service this month.

"Cpl. Janowicz enlisted in the Ohio National Guard June 24, 1948, for a period of three years and reenlisted July 12, 1951, for a period of one year, and when that expired he was eligible for discharge," Gen. Cooper said.

Gen. Cooper said morale is good in the 37th and no one is getting discharged ahead of time. The 37th is stationed at Camp Polk, La.

Cooper said only men with nine more months to serve are being sent overseas. Any man with less is being kept in the states.

The discharge of Janowicz and many other members of the division came through a new army department policy instituted last spring. Now members of the Guard are discharged when their enlistments are up. Previously they had to serve two years following activation of the division regardless of when their enlistment ran out.

Duke Of Windsor Back In States

NEW YORK (AP)—The Duke and Duchess of Windsor returned to the United States yesterday after several months in Europe.

As they arrived aboard the liner Queen Mary, the duke repeated his statement of last Tuesday that he would not attend the coronation of his niece as Queen Elizabeth II.

The Windsors said they planned to hunt quail near Tallahassee, Fla., and play golf at Palm Beach, Fla., during the next few months.

Girls Slug Woman

CLEVELAND (AP) — Two girls about 15 years old slugged Mrs. Mary Dobos, 73, Sunday night and stole her purse containing $10.

GOOD HOLIDAY ADVICE

EXPERIENCE HAS SHOWN the year-end holiday season is the most dangerous period of the year, Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council, points out in a communique that should be read and pondered by all citizens.

Traffic accident deaths on both Christmas eve and Christmas Day in the nation are approximately twice as high as the annual daily average. With a four-day holiday this year the death toll could be higher than the 351 traffic deaths during the Christmas week-end of last year, Dearborn says.

The safety head tosses out the following suggestions for a safe and merry Christmas for the motorist:

Driving or walking, put the Christmas spirit of "good will toward men" into practical use by being extra courteous — take time.

Avoid home hazards—do not use candles, be sure tree lights and wiring are in good condition. Keep gift wrappings away from fireplaces and other sources of heat.

WHEN PRESIDENTS RELAX

FACING THE HARD prospect of four years of tension in the White House, President-elect Eisenhower already is giving thought to how and where he will relax from the strain of office. A duty the head of the nation owes to all its people is to keep fit by not letting the arduous tasks of his office drive him to a point approaching exhaustion.

Those familiar with how General Eisenhower likes to employ his leisure will not be surprised by the report that he does not plan to use the ocean-going yacht Williamsburg. The President-elect's idea for a summer White House is a place somewhere with a nine-hole golf course and fresh-water fishing not too far from the capital.

Herbert Hoover, when President, relinquished the Mayflower, which his predecessors had enjoyed, and did so in the name of economy, withdrawing to a retreat on the Rapidan, where he could fish to his heart's content. Another presidential fisherman was Calvin Coolidge, who took a long vacation in 1927 in South Dakota's Black Hills to try his luck. It was there he spoofed the country with his famous "I do not choose to run in 1928," an idiom perfectly understandable to any New Englander as absolute determination.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Great historic errors are never made by the people of a country; they do not know enough of what is going on. The errors are made by officials, by individuals, sometimes whimsically, sometimes wilfully.

Responsibility is often avoided by the mighty by the simple device of shifting the blame to smaller men who can hardly defend themselves. Often the people do not really know what has been done to them until decades have passed, archives have been opened and the appalling truth exposed, long after any remedial measures are possible.

In this country, we are fortunate that no man is too great, no office so sacrosanct that a Congressional committee might not uncover the actual facts of a situation if it is so minded. The Owen Lattimore indictment is a case in point.

The Lattimore testimony before the McCarran Committee consumed 817 pages of printed record. It was an amazing performance, often a violent denunciation of the Committee and its processes. I cite one brilliant example of the double skip, the ability to talk plentifully but not to answer the question:

"Senator Ferguson. Might I ask a question there? Did you intend to influence the people in the State Department?

"Mr. Lattimore. The program of the Institute of Pacific Relations was perfectly clear, Senator. It was to make available on the market, the market of ideas, the most accurate information that it could assemble on the subject of the Far East, so that those who were interested could use that information as they themselves saw best.

"The Chairman. Now, I would like to have you answer the question.

"Senator Ferguson. Answer my question: Did you intend to influence the State Department?

"Mr. Lattimore. We intended to contribute to the general fund of knowledge about the Far East. Any question of a particular intent to interest the State Department as a policy-making organ of he Government was, to the extent of my knowledge, never dreamed of."

The McCarran Committee established that it was the purpose and activity of the Institute of Pacific Relations to influence the Far Eastern policy of the State Department and its implementation.

Owen Latimore was editor of "Pacific Affairs," the principal publication of the I.P.R. Together with E. C. Carter, Frederick Vanderbilt Field and, for a period, Joseph Barnes, he was a powerful figure in this international organization.

Lattimore's bravado broke down after E. C. Carter's barn at Lee, Massachusetts, was raided and the files found were taken to Washington. Those files continued thousands of documents, some of considerable significance in the development of the great American tragedy, our China policy.

Until these files were examined, little comfirmatory evidence was available to show the extent of the I.P.R.'s activities. The files disclosed the entire story. No one has denied the authenticity of these files or of any document taken from them, and no one could, because the files contained original documents, some typewritten, some in longhand, some with marginal notes.

CHAPTER TWENTY

EMILY was forced to admit she felt no special urge to return to Joy Street and she was honestly glad to feel that she was being of some service to her grandmother. She worked in her garden herself again now, when it was warm enough. When Brian was home on leave, he frequently joined her there. Emily kept the wine closet well stocked and went in and out of the kitchen and pantry as occasion demanded; but she had not once been upstairs again since that night when she had walked from room to room, instinctively listening for sounds which did not come. Deirdre aired and cleaned the premises and reported that everything about them was unchanged. Emily was quite willing to take her word for it.

However, since Old Mrs. Forbes seemed to feel so strongly that someone should supervise every nook and corner of the house on Louisburg Square, Emily did this meticulously; and one day she asked Brian if he would care to go to the attic with her; she thought he might find it interesting. He did not quite see what an attic might possibly provide that would be intriguing; but he was entirely amenable to going there with Emily, if that was what she wanted him to do. So they climbed the last steep flight of stairs together and, when they reached the door at the top, she handed him a large key. As she did so, he noticed for the first time, that she had two small glasses in her hand.

"What are those for? To catch rain water when the roof leaks?"

"You don't suppose Grandmamma permits leaks in her roof, do you, Brian? Or that glasses this size would hold enough rain water to do any good, if there were one? Have a little patience, you'll see what these are for."

He unlocked the door and opened it. Directly in front of him stood rows of great hand-blown bottles, which were among Old Mrs. Forbes' most cherished possessions. The bottles were filled with rum and the neck of each was encircled by a chain, to which a tag was attached. He bent over and inspected the nearest one.

"'This rum was taken in this container around the Horn—1830, 1838, 1845,'" he read. "Why! It's more than a hundred years old!"

"Certainly it is. Look at some of those other labels. The old theory was that the prolonged rolling and pitching of sailing vessels improved the quality—in addition to aging of course."

"Here's another bottle that went around the Cape of Good Hope—three of them, by golly!"

"Yes, those are supposed to be the best of all. Now you know what the two glasses are for. We'll draw up a couple of those old tavern chairs, over in the corner, and have a drink of Great-Grandfather's super-special brand."

The tavern chairs to which Emily had referred certainly provided ideal seats for the enjoyment of entertainment conveniently at hand; and after Brian had placed them where Emily had designated, and filled the glasses from one of the bottles labeled GOOD HOPE, he leaned back, alternately sipping and sighing with satisfaction.

"Why didn't you ever bring me here before?" he inquired at length. "I'd say, without a moment's hesitation that this is the most interesting place in the house."

"Well, at the risk of having you pull that old line about the number of things I never think of, in spite of the treat I've just given you, I've got to confess that I never did think of this before—I mean of bringing anyone up here with me. I've just thought of the attic as a place I'd got to inspect, in the course of regular household routine, to make sure it was in order. I never thought of it as the setting for a tete-a-tete."

"I'd say it had everything needed for that—seclusion, comfort, atmosphere and the means of unlimited refreshment."

"I didn't intend to have the amount of refreshment unlimited, Briny."

He set down his glass, suddenly grave. "That's not worrying you, is it, Emily?"

"Isn't what worrying me?"

"That I drink too much?"

"No-o-o. I've always supposed you were a little on the thirsty side, as the saying goes. But that's really none of my affair, is it?"

"It might be. So I'd really like to set your mind at rest on that score. I did used to drink too much, now and again. But I just want you to tell me you're not afraid I'll ever disgrace you."

"Briny, I just said it really wasn't any of my affair."

"And I just said that it might be. Now I'll say that I hope more than anything in the world it will be."

She had continued to toy with her glass while they talked. Now she set it down on the floor beside her, as he had done with his.

"I'm not sure I know just what you mean, Briny," she said quietly.

"You aren't? Why, you must be! You must know I've been in love with you for years! You must know that I've waited and waited for the time to come when I thought it was decent to ask you to marry me."

"But I didn't! It never occurred to me that you were in love with me. In the beginning, I thought you rather disliked me."

"Disliked you! I fell in love with you at first sight. But after all, you were married to my best friend!"

"I tell you, it never occurred to me," Emily repeated persistently. The words came rapidly and she spoke with heightened color. "You didn't act as if you were in love with me!"

"Well, we might as well have a showdown. And, from what you've just said, I gather you expected me to do some kind of pretty violent love-making, either before Roger's death or very soon afterward."

"No—no!" Emily exclaimed again. "I didn't expect you to do that then, any more than I expected you to tell me just now that you wanted to marry me. I thought you did get to like me, after a while. And then, when Roger died, I thought you were sorry for me."

"I was. I was damn sorry for you. I knew what you were going through. No one could help being sorry for you who knew that."

"Well, and then you tried to help me realize there was still something ahead of me. Something worth waiting for."

"Yes. Gradually I tried to get it into your head that you couldn't live all the rest of your life with a memory. You're too young! You're too lovely! You're too—too feminine! You're bound to fall in love again. It's just as normal for you to do that as it was for you to grieve when Roger died. You were made to have children, you'd be a wonderful mother. You can't thwart nature, the way you were trying to do. You ought to be married right now. You're going to marry me, no matter what I have to do to make you! You'll be so glad, afterward, that you won't care!"

When Dagmar, one of TV's ten less-dressed women, exited from a stage door, certain young gentlemen were clamoring for her autograph. The one she accommodated first was a budding diplomat who said, "I recognized you by your voice."

Jan de Hartog, author of the stage hit, "The Fourposter," says he learned about telling stories when he was the youngest member of the crew of the schooner "Rising Hope." The bo'sun drew him aside on deck one day and said, "Kid, you repeat too many stories. It isn't the number of stories you tell that wins you a reputation in that field, it's their quality. Check your results before you add a tale to your permanent collection. Tell it first, for example, to the cook. Then wait outside the galley and listen. If the cook tells your story to the next fellow he sees, you're in! If he doesn't, forget it." De Hartog says he still follows that system. . .I try to myself.

news behind the news

By Ray Tucker

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22—A full dress review and revision of American foreign policy has been necessitated by a stunning defeat which the United States recently suffered within the United Nations. It demonstrates that this country cannot buy friendship, alliances or world peace even with the expenditures of billions of dollars annually.

The General Assembly's Economic and Financial Committee, an extremely important body, adopted by sizable vote a resolution which bars the United States from giving any protection to private investments overseas.

It even prevents our State Department from making vocal or written representations on behalf of American firms whose foreign properties are jeopardized by nationalization, confiscation or outright seizure.

ANTI-U. S. — Ironically, this amazing prohibition was proposed by Iran, which has successfully nationalized British petroleum holdings, and by Bolivia, which has taken over valuable and strategic tin mines owned by British and U. S. interests.

The anti-American vote was so large in several tests that adoption of the resolution by the General Assembly itself seems certain. Meanwhile, it is expected that spokesmen for both President Truman and President-elect Eisenhower will try to persuade the recalcitrant majority that they are biting off their own noses to spite the only power sufficiently well - heeled to develop their resources.

UNDERMINED—The 31-nation ultimatum, especially if it is ratified by the General Assembly, will undermine our present strategy in the cold war, which relies on Point Four, Mutual Security and similar expenditures to win us allies in any showdown with Russia. It casts considerable doubt on the value of the $12 billion Marshall Plan investment.

It comes at a time, too, when President Truman, Secretary Acheson and Mutual Security Administrator Harriman, as recently revealed here, have framed a program for encouragement and stimulation of huge private investments abroad

SCHEME DISCUSSED — Under their scheme, which has been discussed with Eisenhower's aides in this field, the United States was to expand enormously the system under which full or percentage recovery of exported funds is guaranteed by the U. S. Treasury. This sort of business-like assistance was supposed to surplant the current operations involving direct government loans and grants.

However, in view of the temper of the prospective beneficiaries, it is dubious whether Messrs. Eisenhower, Dulles, Humphrey and Stassen will look up on this suggestion as feasible. Even if they should, it is questionable whether Congress would approve or appropriate the money for it. The UN is already in the black books of many prominent men on Capitol Hill, including Delegate-Senator Wiley.

NEWS FOR STALIN—The outcome was a complete victory for the Soviet, as paralyzing to us in the diplomatic and foreign aid field as the North Korean attack has been to us in the military realm. Almost immediately afterward, Delegate Andrei Vishinsky took ship for home to report the good news to Stalin.

The vote on the key measure was 41 in favor, with only the United States opposed. Nineteen nations, including Britian and the Commonwealth bloc, did not vote because the Bolivia-Iran resolution violated their constitutions. Had they not abstained, they would probably have lined up with us Arrayed against the U.S. were the Latin-American, Asian, Arab and Soviet countries.

LEADS TEST—When the U. S. representative tried to postpone a showdown, the lineup against us was 25-3. Worst of all from our standpoint, the principal opponent on this test was the spokesman from King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia, who is supposed to be our good friend.

He is almost the only Middle East ruler who has not moved to break his petroleum agreements with American oil firms, largely because they have boosted his royalties to 50 per cent.

This clear-cut evidence of the rising tide of nationalism threatens new trouble in many hitherto quiescent areas. It accompanies rumblings of nationalization movements against U. S. oil firms in Venezuela, Iraq and elsewhere. It may also endanger investments in factories, utilities and railroads, as well as in natural resources overseas.

PROPAGANDA — In effect, it gives UN approval to the revolt against "colonialism" in North Africa, the Middle East, Indo-China, Egypt and China. It indicates that our erstwhile friends have been influenced by Moscow propaganda branding public and private financial aid from this country as "imperialism."

It is a fiery cross of world-wide rebellion against the old system, as well as Truman-Acheson well-meant modifications of it, which Eisenhower and the incoming secretary of state, John Foster Dulles, must heed.

Incidentally, although the State Department has not publicized this UN action or its reaction to the threat, the question has been discussed off the record with members of the new administration.

Sunday Afternoon Tea Given In Eshelman Home

Sisters Honored At Yule Event

Mrs. John Eshelman of N. Pickaway St. entertained Sunday afternoon with a tea for her daughters, Miss Sally Eshelman, who is a student at Laurel school in Cleveland, and Miss Nancy Eshelman, a student at Denison university.

Guests called between the hours of 5 p. m. and 7 p. m.

Miss Norma Howard, Miss Barbara Huston, Miss Beverly Huston and Miss Jean Heine, all of Circleville, Miss Patricia Hamman, Miss Gail Dunlap and Miss Shirley Dunlap of Williamsport and Miss Connie Mettler of Laurelville.

Assisting Mrs. Eshelman were Mrs. Crist, Mrs. Robert Musser, Mrs. Theodore Huston, Mrs. Luther Bower, Mrs. James I. Smith, Jr., and Mrs. Lemuel Weldon.

Household Hints

Washing improves table linens. Every time you use your fine linens, look for food stains immediately after the meal, and soak or sponge them out. Use cool water for egg, ice cream, meat and fresh fruit stains; warmer water for milk, cream sauces, candy and cocoa. Then launder them in hot soapsuds.

Cheap cutlery requires frequent sharpening and will not keep a keen edge long enough to warrant professional treatment. It pays to buy good knives. In sharpening knives at home on a steel or stone, hold the blade at an angle of about 15 degrees for best results. When using a rotary grinder, pull the blade through repeatedly, but don't push it back and forth.

Hospital Staff Is Entertained At Yule Dinner

Purina Employes, Families Honored At Annual Dinner

Approximately 200 persons were present for the annual banquet given for employes and their families of the Ralston Purina Company, Saturday evening.

Preceding the dinner, Mrs. Verneal Thomas played half an hour of Christmas music on the organ in the First Evangelical United Brethren church. Each lady present was given a Christmas corsage.

Decorations, Miss Margie Merz and Glen Hines, chairmen, Bonnie Greeno, Patricia Eitel, John Downs, Carl Dumm, Glenn Justice, Tom Henkle and Martha Barthelmas; Food, Vaden Couch, chairman, Marvin Jenkins, and Marion Steinhauser.

Mr. Couch, local manager, presented the following service awards: desk pen sets for five years service to Mr. Steinhauser, Homer Barr, John Seyfang, Verneal Thomas and Richard Drum; ring or travel alarm clock for 10 years to Chester Spangler, Harold McNeal, Clell McNeal, Harry Shell and John Carle; wrist watch for 15 years service to Kenneth Baldwin and Kirk Cupp, and one share preferred stock to Robert Norpoth for 25 years service.

Ray Friend made the presentations for the driver awards, which were as follows: Ray O'Neal, who holds top honors in the whole company for a total of 460 thousand safe miles driven in nine years; James Steele, Harry Shell, Ellis Norman, Harold Davis, Charles Lagore, Chester Starkey and Richard Drum.

Santa Claus was present to distribute gifts among the group and music was given by a quartet comprised of Jack Miller, Mrs. Robert Spears, Miss Martha Barthelmas and John Carle, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Vaden Couch.

Guest speaker for the evening was the Rev. Troutman, who told of his trip to Europe the past Summer. Mrs. Troutman was also a guest. The Rev. Troutman presented Miss Merz with a red rose corsage for her many years service to the Lutheran church.

Following the banquet, a dance was held in Memorial Hall for the group.

Merchants Asking Customers To Go Easy On Store Clerks

Circleville merchants, prepared for the last big shopping nights before Christmas, have sent out an SOS—"Save Our Sales-people"—in hopes of easing the final buying jam on their employes.

Store executives, sales-people and the customers around the big corner at Main and Court seem agreed the main weight of the Christmas shopping may develop on Monday night, with Tuesday buying limited only to the desperate and absent-minded.

There was variance of views, however, while city stores were taking a firm grip for the last big buying spree of 1952.

As for the merchants themselves, their attitude could be summed up in the remark:

"Let 'em come! And if they look locally before they look in Columbus, they'll find all they want for the same price or better in Circleville."

Men and women of the sales staffs meanwhile joined in one fervent prayer:

"I HOPE when the customers hit us on this last big night or so, they'll try to decide pretty well what they want before they come in. It's too late now just to shop around as a person could do at other times, and we're going to be awfully, awfully busy!"

The customers? They're too busy concentrating on the piled-high counters to talk much, but their main desires in the final buying panic seemed boiled down to two:

1. They want enough sales-people on duty so they won't have to wait an unreasonable length of time.

2. They hope the average clerk has a fair knowledge of stock in other parts of the store.

The latter point arises from claims by some customers that clerks lack even a general knowledge of stock beyond their own departments.

Some merchants, in turn, point out a degree of this trouble can hardly be avoided during a heavy buying season like the Christmas rush, due to the necessity of hiring extra help who have little or no opportunities to learn anything beyond their own duties.

Aside from such matters pro and con, there was a general feeling that Monday night's shopping could be delightfully rough on the customers and still rougher on the clerks.

THAT'S WHY a number of the store owners agreed it would help a lot if the buying public, before it hits the line this last time or two for the Yuletide, could follow a few plain rules:

1. Try to have an idea of just about what you want before you go into the store.

2. Be as patient as you can when waiting for a clerk. By nine o'clock the sales-people are going to be foot-weary too.

3. Don't hold a clerk with small talk after you've transacted your business. There are probably several others waiting for a chance to buy.

MITCHELL FARM and HOME STORE
FIVE POINTS, OHIO

So long as we have these things...

Christmas, 1952 . . .

Across the land, the bright lights go on, and bells chime out the beloved carols . . .

The postman's pouch grows heavier and heavier . . .

Little folk memorize lines for Christmas pageants . . . and their elders bring out replicas of the manger and figures of the Holy Family, the Wise Men and the Angels.

Holly wreaths appear in windows, and homes become fragrant with the perfume of firs, cedars and pines, and Christmas cooking . . .

Everywhere, the joyful anticipation of Christmas is so robust and real that you can almost reach out across the land and touch it.

This Christmas, may our homes be filled with light and laughter, and may the fires burn bright and warm in our hearths . . .

May there be cheer in our voices for those we pass, and the handclasp of friendship for those who linger with us . . .

May we have hearts filled with forgiveness and selflessness . . .

May we have prayers for our fellow Americans who are fighting to preserve liberty . . . for strangers as well as neighbors.

So long as we have these things, we will give and receive the full reward of Christmas . . . we will keep Christmas, in all its sacredness, in our hearts . . . and Christmas will strengthen us in the hope it gives men of good will.

'Case Of Missing Letter' Could Lead To Higher Fire Rates Here

Higher fire insurance rates for Circleville property owners loomed as a possibility Monday as "The Case of the Missing Letter," rolled back to the first chapter, appears to be going into the records unsolved.

Overshadowing the mystery itself is the fact the Ohio Inspection Bureau has recommended city fire department personnel be "at least' doubled—and the bureau, if its recommendations aren't accepted, could cause a boost in fire insurance rates for the community.

The bureau has notified Circleville it is waiting to see what action the city will take on its suggestion, which would give the city a minimum 15-man fire department. At least one city councilman has indicated the lawmakers feel the bureau's recommendations needn't cause anyone serious concern, however.

"We're always getting their recommendations," he said. "It's a routine they follow."

CITY FIREMEN, on the other hand, warn "there's nothing routine about it—and it's a serious question that the city better get around to answering before the bureau sends its survey men down here and puts us all in a higher rate bracket."

Behind the present status of the problem, one clearly rooted in the thin soil of city finances, is the unsolved "Case of the Missing Letter."

The missing communication was the original letter in which the inspection bureau sent its recommendations to Mayor Ed Amey last October. The mayor said he never received it.

The bureau mailed the letter here last Oct. 10. After waiting on the assumption the mayor had received his copy, Fire Chief Talmer Wise showed his own copy to Amey just prior to the meeting of City Council Dec. 2. The mayor promptly turned Wise's copy over to Council Clerk Fred Nicholas.

NICHOLAS, contacted after the Council meeting, said it hadn't been read and added he didn't recall any request that it be read. Later, however, he checked his records and announced the letter had been read to Council "almost as the last thing before adjournment."

However, the fact that the letter was read without apparently getting the attention it deserves has since become unimportant with the big questions arising from the muddle:

What action, if any, is the city going to take on the inspection bureau's recommendation?

Wise's copy of the communication was signed by Harry L. Krieger, assistant manager of the Ohio Inspection Bureau in Columbus. The bureau is maintained by fire insurance firms to aid in adjustment of rates for various communities.

Krieger told how, on last Oct .1, he attended a meeting here of the Rural Township Fire Association, this city's fire-fighting link with the townships. Krieger made it clear he sat in on the meeting because of the bureau's "fire insurance rating" interest. Then he continued:

"In the discussion it was brought out that response to the township was only with one man and that response to the city of Circleville on certain days would be with only two men plus such untrained volunteers as could be recruited at the time of a fire. It is, of course, to be realized that untraihed men are more of a liability than an asset.

"NOT ONLY for response to the rural areas but also for much needed response to the city, it is, first of all, recommended that as many additional full-time men be provided as is possible; then, in addition to this, it is also recommended that a call force of at least 15 members be provided, the whole department then to be well trained as a unit.

"No attempt is being made in this letter to go into items other than manpower, for a survey was not made of other things; but in order for the city to have some degree of protection and at the same time grade as well as possible on this particular item, it is suggested that some action be taken on this.

"Will you please keep us informed as to what has been done."

Aussies Send Gift To Man Riding Boat

KURE, Japan (AP)—A group of Australian sergeants have sent two bottles of Christmas cheer—with aspirins attached—to Patrick Michael O'Brien, the man with a ferry but without a country.

O'Brien has been on the Hong Kong-Macao ferry for the past three months, shuttling back and forth between the British and Portuguese colonies because authorities will not give him a permit to land. His citizenship is in question.

Australian sergeants of the British Commonwealth base here got to talking about who should be remembered at Christmas time. O'Brien's name popped up.

It contained cigarettes, clothing, handkerchiefs and playing cards.

Baron Rothschild Weds Ex-Actress

LOCUST VALLEY, N. Y. (AP) — Baron Eugene de Rothschild and Miss Jeanne Stuart, former British actress, were married yere yesterday.

Rothschild is a member of the international banking family. His first wife died six years ago.

Sokolsky's

At one point, Lattimore said, "am I a citizen of America, or a subject of Czechoslovakia or Franco Spain? Am I expected to run around snooping on my fellow citizens?"

"Senator O'Conor. . . That statement is entirely unnecessary. The question of Senator Ferguson did not call for any such outburst as that. Now, will you kindly confine yourself to the question that is asked, and I think if it is answered in the same manner in which the question is asked, there will be no difficulty."

This sort of thing went on for days. In spite of an obvious effort to confuse the Committee, Lattimore contradicted himself. It is on the basis of these contradictions, carefully culled from the record, that the McCarran Committee cited Owen Lattimore to the Attorney General for perjury.

Attorney General James McGranery put a staff to work on the record, with the result that some of the contradictions, the ones which in the view of the Government's lawyers were not lapses of memory, but deliberate falsehoods, were placed before the Federal Grand Jury in Washington for an indictment.

That Grand Jury heard a number of witnesses and voted the indictment unanimously.

That does not establish Owen Lattimore's guilt. It merely gives him his day in court where he may, if he can, disprove the charges.

However, a case such as this, if properly handled in the courts, can open many doors which are now closed.

Big Ten 5s Involved In Upset Series

CHICAGO (AP)—With the Big Ten cage season no more than well started, its already evident a smooth round basketball can take funny bounces, just like a football

At least two week end basketball results were reminders of the wild 1952 football campaign that saw virtually every conference team figure in some sort of sensational upset.

Michigan State's unheralded Spartans dazed mighty Kansas State Saturday 80-63. The surprise decision came just a day after the Kansans, ranked number two in the nation, had ended Notre Dame's undefeated record with an 80-83 setback.

Notre Dame Saturday night beat UCLA 68-60. The Uclans had taken Michigan State 80-64 the previous evening as part of a two-night doubleheader in East Lansing.

Purdue, able to win only one of three early nonconference games, opened its Big Ten season with a startling 65-59 conquest of previously unbeaten Wisconsin.

Indiana, another team with a 1-2 nonconference record, debuted in the Big Ten with a resounding 88-60 triumph over Michigan, which has lost three straight league games after a solid start against outsiders.

Other Big Ten and Midwest independent action Saturday saw Illinois continue unbeaten with a 75-59 beating of Butler, Ohio State take Pittsburgh 76-70 and Nebraska beat Bradley 73-65.

Torrid Pickaway County League Contests Halt For Next 2 Weeks

Pickaway County's highly-inflammable basketball league will be idle for two weeks during holiday vacations.

At just beyond the half-way mark in this year's county league, the eventual championship is a tossup, with any one of six teams capable of landing on top.

The league was thrown into a mixup during the last two weeks of operations when two of the previously undefeated favorites were knocked off, one of them twice.

Ashville's Broncos, strong contenders for the title, were downed two weeks ago by Scioto's Buffalos, and again last Friday night.

AND JACKSON'S Wildcats were handed their first taste of defeat in six starts last Friday night when they bowed to Pickaway's Pirates.

At the halfway point, Jackson still leads in the county battle with five wins in six starts.

But ranking just behind the 'Cats are five other teams who have only two losses each and who would step up if the Wildcats lose one more.

And four of the other county teams have only three losses to date, all seeking upsets in the upper bracket. Only Monroe's Indians have been unsuccessful this season, having lost all six of its league games to date.

Only Ashville and Walnut have games carded during the Christmas vacation.

Walnut is sponsoring a four-team round-robin tournament Friday and Saturday nights, with Ashville, Bremen and Hamilton Township participating.

On the first night, Walnut will meet Hamilton and Ashville will meet Bremen. On Saturday night, winners of the two games and losers of the two games will meet Each evening's activities are expected to begin at about 7:30 p. m

Next on tap for county schools will be Jan. 2, when three games are carded. Pickaway will travel to Clarksburg, Williamsport will invade Kingston and Darby will travel to Wurtland, Ky.

Darby also will travel to Greenup, Ky., on Jan. 3 to complete its trip.

Complete standings of the county league to date follow:

School Children To Be Admitted Free At Game

All school-age children will be admitted free Tuesday night to the Circleville-St. Charles basketball game in Pickaway Fairgrounds Coliseum.

But there is a catch. Each child admitted free of admission must be accompanied by an adult.

Tom Bennett, faculty manager of Circleville high school, said the special offer is being made in an effort to get the older fans out to the game, giving them a chance to see what the school team has to offer.

Falling Pole Gives Awful Impression At Meeting On Dump

Local Shopper Has To Yield Teddy Bear

Search Fails To Net Girls Peeved Over Circleville Rents

Little acts from Circleville's passing show:

When members of City Council filed into Pickaway County Commissioners' office not so long ago for a huddle on what to do about the municipal dump, County Engineer Henry T. McCrady happened to be present and snickered on his way out the door:

"This looks like it might be rough, and I'm going to get out of here while the getting's good."

A moment later, an eight-foot window pole leaning in a corner near Councilman Ray Cook toppled over and missed the head of Commissioner Bill Goode by four and three-quarter inches.

The pole was still clattering across the commissioners' desk when somebody in the adjoining office of County Auditor Fred Tipton chuckled:

"See! They're at it already!"

WHAT'S ALL this talk about a Christmas shopper who claims he walked into a downtown store carrying a teddy bear and had it taken away from him? Things have come to a pretty pass when a guy's teddy bear isn't safe in his own arms!

But maybe times are changing, and it certainly seemed that way not so long ago when two worried women stormed into the Pickaway County Engineers' office.

Both seemed to be from somewhere in the Columbus area, and one lost no time in getting down to business.

"Where," she demanded, "is the rent control board around this place?"

When it was explained no rent control office has ever been established here although the future may bring one about, the girls looked at each other knowingly and nodded in the manner of those who see through monkeyshines all of the sudden.

"Well," snorted the talking member of the pair, "that explains an awful lot! No rent control board, eh? No wonder the people around this burg are getting away with murder! The sooner I get moved out of Circleville the better I'll like it!"

And with that they were gone again—so furious and so fast that even a hot-foot chase down Court street couldn't locate the ladies to find out who got away with what.

EVEN NOW, in this time of goodwill and general merriment, there may be reasons to be furious—even if all you can do is go over in a corner and chew on the radiator.

Take the Post Office crews for example, and their current grief with careless handwriting—one of the biggest proofs that America is, and for a long time has been, in an awful hurry.

Just as they do in post offices all over the land, and in almost every other line of activity, Pickaway County folks every day find handwriting that looks as though it may have been done holding the pen or pencil between one's toes. But nary a one should cast a stone without first checking his or her own glass house, and while the habit lacks a good excuse we scribblers nevertheless have lots of company.

Furthermore, the people who print business forms of various types may be held partly responsible. When a person is told to "fill in" a blank or "write on the dotted line," and then finds the blank or line less than one-fourth long enough, there's only one solution.

And that's to write the whole thing in the one hopeless scrawl.

"There's not room enough here to write what you want," complained the weary shopper with a form-to-be-made-out in hand.

"That's all right," the twice-as-weary clerk replied, "I probably won't be able to read what you write anyway."

THE SINGING mood already has the local community in a firm grip, and that goes for a juke box that plays whenever it feels the urge at a downtown restaurant.

Apparently because it had just recognized a coin dropped in by a customer sometime previous, the music-maker suddenly burst forth with one of the latest tunes one recent morning when nobody even had music in mind—much less paying for it.

A waitress glanced around for customers who may have dropped in the coin, saw none, and shrugged:

"I'm getting out of this place. It's haunted!"

One local store that doesn't want public credit for the co-operation it feels it has done a good deed in behalf of the county-wide campaign against rats. An elderly gentleman phoned in from the rural sections to say he wanted two pounds of rat poison but wanted it delivered. It was delivered, and now may it do its duty—all two pounds of it!

Pickaway County's rat campaigners, by the way, should be told about that lady in Detroit who recently was brought into court for the way she rat-proofed her house. Neighbors, it seems, said she did such a good job of plugging up the holes that the rats already inside couldn't get out.

Fast talk in the great American home:

(In the course of a rambling tale about some early boy friend who was able to dodge arrest as a juvenile delinquent and made a big impression on the girls.)

"I'll tell you one thing! He was very kind and courteous, and when he had that automobile he offered to take me anywhere I wanted to go."

"Ha! One of the first of the mobile wolves! Didn't he say anything about etchings?"

"No, he didn't. But now that you mention it I did notice him scratch."

More State Financial Aid For Schools Asked By OEA

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Education Association wound up its 31st annual convention today after adopting a legislative program asking the state for more financial help in school assistance.

A 21-point program proposed to the 650 delegates by the OEA's executive committee was rushed through with only minor changes.

One proposal in the legislative program adopted earlier in the day is to ask the 100th General Assembly to hike the state guaranteed minimum level from the present $125 to $150 per elementary pupil and from $150 to $180 per high school pupil.

Another will urge legislators to raise the flat distribution to all pupils from $57 to $75 per elementary pupil and from $67 to $90 per high school pupil.

All public schools get the same flat distribution fees from the state. However, the state contributes toward the minimum level only when the districts fail to collect locally.

AN INCREASE of $12 million to aid new building construction, building rehabilitation and equipment for distressed areas; an increase of $4½ million in state aid for school bus purchases, and a raise in the starting and top salary limits under the state teachers minimum salary law are other major points urged in the program.

Other plans in the OEA legislative program include:

Creation of a state board of education by constitutional amendment, increased state support for vocational education and handicapped children, abolition of the 14 school districts which do not maintain schools.

Allocation of 100 per cent of the state film censorship fees to the state department of education (50 per cent is now allocated), and continuation of the present 8 per cent debt limitation to enable school boards to raise more funds locally for school building construction.

Carl H. Shanks of Wilmington was elected new OEA president.

The Ohio County Superintendents Association, meeting in conjunction with the OEA, elected Samuel E. Martin of Tiffin, president.

Other new presidents named by groups were:

Ohio Elementary Principals Association: Mrs. Sue Beeghly of Dayton.

Bad Weather Hits Central Part Of U.S.

CHICAGO (AP)—Snow, sleet and rain hit wide areas in the central part of the country today, curtailing travel on the highways and in the air.

The precipitation belt extended from Arkansas northward through Southern Minnesota and eastward into the Great Lakes region and the Lower Ohio River Valley.

The snow, up to seven inches, was confined to the extreme northern part of the storm-swept area. There was no severe cold. Lowest readings were near zero in Northern Minnesota.

The fresh falls of snow gave the northern states a wintry look on the last day of the autumn season. Winter makes its official entry at 4:44 p. m., EST, Sunday.

Travel was hazardous on highways over many sections hit by the freezing rain and snow. The sleet continued early today in Southwestern Lower Michigan, parts of Southwestern Iowa and in Southeast Nebraska. Rain fell in the southwestern portions of the precipitation area.

Snowfalls measuring up to seven inches were reported in sections of Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas and Wisconsin. Snow also fell in Minnesota and the Dakotas. The storms hit as the volume of home-bound highway traffic increased with the closing of colleges for the Christmas holidays.

Price Of Justice Said Too High

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. (AP)—Eighty-four manslaughter indictments brought by the state of New Jersey against the Pennsylvania Railroad for the deaths of 85 persons in the 1951 Woodbridge train wreck have been dismissed because it would cost too much to bring them to trial.

Middlesex County Prosecutor Alex Eber in getting the dismissal Friday estimated it would cost the taxpayers more than $25,000 on each indictment for which the maximum penalty is a $1,000 fine.

Ike Believes His New Team Of Businessmen A Good One

NEW YORK (AP)—President-elect Eisenhower is counting on the civilian team of businessmen who will head the armed services in his administration to save the taxpayers money without jeopardizing defense.

Eisenhower reportedly placed much emphasis on a need for what one aide called "sound American business sense" in his now completed search for a defense high command to direct the spending of billions of dollars.

His first step, taken late last month, was to choose Charles E. Wilson, the veteran president of General Motors, as secretary of defense to head the civilian team.

Eisenhower wanted not only a man who knew production but one schooled in the ways of getting full value out of every dollar.

He and Wilson looked for experienced businessmen to head the Army, Navy and Air Force Departments. Friday Eisenhower announced the selection of:

Robert Ten Broeck Stevens, 53, of South Plainfield, N. J., as secretary of the Army.

He is a textile executive and also is chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. He served as a colonel in the quartermaster general's office during World War II.

Robert Bernerd Anderson, 42, of Vernon, Tex., as secretary of the Navy. A Democrat, he is manager of a half-million acre ranch, one of the largest in Texas. He also is chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas.

Harold E. Talbott, 64, of New York, as secretary of the Air Force. He is a member of the Chrysler Corp. finance committee, a former chairman of the board of the North American Aviation Company and a former president of the Dayton Wright Company. During the World War II he served as director of aircraft production for the War Production Board.

Eisenhower also named Roger M. Kyes, 46, of Bloomfield Hills, Mich., deputy secretary of defense. Like Wilson, under whom he will serve, Kyes is a General Motors executive—general manager of the corporation's motor truck and coach division.

All of the defense high command appointees are Republicans except Anderson. All are resigning their private jobs.

Aides said Eisenhower is delighted about the business backgrounds of all of the men and feels their experience should assure savings without endangering defense.

During the campaign Eisenhower pledged repeatedly to work for a cut in federal spending. He reportedly feels there is room for savings in the military field, where he has spent most of his life.

In completing selection of top civilians in the defense setup, Eisenhower also let it be known he wants to name another woman to a post in his administration.

Mrs. Mary B. Lord of New York conferred with the general Friday and said afterward that he had authorized her to say he had offered her a job. She said she was considering the offer and would decide in a few days.

Mrs. Lord was co-chairman of the National Citizens for Eisenhower Committee.

Santa Quits Job; Says Kids 'Too Rough'

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Santa Claus quit because "the kids played too rough."

Harold Barker, an 18-year-old freshman student at Loyola University of the South, decided Friday that his role as Santa Claus in a New Orleans gasoline station was just too rugged.

All he had to do was give away lollipops and balloons and act cheerful.

Barker became frustrated and frazzled an hour after he reported for work Thursday when about 200 children decided to take matters in their own hands.

They grabbed all the balloons and lollipops and in the confusion, Santa's buttons and wig were ripped off.

Children overflowed into the street, cars couldn't get near the gas pumps and traffic was snarled.

With the speed of Dasher and Dancer, Santa fled to the safety of the station house and attendants secured the doors.

"They were just being friendly," puffed Santa wearily, "but they played too rough."

Two Nights Set For Home Judging

Judging for Circleville's Christmas-trimmed homes will be held both on Saturday night and Sunday night.

It was first planned for judging on Sunday night. Then plans were made to have judging on Saturday night.

Joe Bell, head of the Chamber of Commerce committee on the program, said many persons have contacted him to complain they had planned on the first announcement and would not begin trimming their homes until Sunday.

"So we have decided to judge city homes both nights," Bell said.

Taft Assured Of Top Post

Senate Floor Leader Job Going To Ohioan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Taft of Ohio was all but elected as the new Senate's Republican floor leader today in a fresh burst of party harmony.

Backstage maneuvering for the post apparently came to an end Friday with the announcement by Taft that he was a candidate for the job and that he had assurances from Sen. Bridges (R-NH) and Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) that they were not seeking the position.

Taft's announcement was preceded earlier in the week by a statement from Sen. Carlson (R-Kan) clearly indicating that President-elect Eisenhower had no objection to the Ohio senator becoming the GOP floor leader in the Senate session starting Jan. 3.

Carlson was one of Eisenhower's close advisers during the presidential campaign, and what he had to say was regarded by senators as signifying a desire by the President-elect to avoid any breach with Taft.

EARLIER, SOME senators had misgivings, not only because of Taft's fight against Eisenhower for the GOP presidential nomination but also because of his recent blast against the President-elect's choice of Martin P. Durkin to be secretary of labor.

Taft called the selection of Durkin for the Cabinet post an "incredible appointment," saying the Chicago union official was a Democrat who had fought Eisenhower's election and advocated repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor act.

In addition, Taft reportedly had been irked that his Cabinet recommendations had not been given consideration, and that a number of close associates of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, long his party rival, had been picked by Eisenhower for top spots.

Republican senators felt, however, that Carlson had taken pains to flash the signal that Eisenhower wanted to avoid a continuing quarrel with Taft.

Antioch Planning Campus Theater

YELLOW SPRINGS (AP)—Antioch College plans a $300,000 campus theater to house its popular Antioch Area Theater.

Money for the project, the college hopes, will come through the school's $3.7 million New Century Fund drive that began this month.

Originally, the theater group gave its plays in the Yellow Springs village opera house. When it failed to pass fire laws in 1949, the group moved to a foundry on the Antioch campus. This kept the public from seeing any except the out-door summer plays. Now it plans to convert another foundry on the edge of the campus into a theater.

YOUR NOTICE

Final Preparations Being Made To Ready Present For Christmas

Final preparations for attempting to complete Circleville's Christmas present for the Pollock families were underway Saturday despite dripping skies.

Moving onto the scene with power equipment, Gerald Leist, city contractor, aided by Harry Clifton and Fire Chief Talmer Wise, began sizing lumber for Sunday's building operation.

Wise, father of the project to replace the homes destroyed last week by fire, leaving two families without shelter at Christmas time, and Clifton, commander of Circleville American Legion, have devoted the entire week to gathering materials and preparing for Sunday's program.

And, if the weatherman gives any cooperation at all, the house should be fairly well completed by the first of next week.

Using all available donations of cash and materials generously handed out by local firms and individuals, the guiding officials have nearly guaranteed completion by Christmas.

More money could be used for interior supplies, such as panelling and floor underlay and other necessities which may crop up.

Circleville American Legion members, along with other persons interested in having the home completed in time for Christmas, are urged to join in the building program Sunday.

Work at the site, located just behind the ice plant on Island Road, will begin at about 9 a. m. Sunday.

FLANKED BY U. S. marshals, Joseph (Specs) O'Keefe is brought to grand jury hearings in Boston after disclosure of an FBI affidavit that the 44-year-old convict was a "participant" in the $1,219,000 Brink's robbery of January, 1950, in which eight Hallowe'en masked bandits figured. O'Keefe is serving a term in Pennsylvania State prison for gun carrying. The affidavit alleges that when O'Keefe was in jail in July, 1950, a telephone conversation to his supposed wife in Stoughton, Mass., implicated him.

Friends Rally Around Polio Victim Facing Eviction Order

CHICAGO (AP) — The Christmas spirit was evident in suburban Park Ridge Friday and happiness came to a 27-year-old woman polio victim facing eviction from her home.

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Kitsmiller, who is almost completely paralyzed from polio and is confined to an iron lung, faces eviction for non-payment of rent to her mother-in-law.

In the first day after the story of the eviction order, friends and neighbors contributed more than $500 to the stricken woman.

She and her son, James H. III, 6, and her parents have been ordered to vacate from a six-room bungalow in 90 days. The eviction order was obtained by Mrs. Kitsmiller's mother-in-law, Mrs. Marion Kitsmiller, 50, of Evanston, for failure to pay $95 a month rent.

The Park Ridge Lions Club started the fund with $150.

POLICE CHIEF Willis F. Jones said more than $500 had been raised, including $201 turned in by a woman who canvassed a neighborhood.

The Rev. George Green of the suburb's Community Church, said a group of residents would ask Mayor Alfred Haake to organize a community-wide effort on behalf of the stricken woman. He said he hopes enough money could be raised to buy the house "so Mrs. Kitsmiller won't have to move."

The money - raising campaign was not the only note of cheer for the polio victim.

Friday night 25 men from the Park Ridge Men's Chorus serenaded her with Christmas carols. Earlier, a fully trimmed Christmas tree was taken to the home.

Second Thug Being Tied To Brink's Holdup

BOSTON (AP)—The FBI today reportedly has in custody a second man identified as a participant in the $1,219,000 Brink's holdup.

Reports said FBI affidavits named the unidentified man as having been in the group of hooded gunmen who escaped with the largest American cash haul after tying up five employes in the firm's vaults Jan. 17, 1950.

The man is described as 37 years old and having a long record. He is said to be in custody of the FBI but not necessarily in a penal institution. The inference was drawn that the man might "talk." But U. S. Atty. George F. Garrity had no comment.

The information was said to be based on FBI affidavits no longer available. The papers reportedly said the man at one time had approximately $60,000 of the Brink's holdup money in his possession.

First sworn affidavits, made available Thursday night, named Joseph "Specs" O'Keefe, 44, of Boston as one of the Brink's robbers. But since then, all papers having any connection with the holdup have been removed from files and hidden.

Scout Food Drive Delayed By Rain

A Christmas food-collection drive by Circleville Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts was postponed Saturday because of rain.

The drive will be held after school Monday and until the city is canvassed. Food staples are to be collected for needy families.

Dovie Dean Seen Getting Retrial

BATAVIA (AP)—Mrs. Dovie Dean, who faces a death sentence for the poison death of her husband, may get another trial.

Judge Harry Britton Friday set Jan. 16 as date for arguments on the motion for a new trial for the 54-year-old farmwife. Her defense counsel already has indicated it will battle the case through the higher courts. A Clermont County common pleas jury took only 45 minutes last Saturday to find Mrs. Dean guilty of the first - degree murder of her 68-year-old husband, Hawkins.

Evangelist Lauds Army In Korea

SEOUL (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham today gathered a dozen GIs around a microphone in Seoul to tell American radio listeners that U. S. troops in Korea form "the most compassionate army in history."

On a Christmas program, Graham told of what he had seen in his first week on this war-torn peninsula. The soldiers and airmen who appeared on the program included two Ohioans, Pfc. Tony Reeves of Oberlin and Cpl. Dale E. Wells of Zanesville.

Norway-Turkey Arc Said New Allied Strategy

Latest Setup Radical Change From Previous Western Concepts

PARIS (AP)—Members of the North Atlantic Treaty alliance have accepted a new basic strategy outline radically altering Western defense concepts as a result of the admission of Greece and Turkey into the pact, high military sources disclosed today.

The sources said the new strategy paper, placed before NATO foreign and defense ministers during meetings here this week, drew attention to the fact that, with the admission of Turkey, Allied forces have been brought virtually face-to-face with Russia's Caucasian forces.

Details of the outline, drafted by Allied military planners to take into account the new military position of the West, have been a closely guarded secret. But broadly, it sets the frontiers of Western freedom along the line of a giant transcontinental arc.

The arc stretches from Norway's Arctic tip southward through Denmark, along the line of Germany's Elbe River, then southeastward through Greece to the Turkish-Russian border in the Caucasus, between the Black and Caspian Seas.

This hint of future NATO strategy came after Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway had chided North Atlantic ministers for what he called their decision to slow down the Western European defense build-up.

Obviously irked, the supreme Allied commander declared "there can be no excuse for any slackening of effort in the rapid building of NATO defenses" in the face of a continuing threat of war.

Ridgway deplored economy moves of the North Atlantic Council. He declared:

"We do not know how long we shall be the Kremlin's target, marked for attack by war at a time of its own choosing."

Foreign, finance and defense ministers of the 14-member nations wound up a four-day meeting here after the council cut in half a call by Ridgway for $428 million to build more air bases and other installations in 1953.

Ridgway waited less than 24 hours after the ministers wound up their meeting to deplore its outcome. He said the decisions showed "unimaginative thought."

Until NATO gets the minimum requirements to defend Western Europe against Soviet attack, he said, there can be no "less insistence on our part in urging this action on the proper olitical authorities."

"As the responsible military commander in our present situation," he added, "I reject as unjustifiably dangerous the view that potential aggressors do not want war, are not ready for war and will not precipitate war; that we are in for a long cold war and, therefore, should adjust our plans accordingly."

Ridgway scoffed at what he called "a tendency to think that these things we wish to defend, will not be attacked."

Now We Know What Saucer Is

That's what Dr. Edgar F. Mauer of Los Angeles says in a communique to "Science" magazine.

But what are they? Spots before the eyes, says Dr. Mauer, caused by nearsightedness, upset stomach or migraine headaches.

In Topsy-Turvy Germany, There Are 2 'Princes Of Peace'

BERLIN (AP) — In the West, the Germans are singing:

"Oh little star of Bethlehem..."

In the East, they are chanting:

"Oh, great red star over Moscow..."

It's Christmas time in Germany and like everything else in this topsy-turvy land, there are two sides to even this. There are even two "Princes of Peace."

The West German, following long tradition, pays his yuletide homage to the Nazarene. The East German, dominated completely by Communist rulers, is forced to turn to a disciple of peace who wears the uniform of a marshal of the Soviet Union, Josef Stalin.

Pre-holiday preparations in two-headed Berlin illustrate the wide gulf of the two worlds. The free broke out early with the usual Christmas markets, giant posters of Santa Claus, a splurge of gifts, Christmas trees and ornaments, stepped-up church services, nightly caroling and a gay spirit of good will.

In the Communist East, the accent is on Stalin, "peace," "building socialism," eradicating "enemy spies and saboteurs," and resisting "the Western warmongers."

In East Berlin and throughout the East zone, city streets are full of posters and signs shrilling these familiar Red rantings. Shop windows are full of them, too. There isn't a poster of Santa Claus anywhere.

In the Western stores and factories, collections are being taken up for Christmas parties for the underprivileged. In the Soviet factories, mills and mines, workers are being urged to "exceed production" as a "gift" for Stalin's birthday Dec. 21.

Soviet zone efforts to kill the Christmas spirit by ignoring it appear to be working among the young, rabid Reds. But the older generation still hangs onto the habits and customs of the past.

Shockingly short on consumer goods the Red regime frowns on "wasting" fir trees by adorning them with ornaments and candles. Prices in the state stores are so high the average worker is lucky if he can buy a toy for his child. For most the holiday meal will consist of sausage, potatoes, bread and beer.

In West Berlin, bent by blockade and isolation, the poorest of families will have a goose, or a roast chicken, wine, fruit, nuts and liqueurs for the traditional holiday neighbor who "drops in."

The West Berlin Christmas market is loaded with luxury gifts. A pale, dingy reflection is the East Berlin market which presents household furnishings, books, clothing (mostly cotton), imitation leather goods, ersatz furs and wood carvings.

The Western Allies are collecting many thousands of dollars to provide Christmas parties and gifts for the needy. The Russians take up "collections" for the Korean War.

You Really Want 100-Cent Dollar Back?

Return To Pre-War Economy May Bring Unusual Situation

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—A drop in the cost of living—a restoration of the buying power of the dollar—would be a welcome Christmas present for everyone.

Or would it?

Call it "making a dollar worth 100 cents again", and it sounds fine. Call it "deflation", and a lot of people get worried.

The dollar actually has 100 cents now, as it always did, but inflation has chiselled away much of its buying power.

When you talk of a "52 - cent dollar," you mean that before the war 52 cents would buy as much in goods and services as one dollar will now.

The pre-war dollar bought more finished goods. It also bought more raw materials. And it bought more labor.

Many people, however, had fewer dollars then to spend on goods than they do today.

It is the others—those with only as many dollars a week to spend now as they had before the war—for whom the postwar rise in the cost of living is particularly rough.

Millions, for example, are trying to live on pensions or savings—earned when the dollar bought more, and being spent now when inflation has taken half of its buying power.

To deflate the economy, get back to prewar prices, and make the dollar as hefty in purchasing power as it once was, however, might mean that people would have to take in fewer dollars for the commodities they grow or mine, and get less for transporting them to factories.

Workers in factories and mills might have to take pay cuts. And those who supply factories with tools, materials and services would have to slash their prices—and incomes.

Stores would have to pay less for rent, light, fixtures and clerks than they do now.

Everyone would enjoy paying less for the things he has to buy. Few would relish getting less for the goods or labor he has for sale.

A Virginia farmer says of inflation: "I like having more money. I know it runs right through my fingers when I go to the store. But I like the feel of more of it in my hands."

And a Bloomington, Ill., man writes: "Our dollar is worth 100 cents, always has been and always will be.

"After all, a dollar is simply a token of a day's work, and the more days work there are, the better for everybody and the country in general."

Veterans Life Insurance Fee On Riders Cut

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Veterans Administration announced today a reduction in premium rates charged for total disability income riders on its five-year term National Service Life Insurance policies.

An official told a reporter some 45,000 to 50,000 veterans who had or have the riders will get refund checks which will total about $1½ million.

Under the riders, monthly income of $5 per $1,000 of insurance is provided veterans who become totally disabled for six months or more and their insurance also is continued in effect without further payment of premiums as long as the disability continues.

For some age levels the new rate is about a third of what it formerly was—at age 30 it is $1.07 a year per $1,000 insurance, compared with an old rate of $3.55 a year, and at age 35 it is $1.42 compared with $4.14. At age 55 there is no change, $9.12 a year per $1,000 under the old and new schedules.

Ohio Farmer Net Seen Below 1951

WASHINGTON (AP) — When final returns are in, they probably will show that Ohio farmers as a whole received less for their livestock and crops this year than in 1951.

A farm income report issued by the Agriculture Department showed cash received from farm marketings in Ohio totaled $613,243,000 over the first 10 months of 1952, or $14,410,000 below the 1951 total for the corresponding period.

Westinghouse OKs Special Yule Pay

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The 97,000 employes of Westinghouse Electric Corp. will get a pre-Christmas advance of $25 on retroactive pay due them after recent wage increases.

The pay increase, retroactive to Oct. 1, were approved Wednesday by the Wage Stabilization Board. Westinghouse announced the pay advances Friday "so that our employes can have at least part of the money before Christmas."

Wesley Hill Said To Be Improving

Wesley Hill, 20, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Alonzo Hill of West Corwin street, has been reported in improved condition in a British hospital in Gibraltar.

Hill became seriously ill recently while serving with the U. S. Navy on a Mediterranean cruise.

Shortly after leaving Greece aboard his ship, the former CHS football player grew ill and was transferred to a hospital ship. From there he was transferred into the British Garrison hospital on Gibraltar for specialized treatment.

Mrs. Hill said she learned of her son's improvement while she and Dr. and Mrs. V. D. Kearns of Circleville were in Washington this week.

Mrs. Hill and the Kearnses accompanied the Rev. Alonzo Hill, who left by airplane for Gibraltar to be with his son. The Rev. Mr. Hill was to have arrived at the hospital Saturday morning.

ONCE UPON A CHRISTMAS EVE

By WILLIAM RITT

WHENEVER Eski is sad or troubled, the little Eskimo child goes fishing. So, too worried over the disappearance of Santa's reindeer to sleep, Eski tiptoes out of the family igloo so as not to awaken either Father or Mother.

CARRYING a small-size kayak (that's an Eskimo canoe), the little child heads for the seashore. Maybe, while fishing in the icy waters, Eski can think of a way to help Santa Claus find his reindeer. There must be a way!

SITTING SNUGLY in the small canoe, Eski paddles far out to sea and thinks and thinks so hard the Eskimo child forgets all about the fish which, anyway, are hiding far down in the water, away from the icy cold.

ESKI suddenly looks up and -- lo, and behold! -- there is a big ice floe floating out to sea and on it are all eight of Santa Claus' runaway reindeer. Eski blinks and blinks. Can it really be true? (To Be Continued)

Five Motorists Fined $65 Here

Five traffic violators were fined a total of $65 and costs Friday before the court of Mayor Ed Amey.

Harold Massie of Toledo was fined $20 and costs for crossing yellow lines on Route 23. He was arrested by State Highway Patrolman Gene Miller.

William Rowland of New Holland was fined $10 and costs for speeding at 60 on Route 22. He was arrested by Patrolman Miller.

James Chandler of Lucasville and Donald Bradshaw of Portsmouth were fined $10 and costs each for crossing yellow lines on Route 23. Both were arrested by Patrolman C. E. Copenhaver.

And Don Garrison of Clarksburg was fined $15 and costs for speeding at 65 on Route 23. He was arrested by Miller.

Brodie Twins Still Battling To Stay Alive

CHICAGO (AP)—The Brodie Siamese twins remained alive today but still in critical condition.

The world watched as specialists continued their fight to keep alive the 15-month-old boys. Their heads were separated in a history-making operation Wednesday.

One of the twins, Roger Lee, has remained unconscious since the operation. His condition was termed "very precarious." The other twin, Rodney Dee, was "doing better than his brother." But his condition also was critical.

Some physicians have said they never observed such remarkable recuperative powers as those exhibited by the twins.

The mother, Mrs. Marjorie Brodie, 30, a former nurse, said:

"I think it's a miracle that they've gone this far."

A bulletin by the University of Illinois medical center said there had been "no great change for better or worse in the last 24 hours."

The critical period for both boys, doctors said, will continue for another four to six days, at least, despite any day-by-day change.

Rodney was able to drink water and milk from his bottle Friday. He is conscious except for fitful sleep, doctors reported.

'53 Wheat Crop Seen Below Par

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States wheat crop in 1953 may fall far short of market demand but reserves from past crops would make up the difference.

The total 1953 wheat production could amount to about 896 million bushels, the smallest in 10 years and much below this year's near-record output of 1,292,000,000 bushels. The 1953 figure includes a 611,141,000 bushel yield from fall-planted winter wheat, as forecast Friday by the Agriculture Department, and an assumed average spring wheat crop of 285 million bushels, which will not be estimated until early summer.

Gen. Beightler Enters Hospital

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler, World War II commander of the 37th Infantry Division, entered Walter Reed Hospital Friday for treatment of a heart condition.

Beightler, 60, recently returned to the states after being replaced as governor of the Ryukyu Islands in the Pacific.

French Test Atom

PARIS (AP)—The French Atomic Energy Commission reported Friday the new French atomic pile had been successfully tested and called it the most powerful in Continental Europe.

Ammo Cache Is Linked To Cuban Plot

MAMARONECK, N. Y. (AP)—Westchester County police raided an abandoned gasoline station in this New York City suburb Friday and seized a large cache of munitions which authorities linked to a planned Cuban revolution.

The descent on the boarded-up station uncovered about two truckloads of napalm grenades, rifle grenades, bazooka shells, rifle clips and gunpowder, parachute flares and a drum of napalm powder.

After the raid police arrested three men, including 29-year - old munitions dealer Alfred Manheim. Westchester County Sheriff John E. Hoy and Asst. Dist. Atty. M. Morton Edmiston said Manheim told them he was collecting the arsenal in behalf of ex-President Carlos Prio Socarras of Cuba.

Later, however, Manheim denied to newsmen that he mentioned Cuba and said he was getting the munitions for an unidentified customer.

Manheim, who lives on plush Park Avenue in New York City, was seized when he drove up to the station with Frank Connell, 49, of Brooklyn. Although Connell claimed he was just along for the ride, he was accused of being in charge of shipping the cache. A third man, 35-year-old Jose Duarte, was arrested in nearby Yonkers, N. Y. Hoy named Duarte as purchaser of the munitions. Police said at least two others were being sought.

Allied Planes Plaster Reds Along Fronts

SEOUL (AP) — Allied warplanes swept north of the battleline in freezing weather early today and bombed and strafed Communist positions from the western front to the east coast.

Scattered low clouds over much of North Korea in the afternoon limited Allied air strikes and kept Communist Mig jet fighters north of the Yalu River, which divides North Korea from Manchuria.

On the ground, Allied and Communist riflemen traded small arms and hand grenade fire in light contacts along the front as temperatures skidded below zero and snow fell in the west.

A Chinese platoon, 24 to 40 men, attacked an advance position east of Wire Hill on the east-central front at dawn. Concentrated Allied artillery and mortar fire drove the Reds back after a 35-minute battle.

The sharpest ground fighting on the western front was northeast of Panmunjom, where an Allied raiding party clashed in zero weather with padded-uniformed Chinese.

The raiders claimed nine Chinese were killed and seven wounded, but they pulled back when Communist tanks opened up.

Who's Jealous Of A Jughead Green Statue?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—There is a small green goddess who has come to our house to stay and she lives in my wife's bathroom.

I call the little bronze statue, corroded by the centuries, "Miss Far East of 1660." Frances prefers to refer to her as "that jughead." And I think she regards her as a rival.

The statue, which is about a foot tall, once rested in the window of an antiques shop in Seoul, the South Korean capital. I fell in love with her at first sight, for on her faded gold leaf face was the look of a heavy-lidded Oriental Mona Lisa.

Every day on the ride up to the front I would pause and look at her. One day, as the Chinese Reds were massing to engulf the city, I saw the antique dealer was closing his store and preparing to flee South.

I entered and asked him the price of the statue. He said I could have her for about 24,000 Korean dollars. Well, as that was only eight U. S. bucks—I'd buy the Brooklyn bridge at that price—I took her.

"Who is she?" I inquired as he wrapped her.

"The goddess of pity," he said.

A few nights later the goddess and I fled flaming Seoul together, and a month after that we were in America. When I tenderly unwrapped her with my other souvenirs, Frances said:

"Goddess of pity nothing! I think she's horribly ugly. And see how moldy green she is. She looks more like the goddess of jealousy."

Well, I put her on public view anyway on a bookshelf in "the brown study," a room which started out to be my den and is now the place where Frances likes to do her sewing. And most of our friends loyally agreed with Frances: "Goddess or not, she's downright homely.'

Then one night during a party a friend said, "You knwo the way your little goddess has her hand cupped. . .I think she was meant to be holding a candle in it."

So we pared down a table candle, fitted it in the tiny curved palm, and lit it.

"Now let's turn out all the other lights," said our friend.

We did—and in the semi-darkness my goddess of pity came instantly alive. She sat there with one hand lifted in a gesture of eternal mercy, and the soft candlelight flickered on a face of mysterious beauty. That was the way she had been meant to be seen—glowing through the dusk of a vanished Oriental temple, worshipped to the music of hidden gongs.

The guests were fascinated. But the next day the little green statue was gone from the bookshelf. When I asked Frances, "where's my goddess?" she replied:

"Oh, she was out of place there. I put her on the window shelf behind the door in my bathroom. You don't want to stare at a creepy thing like that all the time, do you?"

I looked at her and laughed, and Frances said sharply:

"Look, Rover, if you think I'm jealous of that silly jugheaded statue, you're crazy. I told you she just doesn't fit into this room."

But it doesn't help at all when our guests say on arrival now:

"Let's bring in that goddess and turn out the lights and look at her. Why do you keep such a wonderful showpiece in the bathroom, Frances?"

Lt. William Hill With 73rd Bn. On Korea Front

First Lt. William G. Hill of 126 S. Pickaway St. is serving with the 73rd Medium Tank Battalion in Korea.

Hill is with the same battalion in which John Porter of Circleville saw service in the Korean area. He reported to the group shortly after Porter returned to the states.

Hill's commendation was as follows:

"At a time when this unit was employed in supporting the entire battalion plus B company of the 14th Tank Battalion, and was operating across a four-division front, it was the courageous and tireless performance of duty by you and your fellow drivers that enabled the tanks to stay in the fight.

"THERE was no time or place, including the tanks on the front, when gasoline or ammo was needed that you did not willingly keep them supplied.

"The casualties among the drivers are a testimonial to your willingness to deliver the goods under fire."

Lady Thugs Forget To Bring Pistol

The gun!

"When on of them opened the cash register and reached for the money, I slapped it out of her hand," said William Brown Jr., a service station attendant who was being "held up."

One woman suddenly remembered she had forgotten the gun ran to her car and came back brandishing a revolver. That made Brown angry. He punched the woman and took her gun away. The girls fled.

COLUMBUS (AP)—A piece of armor plate weighing about a ton slipped off hoisting equipment here Friday and struck and killed Thomas McClatchey, 37.

Teenage Girls Held By FBI In Extortion

PITTSBURGH (AP) — FBI agents have arrested two teenage girls—one 14, the other 15—and charged them with attempting to extort a total of $30,000 from H. J. Heinz, president of the food firm bearing his name, and Arthur Rooney, owner of the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League.

Fred Hallford, special agent in charge of the FBI office here, said his men had waited in vain six times for writers of extortion notes to the two prominent Pittsburghers to pick up the money they demanded. Then one night the two young girls walked into the darkness of a Northside Pittsburgh Park and picked up a package lying on a bench that allegedly contained $12,000. Instead it held a bundle of worthless paper.

Hallford disclosed the two girls had been arrested Thursday night. He declined to identify them, except to give their ages. He said both girls admitted writing the notes—10 in all—to Heinz, demanding $20,000 and to Rooney, asking $10,000.

The extortion letters were similar, Hallford said. The girls threatened to harm the Rooney's 13-year-old twin sons and the 11-year-old son of Heinz.

The last of the threatening letters was sent to Heinz Dec. 13. Heinz was instructed to place the money in a package at the park.

Federal School Aid Assured, GOPster Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—A key congressional figure said today he believes the new Republican Congress will continue federal aid to the states for construction of schoolhouses in areas of concentrated government activity.

Rep. Sam McConnell (R-Pa), slated to become chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee in the 83rd Congress, says he considers federal aid to government "impacted" areas of vital importance.

He also said he approved of general school construction in needy local school districts.

The so-called federally "impacted" districts are those which are unable to finance school services because a government project has brought an influx of workers whose children overtax existing facilities.

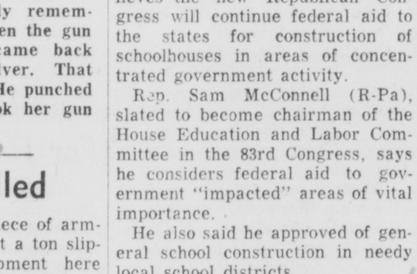

Another type of impacted district in one where federal acquisition of land and property removes it from the local tax rolls and reduces the tax income for school purposes.

McConnell said aid to these hard-up areas was "a definite one" for Congress to supply.

But at the same time, McConnell ruled out proposals for general federal aid for maintenance and operation of schools—such as payment of teacher salaries or financing auxiliary services like school bus transportation.

Christ, God-Man Will Be Theme For Lutherans

This Sunday morning in Trinity Lutheran church there will be a special pre-Christmas worship service. The sermon will center around the human and divine natures of Jesus Christ, the God-man.

Theme to be employed by Student pastor Jacque Schweiss' is "And the Word Became Flesh." He will present a study of the person of Jesus Christ before and after His incarnation. Particular stress will be placed on the fact that our Redeemer not only is true God from all eternity and to all eternity, but from the time of the incarnation is also true man.

At 7 p. m., the Sunday school will present its annual Children's Christmas Worship Service in the church. There will be readings by both individuals and groups, and songs by the various classes and the children's choir.

The program will center about a colored filmstrip entitled "Christmas Joys," which focuses attention on Jesus as he is revealed in the Bible.

Pastoral Letter To Be Read In St. Joseph's

Parishioners of St. Joseph's Catholic church Sunday will hear a pastoral letter from Bishop Ready urging them to be generous in their contributions at Christmas in giving for orphans. This money is used for the upkeep of the orphanages in the diocese.

Msgr. George Mason will also read another pastoral letter proclaiming a day of special devotion Dec. 28. On this date, special devotions will be held in all churches of the diocese with prayers offered for their brethren in Christ who are facing martyrdom in countries behind the iron curtain. Final arrangements for these devotions will be announced at a later date.

On Sunday afternoon, members of the Senior CYO group will go to St. Peters church, Chillicothe, to attend a southern deanery CYO meeting.

Wednesday is day of fasting and abstinence—one of the most strict fast days in the church calendar. Even the military are not exempt from the fast on this day. All persons who plan to receive communion at the midnight Christmas Mass are to fast for four hours previous to midnight. Confessions will be heard from 3 p. m. to 5 p. m. Wednesday and from 7 p. m. to 9 p. m. The church will be open to the public at 11 p. m. Wednesday night for the midnight Mass.

Masses on Christmas day will be at 8:30 a. m. and 9 a. m.

'Apostle Acts' Is Theme In Christ Church

"The Acts of the Apostles" will be the theme of study Sunday during worship services in church of Christ meeting at 159 E. Main St.

This is the beginning of a series of lessons on the book of Act, designed to create a better understanding and greater appreciation for this book which is the connecting link between the Gospel records and the Epistles.

The following points are given from this lesson by Evangelist Charles Cochran:

"The book of Acts was written by Luke, the beloved physician who is also the author of the 'Gospel According to Luke.' This book could very well have been called the 'Book of Conversions' inasmuch as it deals with a number of examples of conversion. The greatest of all questions, 'What Must I Do to Be Saved' is answered by the apostles; the gospel is first preached to all nations; and the church Christ said He would build (Matt. 16:18) had its beginning on Pentecost (Acts 2).

"Acts also gives a record of the great sacrifices made by the early Christians in order to fulfill the command of Jesus to 'Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature' (Mark 16:15).

"The apostle Paul was able to say about thirty years later, in his epistle to the Colossians, that the gospel was 'preached to every creature which is under heaven. .' (Col. 1:23).

Sunday evening sermon subject, announced for 7:30 p. m., will deal with the theme "How to Study the Bible." In this lesson will be discussed rules of Bible study, and emphasis will be placed upon the necessity of studying God's word to learn His will.

Cantata Planned Sunday Evening In First EUB

Fidelis Chorus of First Evangelical United Brethren church will present a Christmas cantata entitled "The Monarch Divine," at 8 p. m. Sunday.

Mrs. Verneal Thomas will play the "Gloria in Excelsis," after which the congregation will sing "It Came Upon The Midnight Clear." "The Light of the Star," a responsive reading, will be led by the Rev. Carl Wilson, followed by a prayer.

The cantata words were written and selected by Mattie B. Shannon with the music written by Lawrence Keating. Mrs. Thomas will play the accompanment and Jim Brown will direct.

The program is: "O Monarch of the Ages" by the chorus; "Behold the Days Came," a bass solo by Fred Brown and the chorus; "Faithful the Word of Jehovah," alto and tenor duet by Ruth Styers and Elliott Hawkes and the chorus; "The Annunciation," trio by Fern, Velma and Leona Wise and soprano solo by Fern Wise; "The Shepherd's Vision", soprano duet by Delores Mavis and Virginia Wise and soprano and alto duet by Marsha Morgan and Ruth Styers.

"Little Babe of Heavenly Splendor", alto solo by Delores Valentine; "There's a Song in the Air," by the chorus; "The Quest of the Wise Men," tenor solo by Elliott Hawkes; tenor and bass duet by Elliott Hawkes and Fred Brown; baritone solo by David Steele and the chorus; "The Star Led On" by the Chorus; "Our Christmas Prayer", soprano solo by Phyllis Hawkes; and "Praise Him, The Heavenly Monarch" by the chorus.

The chorus will appear in new robes which will be dedicated following the cantata. Mrs. Thomas's offertory will be "Christmas Meditation." The postlude-recessional is "Procession of the Magi."

The public is invited to attend this service.

Special Programs Due Sunday For Presbyterians

Choir of Presbyterian church, directed by Mrs. Clark Will and accompanied by Mrs. Theodore L. Huston at the organ, will present its Christmas music during worship service at 10:30 a. m. Sunday.

During the service, the story of the coming of the Lord will be told in Scripture, carol and anthem.

The Rev. Donald Mitchell will read from the Gospels of St. Luke and St. Matthew, the New Testament records of "The Annunciation to Mary," "The Magnificat," "The Annunciation to the Shepherds" and the "Quest of the Kings of Orient."

The Choir will sing a carol-anthem, "Sing, O Sing This Blessed Morn," a Christmas carol, "In Excelsus Gloria;" and anthems "There Were Shepherds" and "Hail To The Lord's Annointed."

Mrs. Dick Robinson, James Carr, Melvin Yates, and Patsy Huston, will sing solo parts in these numbers. Mrs. Richard Boerner will sing a soprano solo, "Gesu Bambino."

At the organ, Mrs. Huston will play "Christmas Pastorale on Herald Angels" and "Glory To God In The Highest."

Primary department of Presbyterian Sunday school, assisted by the Junior department, will present its annual Christmas program for parents and friends at 9:30 a. m. Sunday in the pirmamry department rooms of the church.

Primary teachers and their classes have prepared tableaux. and carols depicting the birth of the Christ Child.

They have extended an invitation to the entire congregation of the church to share this hour with them.

Westminster Fellowship youth group of the church will present a Christmas carol program at 7 p. m. Sunday in the social rooms of the church.

The program will be in the nature of a talent night, using instrumental and vocal music to tell the Christmas story. Larry Thornton, moderator of the group, will preside.

Annual Christmas Eve candlelight service will be held at 9 p. m. Sunday in First Methodist church.

Cantata Planned For Sunday In Methodist Rite

Senior Choir of First Methodist church will present its annual Christmas cantata during worship hour Sunday morning.

The Cantata, "The Story of Christmas," portrays the prophecy of the coming of Jesus and the annunciation to the Virgin Mary

The cantata story continues with the vision of the Shepherds abiding in the field, and with the journey of the three wise men from the East to Bethlehem and finding the Holy Babe.

This cantata concludes with the fulfilment of the prophecy and the Alleluias praising the birth of the King.

Spiritual Rite Of Christmas Is First EUB Theme

"Christmas Medley," played by Organist Mrs. Verneal Thomas, will introduce morning worship service in First Evangelical United Brethren church at 9:30 a. m. Sunday.

Other yuletide music for the service includes organ numbers "Melody of Faith" and "March of the Shepherds;" congregational hymn, "Oh Come, All Ye Faithful"; and a Fidelis Chorus anthem, "Silent Night!"

The Rev. Carl L. Wilson will conclude an Advent sermon series by speaking from the text in St. Matthew 2—"When they saw the star, they rejoiced with exceeding great joy. And when they were come into the house, they saw the young child with Mary, His mother, and fell down and worshipped Him: and when they opened their treasurers, they presented unto Him gifts; gold and frankincense and myrrh. And being warned of God in a dream that they should not return to Herod, they departed unto heir own country another way."

From this text, developing the theme, "The Perfect Christmas," the Rev. Mr. Wilson says: "What makes a perfect Christmas? From many the answer comes it is merely a feast and a holiday kept because of traditional reasons. Such a reply eliminates the true spiritual impact of Christmas.

"Analyze the scripture in St. Matthew 2 and one finds the right answer. A perfect Christmas is a day of joy. 'When they saw the star they rejoiced with exceeding great joy' because it was His star which stood for the newborn King of the Jews, the Messiah, the Savior It is soul-stirring to think that the wise men had a perfect Christmas because they worshipped the Christ-child as Savior and Lord.

"They went a step farther to make the experience perfect, they rendered patronage which was the equivalent to service as they presented their gifts of gold, frankinscence and myrrh. Climaxing the perfection was obedience exemplified when they returned into their own country by a different road. A perfect Christmas — joy, worship, service, obedience. I see the Star. I worship the Christ-Child. I open my gifts and lay them at His feet. I go back by a new road."

Church school classes will study a Bible lesson, "Emmanuel—God With Us."

The school will meet in the sanctuary following the lesson study when the annual Christmas Otterbein Home offering will be received.

The Rev. Mr. Wilson and Church School Superintendent Edwin Richardson will direct the offering dedicatorial service.

At 8 p. m., Fidelis Chorus will present a cantata, "The Monarch Divine," with Jim Brown director and Mrs. Verneal Thomas organist.

Christmas Story Planned Sunday In Calvary EUB

The Story of Christmas, the day of the birth of Christ, Sunday will be given again in various forms in the worship services and Sunday school hour in Calvary Evangelical United Brethren church.

In worship at 9 a. m. the service will begin with a Christmas prelude by Miss Minnie Wilkerson, followed by call to worship and Gloria Patri and Apostle's Creed by direction of Dale DeLong.

The congregation will then join in singing the Christmas story in song by the use of Christmas carols.

Scripture for the morning is from Isaiah 9:2-7, which is the prophecy of Isaiah of the coming of the Messiah, Son of God.

As his message for the morning, the Rev. James A. Herbst has chosen to speak on the subject "The Coming of The Light of The World," using as the text these words from Isaiah 6:1: "Arise, shine; for your light has come, and the glory of the Lord has risen upon you."

Following the hour of worship, the congregation will meet as class groups for study of a lesson "Emmanuel, God With Us". During the worship hour in the children's department, various classes of this department will present a program of worship of their own telling the Christmas story.

They will see the Christmas story in pictures as the Pastor will show to them a film strip entitled "When The Littlest Camel Knelt".

The Sunday school will give to each child from the nursery class through the intermediate classes a special Christmas treat as they leave for home.

In the Sunday services, members will be bringing in their Christmas gifts of food, clothing, toys and cash donations for a deserving family which has been chosen.

Young People To Give Pageant

Young people of Circleville's Church of Christ in Christian Union are to present a Christmas pageant, entitled "Beneath His Star," at 7:30 p. m. Sunday in the church.

Children from each class of the Sunday school will participate in the services with songs and recitations.

Emmanuel -- God With Us — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Matthew 1.

An angel appeared to Mary of Nazareth announcing that she would be the mother of a Son, whose name she should call Jesus.

The angel also appeared to Joseph, Mary's betrothed, to say that Mary would have a child by the Holy Ghost, to fulfill prophecy.

The prophecy was, "Behold, a virgin shall bring forth a Son, and they shall call His name Emmanuel," which means, "God with us."

CLARIFICATION NEEDED

Two points of legal disputes about the Taft-Hartley Act hinge on the intent of Congress. One is whether the National Labor Relations Board alone may seek injunctions against unfair labor practices affecting interstate commerce. The other is whether state courts have jurisdiction to issue injunctive relief where reliance rests on the federal law.

The way appeared cleared to a final determination when the Supreme Court of the United States accepted review of a case involving the two points, which had gone against the unions in Alabama's Supreme Court. The latter sustained a lower court's temporary injunction against a local trades union council for picketing a building in course of construction.

The injunction was obtained by a subcontractor who employed union labor while the general contractor did not. According to the petitioner, the picketing had a twofold purpose: To induce his workers to stop work with the object of forcing the general contractor to unionize and also to cause the petitioner to cease doing business with the general contractor. This was held to be in violation of Taft-Hartley Section 8 concerning secondary boycotts and other forms of coercion.

Before the high court, questions from the bench resulted in most of the allotted time being taken up with discussing whether the court was not inhibited by the federal judicial code from reviewing a temporary injunction. The code limits the power to review to "final judgments or decrees rendered by the highest court of a state." Counsel for the union contended that the state court's sustaining the injunction was in a sense final judgment.

Now the court rules the contention without merit, deciding by a 7 to 2 vote that the code precludes review. While this leaves the Alabama court decision intact, it would have been better to have had a clarification of it from the high court. But the Supreme Court is to be commended for the meticulous care it evinced to avoid even the appearance of exceeding its powers.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Men are as they think and those who are products of the Great Depression are likely to think in an atmosphere of fear. They take on a clerk-like disposition whether in government or business, recalling that courage and enterprise and thrift were forced down in the ugly days of the 1930's. Those who risked most, seemed to suffer most.

This, perhaps more than any other cause, produced the lust for security in place of the vision of a self-made career based on initiative and thrift. A few enterprising individuals risked greatly, even in the worst days of the Depression, picking up businesses that had collapsed or were on the verge of collapse and building them into mighty enterprises. Other brave souls started new ventures and many of them did well. And some of the older ones were rescued by new management.

But even among these people, the fear of a recurrent Depression had the effect of penurious thinking, not so much in the definition of penny-pinchings as in the sense of keeping one eye always peeled for the worst that never happened. A people that has not the courage to fail, never reaches Olympian heights of enterprise, because the view is narrowed; the mind is small. The depression attitude expresses itself in all strata of society in the desire for a guaranteed life in the form of government-provided social securities, in pensions, in fringe benefits and similar devices to eliminate risk.

In government circles this has been particularly true and has been responsible, in no small measure, for the fear of Russia, the dependence on Britain, the appeasements in policy and the acceptance of such insults as we take in our stride, for instance, in the United Nations.

We did experience the historic fact that we could win a war and lose it simultaneously and that freightened our statesmen as much as the Depression frightened our generation. If that could happen, anything could happen. Yet, the explanation for it is so simple that it should have been understood; we were courageous in fighting; we were cowardly in negotiation. When we fought, we were old-fashioned Americans; when we negotiated, we lived in the depression-born atmosphere of fear. We thought that we could buy peace by dollars as we gained prosperity by subsidies.

Those who inherited great or even small fortunes were particularly affected by the fear psychology of the Depression. They saw their fortunes diminish by the loss in values and the depreciation of currency. They witnessed the effect of taxation, especially inheritance taxes, on the rich. They concluded that there would be no more rich men in America. They hoped to mitigate the force of the revolution.

Many of them joined Roosevelt, not because they believed in him. Actually, in private conversations, they ridiculed him shamelessly. But they did believe that the techniques which he evolved in the New Deal arrested the revolution before which they cringed during the Depression years. They believed that he had saved them from the barricades and the guillotine. They put on the masquerade of a hardly understood liberalism, in the hope that

Early Repair of Hernia Vital

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

IN the usual type of rupture or hernia, the body wall that holds the contents of the abdomen—intestine and other organs—becomes weakend, and these internal organs protrude beneath the skin. The most common site for a hernia is in the groin. However, it may occur in many other places throughout the body.

Certain people have an inherited predisposition for hernias. They are born with defects present in their abdominal wall or its supporting structures which may easily lead to a rupture. A severe injury, heavy lifting, or any strain of these already weakened tissues can very well open up the defect.

Tissues Weaker

As a person becomes older, his tissues become weaker, also making it easier for a rupture to occur. The heavier the person and the more fat in his tissues, the weaker are the tissues—hence greater the chance for a rupture.

If a rupture occurs and the person is in good physical condition, the best treatment, as a rule, is to have it repaired surgically. In most cases, this gives very satisfactory results. Usually the operation is not too dangerous, and can be done with great ease.

If a hernia is repaired before it becomes too large or has progressed too far, the type of operation is usually very simple, and there is not too great a chance of recurrence.

However, many people leave ruptures go for years until they get so large it is difficult to restore the abdomen to normal. These are the cases where recurrences are frequent.

Many ruptures that are neglected can become greatly enlarged as more of the intestine and other abdominal contents are squeezed out of the abdomen and into the small sac forming the rupture. Finally these contents tend to strangle, because too much is contained within the sac. This causes gangrene of the bowel and may be fatal if not corrected.

Ruptures are common and should be corrected early to prevent difficulties later on in life.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

C. R. H.: Is hemorrhage from the lung always due to a case of tuberculosis?

Answer: Hemorrhage from the lung may be due to many causes; it need not always be due to tuberculosis. A severe lung infection, such as pneumonia, a tumor of the lung, varicose veins in the tubes leading to the lungs, and certain heart conditions may all cause a person to cough up blood.

The best way to determine the cause is by X-ray examination of the chest. However, in certain cases, it is necessary for the physician to look into the lung tubes with an instrument which is known as a bronchoscope in order to find the exact cause.

JOY Street

CHAPTER NINETEEN

ROGER never knew how he reached Joy Street. He had no recollection, later on, of drawing up to the curb in front of his house and mounting the steps and unlocking the door. He had a dim impression that he called to Emily and that she answered him, but everything was very hazy, for all at once vertigo overcame him completely. When she reached his side, he was lying unconscious on the floor.

After that, there were moments of awareness. He knew that he was in his big soft bed and that Emily was standing near it. He heard the doctor saying, "There's no cause for uneasiness, Mrs. Field. Pneumonia isn't what it used to be, you know. Why, we'll have his temperature down, with penicillin, inside of twenty-four hours." Roger was meant to overhear that, he knew. But he was not so sure he was meant to overhear what the doctor said when he came the next time. "Well, of course, occasionally there is a case... I think perhaps I'd better arrange for oxygen."

For the first few weeks after Roger died, Emily was mainly conscious of numbness; then she was aware only of overwhelming fatigue and uncomparable apathy tinged with sorrow.

So the shutters were closed and the shades were drawn in the Joy Street house. The silver was put in the bank, the rugs in storage, and the furniture was slip-covered with clean, colorless linen. Emily went through the premises, the night before she left, to make sure everything was in complete order. At least, that was what she said. But that was not the real reason. The real reason was that she wanted to say goodby to it and this was the first thing she had definitely wanted to do since Roger died. She started on the third story, in the small guest room with the spool furniture and the old pastel of the little girl, playing with her puppy, where Priscilla had spent so much time; then she went past the rooms on the second story, all the way down to the ground floor—to the drawing room with its tapestries and portraits, and the library with its Gaugengigl etchings and first editions, and the dining room with its massive, well-rubbed mahogany, and next, out into the garden, where the crocuses and forsythia were just beginning to come out. But she did not stay in the garden and, after she went away from it, she tried not to think about these things.

Then Emily went down the steps and got into the car. Clark held its door open respectfully and Officer Tupperty saluted from the sidewalk and Emily was driven down Mount Vernon Street to Louisburg Square.

Old Mrs. Forbes talked briskly all through their tete-a-tete luncheon, but Emily could not think of much to say, and afterward she could not think of much to do. She lay down for a little while, because that seemed to be expected of her, but she did not like to lie down in the daytime and she did not go to sleep; she merely kept still, glancing at the clock every few minutes until an hour had passed and she felt justified in getting up again. Then she watched Doris unpack her clothes, and put them neatly away on scented shelves and padded hangers, and carry off a few to be pressed and cleaned. By and by, Doris came back with some tea; Mrs. Forbes had thought that probably Mrs. Field was tired after her moving, that she would like to have tea in her room. If she would prefer to have dinner there, too, Mrs. Forbes would understand and Doris would be glad to bring it up. Emily realized she was expected to say, yes, she was tired; yes she would like to stay in her room. As a matter of fact, she did not feel at all tired and she did not care in the least where she stayed. She knitted for a little while and read for a little while and then she went to bed because there did not seem to be anything else for her to do.

For the next month nearly all her days seemed equally aimless and equally empty. She had a number of callers, some of them very old friends and she saw them because she could not excuse herself on grounds of ill health or preoccupation; but she would have been just as contented to remain alone.

Eventually, every pleasant day she walked up the Hill and sat for a little while in her garden and then walked back to Louisburg Square. On the afternoons that Dan worked in the garden, she watched him and occasionally made a suggestion. But he did very well without suggestions, so it really was not necessary to make them. On the afternoons that Dan was not working there, she sat with her knitting or a book in her hand and sometimes she worked a little or read a little, but not much. She had not told anyone about the habit she had formed of going there, so she had no reason to expect that she would be disturbed, and she was slightly startled when, one evening, someone was jiggling the old brass knocker in a way that suggested a special signal. Emily leaped up, crying out in amazement and unbelief.

"That's the way Brian always knocked, when he came to play poker. He and Roger called it his password. Why, it can't be—"

But it was. Brian, leaner, browner and seemingly taller, stood on the threshold, grinning broadly. Emily threw her arms around his neck and hugged him hard, still uttering little cries of unbelief which nevertheless, were tinged with joy.

"Briny, Briny, are you real? Are you all right? Wherever did you drop from?"

"I'm as right as rain and as real as the sun. And I didn't drop from anywhere. I alighted, with my usual unimpeachable dignity, from a plane. My, but I'm glad to see you! And to see you here! I called and called the house and couldn't get any answer and even my warm Irish blood ran cold. But my heart began to beat again when I got your grandmother on the telephone and she said you were in your garden. Well, as I live and breathe, the same tray—the same glasses—the same bottles—and the same liquids in the bottles! What about the same old mixture for me? I bet you don't remember what it is!"

"Of course I do. Whisky and plain water. With lots of ice and not too much plain water."

"Good for you! Well, here's to you! And you'll not be making a lone drinker out of me, I'm hoping!"

Emily laughed and filled her glass.

"Please give me a few more details, Briny," she begged, after he had taken several long swallows and given sighs of deep satisfaction. "It isn't very informative just to say that you alighted from a plane, even when you add that mendacious touch about your usual dignified fashion."

"Well, you knew that I'd been in Manus for nearly a year."

"I knew you were there, but I didn't know for how long and I don't know what you were doing there, or much about Manus itself."

Brian struck an attitude. "Manus, my dear girl," he announced in a declamatory note, "was one of the five finest harbors in the world until the U. S. Navy and the Seabees got hold of it, and turned it into the finest and probably the busiest port on any of the seven seas. Nobody except a few professional mariners knew much about it before the war, because the native village there wasn't a trading point. Now it teems with activity, as the saying goes. By a great stroke of luck, I cut my foot on a jagged piece of coral, while swimming off the sandy shores, and got an infection in it."

"This is the first time I ever heard an infection called a piece of luck."

"Well, you've heard it now and you have the evidence of it before you. I don't know what's going to happen to me next. I may get shipped back to the South Pacific or I may be sent to the B Docks in Norfolk—there's a rumor going around that my legal talents are too great for confinement at Manus. While that fine technical point's being decided, I'm spending a little time in Boston, much of it, I hope, in your company. Incidentally, I've got a whole pocketful of gasoline coupons. What about a nice long drive out into the beautiful spring countryside?"

"It's awfully kind of you, Briny, but I haven't been anywhere yet and—it's less than three months since Roger died."

"Yes, I know that, too. So what?"

"So I haven't wanted to go anywhere. I haven't wanted to see anyone or do anything. For two or three weeks, after I'd recovered from the first shock and grief of his death, I didn't feel at all. I was just—well, I was numb all over."

"And that was perfectly normal—for two or three weeks."

"Since then, I haven't been numb exactly, but I've felt exhausted."

"Which was also perfectly normal. But you don't feel as exhausted now as you did when you first began to go to your garden, do you?"

"No, not quite. But I don't seem to want to see anyone."

"How can you tell without trying? You were glad to see me—or at least if you weren't, you certainly put on a pretty good act."

"I didn't put on an act," Emily retorted indignantly. "I was glad to see you. But—"

"I'm going to start counting the number of times you say 'but,' if you aren't careful. You're not in a state of apathy or exhaustion any longer. You were, you should have been. Now it's about due to be over."

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

By Ray Tucker

Editor's Note: Every Saturday this veteran Washington newspaper correspondent answers readers' questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions may be sent direct to Ray Tucker at 6308 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20—"What is the lowdown on the NATO defense organization?" asks H. G. of Bridgeport, Conn., along with many other anxious readers. "Is it building an army and air force that will be able to resist a Russian invasion of Western Europe?"

Answer: There is no use in trying to deny that NATO is a flop, insofar as building an adequate defense or even a holding operation against a determined Red attack across Europe's historic battlegrounds. Despite optimistic statements here and abroad, the participants have fallen far behind the Lisbon schedule of 25 fully manned and armed divisions and 25 in reserve.

Our principal allies, the British and French, insist that they cannot fulfill their promises without inviting bankruptcy or domestic sacrifices that would turn Churchill and Pinay out of office. Pro-Russian or anti-American governments might be elected in their stead.

RIDGWAY REBUFFED—England insists that her military expenditures in Malaya must be taken into consideration, and France makes the same contention with respect to her resistance to the Reds in Indo-China. The other NATO members are making only negligible contributions.

Only a few days ago, the European nations flatly rebuffed General Ridgway's demand that they make good their commitments to build airfields and other facilities in the West. Instead of cooperating to organize a German army of 12 divisions, which are admittedly essential to any real defense system, Paris and Bonn are squabbling and recalling the bitter memories of 1870, 1914 and 1939.

DETERS RUSSIA — NATO spokesmen profess to believe that they are fulfilling their original mission, and that conditions will improve. But reading between the lines of their official and unofficial statements suggests that they are whistling in a graveyard.

They give two reasons for having no fear of a Russian onslaught during the period of our unpreparedness. The first is that this country's supply of atom bombs and atomic artillery deters Moscow because they deprive her of her great superiority in manpower. They do not seem to realize that Stalin's possession of these weapons may neutralize our atomic advantage.

LET U. S. DO IT—They also argue that Russia's internal conditions, such as shortages of food, industrial production, petroleum and transport lines, will not permit her to wage large-scale warfare. On the other hand, many economists point out that the Soviet is steadily strengthening its internal structure along these lines, while our allies plead poverty.

* * *

As our diplomatic and military experts discovered at the recent NATO conference and progress review at Paris, the European Defense Community will never become a going concern unless the United States contributes a lot more men (soldiers), money and materials.

BURY ADLAI?—"I note that you conclude (with some pretense of regret)," writes Mrs. M. J. of Springfield, O., "that you must assist at the burial of Governor Stevenson. America presumably has no place for him. Do you think that this reflects well on the intelligence of the American people? Should we 'bury' a man who was recognized almost instantaneously by the rest of the world a sone of the most outstanding personalities we have produced in this half-century?"

STEVENSON'S ROLE — Answer: I was not "burying" Governor Stevenson as an individual or personality. I was simply reporting the ascertainable political reaction to proposals that he remain as the active and recognized leader of the Democratic Party. Anybody who knows practical politics, and reads the results of the November 4 election, must recognize that he cannot continue in that role.

There was no "pretense" in my regret. However, I have more faith in Stevenson than Mrs. M. J. seems to have. If he feels so inclined, I believe that he has sufficient ability and initiative and resourcefulness to make an even deeper imprint on the nation's mind, and an even greater contribution to the American society. I also think he could fill this role better if he severed partisan ties.

ELEANOR—"Do you think that Eisenhower will continue Eleanor Roosevelt as a member of the American delegation to the United Nations? inquires F. G. of Binghamton, N. Y.

Answer: I do. Like her or not, she has become a national and international figure. Nor would it hurt Ike, politically, if he kept her on.

Girl Scouts And Brownies Hold Christmas Activities

Parties Are Held At Methodist Church

Members of Girl Scout Troop 13 met recently for a caroling party. They caroled at the E. Main St. and E. Mound St. Home and Hospital, Berger hospital, Kearns Nursing home, Children's home, County home, and at the homes of Mrs. Ora Pontius, the Rev. Robert Weaver and Mrs. O. C. King.

The group returned to the Methodist church for a Christmas party and gift exchange. The table was decorated with small Christmas trees and red candles. In charge were Mrs. George Barnes, Mrs. David Goldschmidt, Mrs. William Steele and Mrs. Robert Smith.

Party Is Held

Members of Brownie Troop 17 held a Christmas party for their mothers recently in the Methodist church. Each guest was presented with a miniature wishing well, which the Brownies made.

Leaders, Mrs. Robert Thomas and Mrs. Karl Johnson opened the party with group singing of Christmas carols, and a gift exchange was held among the members.

Refreshments were served from a table decorated in a Christmas motif. Members of the troop committee assisting with arrangements were Mrs. Forrest Brown, Mrs. P. C. Routzahn, Mrs. Elliott Barnhill, and Mrs. C. Ray Barnhart Jr. Other honored guests present were Mrs. Rose Pickens, Mrs. George Gerhardt, Mrs. Emmett Wood, Mrs. Hattie Pickens, Mrs. Ed Amey, Mrs. Charles Goeller and Mrs. Smith.

Pythian Sisters Conduct Meeting And Yule Party

Majors Temple Pythian Sisters met Thursday evening in the K of P hall for their regular meeting and Christmas party. Forty members and one guest were present for the occasion.

Mrs. Edgar Carmean, most excellent chief, presided at the meeting, after which the Christmas party and gift exchange was held around the lighted Christmas tree.

A banquet was served to the winning team of Love by the losing team of Fidelity. Mrs. Frank Davis was chairman.

Tables were decorated with lighted trees, miniature Christmas candles and garlands of cedar extending the length of the tables.

A program of songs and contests was held with Clarence Radcliffe leading the singing and Miss Mary Kay Kennedy and Mrs. Robert Acord as committee.

The next meeting, Jan. 1, will be installation of officers.

Christmas Theme Followed At Meet Of Grange Group

Patti Barr, whose birthday comes on Christmas Day, gave a recitation, "A Christmas Birthday," written by Mrs. Joseph Peters. Nancy and Patty Collins sang, "He'll Be Coming Down the Chimney," and "Poppy the Puppy.'

LeRoy Owens gave a recitation, "The Night Before Christmas," Bonnie Beers and Patty Collins presented "A Christmas Story," and Lynn and Ray Noecker sang, "Frosty the Snowman."

"Jus' 'Fore Christmas" was recited by Jerry Owens and a reading, "Aunt Fran's Christmas Gift Suggestions," was given by Mrs. Russell Hedges.

Group singing of "Jingle Bells," closed the program after which Santa Claus arrived with gifts.

Christmas Dinner Served GOP Club

The spirit of an old fashioned Christmas was carried out when members of the GOP Booster Club held their annual turkey dinner in the home of Mrs. Howard Clark, Walnut St., Thursday evening.

A large turkey centered the table, decorated for the occasion, and carols were sung by the group around the table.

Mrs. John Steinhauser read, "A Child Is Born," and Miss Lucille Dumm read, "Let's Keep Christmas."

Gifts from the "grab bag" provided entertainment during the evening and a gift exchange was held. The names of "secret booster pals" were revealed and new names were drawn for the coming year.

Contests were held and prizes went to Mrs. E. S. Minor, Mrs. Irvin Smith, Mrs. Roy Dumm, Mrs. Henry O'Hara, Mrs. George Mavis and Mrs. Charles W. Winner.

Teen Tips

No matter how much you like the Big Date in your life, it's no cinch to choose a Christmas gift for him. Right?

But you can be sure of this: It shouldn't be terrifically expensive, because it's "the thought that counts" and because it would embarrass him if your gift were more lavish than his.

Incidentally, it's best not to give him a gift at all unless he plays Santa Claus to you first. If you think he's going to give you a present, you'll want to have one ready for him—but not otherwise. Here are some suggestions that are considered good taste because they're not too costly nor too, too personal:—

Accessories — A silk or wool scarf. Matching tie and handkerchief set. Handkerchiefs with his initial. A comb and nail file in a leather or silver case. A pen or automatic pencil—or both.

Something you knitted with your own little hands—A tie or socks perhaps in his school colors, with his initials or fraternity insignia. A sleeveless sweater if time allows.

For his hobby — A record album. Snap-shot album. A tool or gadget for his hobby if you know exactly what he wants or needs.

A book — Science, adventure or travel, according to his tastes.

Water-repellent corduroy school clothes may be laundered in rich, lukewarm suds, rinsed three times, and hung up to drip dry. Do not wring them.

Mrs. Turney Glick Serves As Hostess At Unique Party

Mrs. Turney Glick of Circleville Route 3 was hostess Thursday afternoon in her home at a "cookie swap." Each guest brought a quantity of Christmas cookies, which they "swapped" with other guests.

The group decided to meet annually for a similar event.

Berger Guild 6 Names Officers

Mrs. Warren Baker was hostess Wednesday evening in the home of her mother, Mrs. Ralph Curtain of 124 E. Union St., for the Christmas party given by Berger hospital Guild 6.

Officers named for the coming year were as follows: Mrs. Baker, chairman; Miss Elizabeth Hilyard, co-chairman; Mrs. Gilbert Starkey, secretary; Mrs. Oscar Turner, treasurer, and Mrs. Fred Roundhouse, publicity.

Miss Hamilton Hosts Circle 6 At Yule Party

The home of Miss Marie Hamilton, of W. High St. was beautifully decorated with Christmas greenery and other colorful ornaments when she entertained members of Circle 6 of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist church on Friday evening.

A large Christmas tree, tinkling brass bells, and pine boughs were placed in the living room and in the hall. Miss Ollie Sockrider and Mrs. George Schaub were assistant hostesses for the meeting. The president, Mrs. Eli Hedges, conducted the business.

Mrs. Schaub gave devotionals suitable for the Holy season, while Mrs. Jack Heeter gave a talk on Christmas carols, and music was played representing each song by Mrs. John Chilcote, who accompanied her on the piano.

Each member told of her own best observed past Christmas. Sixteen members attended the meeting. They discussed plans for contributions to South Side Settlement house in Columbus for their project in early Spring months.

A salad course was served by the hostesses and a gift exchange was held at the conclusion of the meeting.

Wholesale Price Index Tumbles

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Bureau of Labor Statistics reports its wholesale price index fell three-tenths of 1 per cent in the week ended last Tuesday.

The index stood at 109.3 per cent of the 1947-49 average.

County Voters, Candidates Get Reminder

Mrs. Nellie Stout, clerk of the county board of elections, called attention to two elections slated Feb. 3 and deadlines which come the following day for primary candidates.

A special county-wide election will be held Feb. 3 on a proposed additional tax to provide funds for support and remodeling of Berger Hospital. A 60 per cent affirmative vote will be needed for passage.

And Orient's election for incorporation is also scheduled Feb. 3. The positions of mayor, clerk, treasurer and six councilmen will be at stake.

ON FEB. 4, all officers to run in the municipal primary for Circleville must have petitions filed by 6:30 p. m.

All officers for villages and townships who plan to run in the November election must also have their petitions filed by 6:30 p. m. Feb. 4, a requirement under new law and one that is not generally understood, Mrs. Stout warned.

Sokolsky's

when the revolution did come, they would not be taken for ractionaries.

Many men and women of this segment of our society worked their way into the numerous agencies which, since the war years, have been associated with the conduct of our foreign relations an the development of our foreign trade. There was no courage in their hearts.

All that they could permit themselves were such ideas as "the containment policy," or the support of socialist parties in Europe, or appeasing the Russians in the hope that they might become good Christians by imitation. They were always afraid because they were conditioned by the Depression years to be afraid, to live in fear of the very revolution which they always saw before them as the only future possible for them.

I write not of Republicans or Democrats but of a sick generation that had lost confidence in a way of life that had given them greater benefits, even during he Depression, than any other people enjoyed.

They were without hope, expecting at best to stop the tide of revolution before it completely engulfed them. They were willing to give up most to save something.

Maybe a new generation will now take hold.

City Motorist Suffers Injury

The accident happened at about 7:15 a. m. Saturday on Route 23, three miles south of Circleville.

Deputy Carl Radcliff said the Smith car was travelling south and was attempting a left turn when an auto operated south by Thomas Hopkins, 34, of Sandusky Route 1, attempted to pass.

Society Notes Work Of Circleville Man

A Circleville man has been honored by the Ohio Society of Professional Engineers.

James R. Lytle of 601 N. Pickaway St. has been offered the Society's Junior Membership Award, constituting membership in local and national activities of the engineering group through 1953.

Notification of the professional honor was received here in a letter from Lloyd A. Chacey, executive secretary of the Ohio Society.

Lytle was invited to join the engineers organization because of his high rating in a state test given for professional engineers and surveyors.

Jackson 'Cats, Ashville Broncos Knocked Off By Pirates, Tigers

For the second time in as many weeks, upset victories by underdog teams have disrupted Pickaway County basketball league standings.

And those disruptions have given county cage fans promise of a terrific league battle this season, plus a whing-ding of a county tournament next February.

Two top contests featuring upsets in county league play Friday night were Pickaway's 59-52 victory over previously unbeaten Jackson Wildcat courtmen; and Walnut's thrilling 52-51 victory over powerful but once previously beaten Ashville Broncos.

After the smoke had cleared from those two battles, Jackson continued to hold the county league lead, but by a smaller margin and closer to striking distance by any one of five other teams. And Ashville, tied for the league leadership only last week, now has settled back into a virtual five team battle for runnerup position.

IN THE Pickaway Pirate-Jackson Wildcat tiff, the Pirate quintet announced its intentions of sending the 'Cats home disappointed in the first frame, when they racked up a 17-12 advantage.

The Pirate sharpshooters were never headed throughout the remainder of the fracas as the fans grew edgy. The Pickaway team posted a 37-26 margin at the halfway mark and collected a 45-34 advantage at the three-quarter mark before taking the final seven-point victory.

Vic Pontious spearheaded the Pirate attack during the encounter by bucketing 21 points, while Jackson's Glen McFarland and Herb Holbrook led the 'Cat counterattack in vain, each posting 15 points.

Pickaway reserves made the upset evening complete during the preliminary fracas, scoring a 40-19 victory of the 'Cat reservists to hand them their first league loss of the season.

Pickaway's victory brought the Pirates up into a three-way tie for fifth place in the county loop, while lowering the 'Cats into shooting range.

IN THE Walnut-Ashville fracas, Walnut's Tigers opened the game with the same 17-12 margin Pickaway had used to inform Jackson things were going to be tough, while holding onto a narrow 28-26 lead at the halfway mark.

Walnut spread its advantage by seven points at the end of the third quarter to establish a 45-38 margin, while outlasting the finals period assault by the Broncos to nab the one-point victory.

Ronnie Althaus of the Walnut crew was top scorer in the Tiger victory with 22 points to his credit, while Ronnie Wilson of the Broncos paced the losers with 21.

Stoutsville Wins 68-65 In Overtime

Stoutsville Indian basketeers picked up their third Fairfield County league victory in five starts Friday night in a thrilling 68-65 decision over Pleasantville.

Stoutsville led throughout the early stages of the fracas, posting a 19-10 advantage in the opening stanza, 34-21 at the half and 49-33 in the third canto.

Pleasantville came up on the scoring ladder then, however, to deadlock the score at 59-59 as time ran out.

Stoutsville tallied nine points during its share of the extra-period play while holding the invaders down to only six points.

RONNIE Knecht was Stoutsville's big gun in the victory with a total of 28 points, although bowing to Mike Outcal of Pleasantville in game honors. Outcalt posted 31 markers.

Stoutsville's reserve team also collected a victory in the prelim to Mike Outcalt of Pleasantville in by a 47-46 count. Box score of the varsity game follows:

Raiders Win Over Buffalos In 62-38 Tilt

Scioto Buffalos, giant-killers last Saturday in upsetting the powerful Ashville Bronco basketeers, was no match Friday night for Atlanta's Red Raiders, losing by 62-38 on the Raider home court.

Atlanta opened the encounter with a 16-8 lead in the first frame, swelling the advantage to 32-13 at the midmark and posting a comfortable 43-22 margin at the end of the third period.

Harold Gerhardt was top scorer for the Atlantans during the fracas with a total of 25 points. Ray Beavers paced Scioto with 11 points, while John Stewart, so effective against Ashville, was held to three free throws.

Scioto reserve players racked up a 38-22 victory in the preliminary match, however, handing the Atlanta reserve team its first league loss of the season.

Darby Scores 63-56 Victory Over Indians

Darby Trojans marched into a 63-56 victory over invading Monroe Indians Friday night on the Darby home court.

The Trojans, picking up their third league win in six starts, opened with a 20-19 edge over the Indians, boosting the advantage to 40-28 at the half.

Monroe attempted a comeback in the third frame as Darby posted a 52-41 edge, but lost out in the final frame as the Trojans racked up their 63-56 trophy.

Monroe's Paul Caudy was out of action for three quarters of the game after suffering a head injury at the end of the first frame. Caudy suffered a head laceration when he ran into a wall.

Darby's reserves made a clean sweep of honors for Trojan fans during the evening, handing the Indian reservists a 49-42 setback in the preliminary.

Williamsport Doubles Score On Greyhounds

Following through, sharpshooting antics of the Deers netted them a 39-15 lead at the half and a 66-29 margin going into the final period before taking the eventual 39-point win.

CHS Varsity Loses To Blue Lions As Reserves Win Third In Row

Circleville's fast-developing Tiger basketball team continued its lose one, win one schedule Friday night when invading Washington Blue Lion cagers handed them a 52-45 defeat in the first South Central Ohio League game of the season.

The invading, highly-touted Lions led throughout Friday's league opener, but was never able to pull away for enough to feel comfortable.

Washington opened with a 9-5 advantage in a slow-moving first period, advancing to a 22-16 halftime advantage.

Circleville cagers rebounded during the third stanza, however, and whittled the Lion lead down to only 33-32 going into the final period.

Tiger courtmen knotted the score as the game drew near the end, only to lose out as Washington grabbed off several quick points and then stalled the ball.

Washington reservists opened the game with an 8-5 edge over the locals, but the junior Tigers retaliated during the second canto to post a 19-16 edge.

Circleville coninued to hold the upper hand during the third chukker, registering a 28-26 advantage at the three-quarter mark before running up the final 11-point margin of victory.

Gene Stonerock was tops in scoring for the CHS juniors in the contest witha total of 17 points. Ed Meyer was high for the visitors with 10.

Circlville's next varsity and reserve contests will be Tuesday night in Pickaway County Fairgrounds Coliseum when Columbus St. Charles invades. Box scores of Friday's varsity and reserve games follow:

Bulldog Quint Tops Warriors In 86-40 Tilt

New Holland Bulldog cagers Friday night collected a lopsided 86-40 victory over invading Saltcreek Warriors, who last week upset Walnut's Tigers.

The New Hollanders began the encounter with a 20-10 lead and boosted it up to 52-17 at the half and 74-31 at the hree-quarer pole before taking the 46-point victory.

Ted Vincent was high scorer in the lopsided match, banging 32 points through the netting for his Bulldog team. Ned Reichelderfer paced the losers with 16.

New Holland's reserves also collected a win in the preliminary encounter, repulsing the Warrior juniors by a 33-23 count.

How Much Is Telephone SERVICE Worth To You

Could you put a price on your telephone when you have to call a doctor for your sick child? How much would you take for your telephone when you need it to call the police, fire department, or a loved one in a family emergency? How many steps does your telephone save you each day? How much business does it help you transact? Your answers to those questions measure the value of telephone service to you.

And here's another thought . . . telephone service is becoming more valuable every day. As more telephones are installed, you are able to call more people, and more people are able to reach you. So for business, for pleasure, for convenience, in emergencies — the value of telephone service is increasing every day.

United Nations Vote Down Red Indictment Of U. S.

ACCUSED OF BEATING and hacking to death a European farmer in Kenya, Africa, 12 Mau Mau terrorists are arraigned on murder charges in Naivasha. Supt. P. S. A. Steenkamp stands at the right. With arrests mounting steadily in the Mau Mau anti-white warfare, the number of prisoners has far exceeded existing facilities to care for them.

Lad, 15, Is Killed, Four Others Injured In Accidents In County

A 15-year-old West Union boy was killed at about 12:30 p. m. Sunday west of Circleville when he ran into the path of an automobile containing servicemen going home on leave for Christmas.

Four other persons were injured in two additional mishaps in the county during the weekend.

Killed was Ralph Copas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Copas of West Union.

The accident happened at a small cement bridge on Route 22, about 4 miles west of the city.

Deputies Walter Richards and Jim Diltz said the car in which young Copas was riding with his mother, younger brother and an unidentified man, was travelling east on Route 22.

The deputies said the auto had travelled through the bridge and stopped about 200 feet beyond while Copas and his younger brother were sent back to the small stream to get water for the car's radiator.

The two lads walked back to the bridge, the younger brother staying on the south side of the bridge as the victim crossed the highway and down a steep bank to the water.

Returning to the road, deputies said, the youth started to run across to his brother when he was struck by an auto operated east by Kenneth Smith, 21, of Grove City, Pa.

Smith and several Air Force companions were returning to their homes for 15 day Christmas leaves from Keesler Field, Miss.

Dr. Ned Griner, Pickaway County coroner, said the youth had fractures of the right leg, hip, pelvis, collarbone and neck.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff said detailed information was sought from the boy's mother, younger brother and the man who was driving the car.

"THEY WERE put in one of our cruisers while the boys performed their jobs at the scene," the sheriff said. "Then they got out of the cruiser and into their car and drove off before we could talk to them."

The youth's body was taken to Defenbaugh Funeral Home and later transferred to West Union. The Air Force driver was not held, and after his auto was repaired he and his companions continued their journey.

Another accident involving one injury happened at about 2:45 p. m. Sunday at Routes 104 and 22.

State Highway Patrolman Ray Hoylman said an auto operated east on Route 22 by Bob Keller, 19, of Williamsport, was struck by an auto operated south on Route 104 by Howard Leedom, 45, of Columbus.

Injured was Clarence Hastings, 21, of Williamsport, treated in Berger hospital for a lacerated forehead. Leedom later was fined $100 and costs before the Court of Mayor Ed Amey for failing to yield the right of way.

Final personal injury crash happened at 4:50 p. m. Saturday on Route 22, 2.6 miles west of Circleville on Route 22.

State Highway Patrolman Gene Miller said a pickup truck operated by Warren Dennis, 31, of Circleville Route 2, was struck from the rear by an auto operated by Lt. Thomas Bradley, 31, of Ft. Campbell, Ky., enroute to his home in Pennsylvania for a Christmas holiday.

M. Kirkwood, Henkle Homes Win Awards

Duplicate first-prize awards of $25 in cash were won by Kirkwood for the best-trimmed house in the northend; and Henkle for the best-trimmed in the southend.

The Kirkwood home was selected by a panel of four judges as the outstanding decorated home in the northend with its "Merry Christmas" theme in a shadow-box effect.

Henkle's home was chosen the best in the southend of the city for its display of Santa and Rudolph, the red-nosed reindeer.

Other winners in the southend were: Carl Manson and Mrs. Jack Swyers, who decorated the Manson house on Dunmore Road with a "tired" Santa scene; and Robert Dick of 341 East Franklin street, whose house showed a Santa and toys scene.

Duplicate awards of $10 for second and $5 for third were offered in both northend and southend contests.

William Cook of Park Place and Mrs. Stanley Peters of 313 South Court street were singled out by the judges for honorable mention in the contest.

Judges for this year's contest, directed by Joe Bell for the Chamber of Commerce, were Mr. and Mrs. William Ingle of Bainbridge; and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Beam of Wilmington.

Bell said a total of 28 houses were entered in this year's contest.

16 Ohioans Killed During Week End

COLUMBUS (AP)—Highway accidents took the lives of 12 Ohioans in the state over the week end.

Three others died in fires and another in an industrial accident, an Associated Press survey showed today.

Carl Bennett Home Damaged By Fire

Circleville fire department was called at 8:10 a. m. Sunday to extinguish a fire in the home of Carl Bennett, unsuccessful candidate for state representative in last month's elections.

The Bennett home is on Walnut Creek pike, about five miles northeast of Circleville.

Fire Chief Talmer Wise said a fireplace in the residence was not correctly built and that fire, eating through the floor of the living room, had apparently smoldered for several days before it was detected Sunday.

Wise said flooring immediately beneath the fireplace lacked adequate protection.

Work Needed To Ready Gift For Christmas

Circleville's huge Christmas present—a new house the city is building for a family left homeless in a fire Dec. 10—may be ready to place under the tree on Christmas Eve.

But if it is, someone is going to have to work very hard to get the job done.

The site of the new house was attacked by local workmen Sunday and put under roof. About 18 men turned out to give a hand to the family of Montford (the Mole) Pollock, who were burned out.

Talmer Wise, who formed the project of building the Pollocks a new home for Christmas, said the job could be completed by Christmas Eve "if people will turn out in the evenings to work at it."

WORKMEN Sunday completely sheathed the walls and roof of the house, felt-covered the roof and made two partitions.

Wiring under the supervision of Leonard Lytle was roughed in, and electrical circuits were set up.

And city roofers Monday morning were to have moved onto the site to place a shingle roof on the new four-room home.

And the chimney located in the center of the home is to be completed Monday by Firemen Fred Howell and Bern Wolfe.

But needed to be done yet are:

Installation of doors and windows;

Inside panelling;

Flooring;

Installing one more partition; and

Tacking on imitation brick siding.

Winter Comes On Heels Of Nasty Storm

CHICAGO (AP)—Winter blew in officially and violently on a driving storm of snow, sleet and freezing rain across the Great Plains today.

Four to nine inches of snow fell in parts of Nebraska and Kansas, and lesser amounts through Iowa, Northern Missouri and the Dakotas. Winds of 35 to 50 miles an hour velocity whipped the snow into drifts.

Outside the snow areas on the Plains, icing was the traffic and communications hazard. East-Central Iowa reported communications lines were breaking faster than they could be repaired, and the state had about 300 long distance circuits out of service.

The first full day of winter (the new season officially began at 4:44 p. m. EST., Sunday) was a miserable one.

Low clouds, fog, some snow and drizzle were general from the storm area eastward to the Appalachian Mountains; it was raining along the Middle Atlantic coast, snowing in the Rocky Mountains and upstate New York, and the Pacific Northwest had more of the showers that hit Sunday.

Lancaster Airman Escapes Tragedy

MOSES LAKE, Wash. (AP) — Airman 1-C Joseph C. Stout of Lancaster, O., today was being treated in Brooke Army General Hospital, San Antonio, Tex., for injuries suffered Saturday in the crash of an Air Force plane in which 86 persons were killed.

He was flown there Sunday night. Stout was one of 30 survivors of the crash.

Chillicothe GI Stranded In Iowa

He was aboard an Operation Santa Claus chartered plane which ran into foul weather. He has not been home in 2½ years.

McCrady 'Reporting For Duty,' Claims His Suspension Illegal

Circleville Police Chief William F. McCrady, declaring his recent suspension by Mayor Ed Amey illegal, announced by letter Monday he was "reporting for duty as of now." His 15-day suspension has one week yet to go.

McCrady also announced claim on his salary for the past week and "any costs payable."

The Chief's action turned the spotlight on the city's civil service commission, which plans to meet at 8 p. m. Monday to "iron out the legal points involved."

A spokesman for the commission said McCrady has yet to ask formally for a hearing before the group.

MAIN PURPOSE of the commission's meeting Monday night presumably would be to study and rule on two technicalities stressed in the Chief's bombshell notice to the mayor.

The Chief's letter, announcing his return to duty, was handed to the mayor by Joe Adkins, counsel for McCrady.

It read as follows:

"This is to advise that I am immediately reporting for duty as chief of police of the city of Circleville for the reason that I have been advised by my attorney that the purported suspension given to me on Dec. 15, 1952, is not valid and is null and void for the reason that the Civil Service Commission of the city was not notified forthwith of said suspension and I was not given an opportunity for a hearing before said commission within five days as provided by law.

"I expect to be entitled to my full salary during the past week that I was illegally suspended, together with any costs payable to the chief of police during that time."

McCrady's defiance of the suspension order in effect put two men in charge of Circleville police force pending action by the Civil Service Commission.

"Unless I'm overruled by the commission," Amey declared, "McCrady is still suspended and is not on duty as the chief of police."

AT THE TIME of McCrady's suspension for alleged violation of a rule covering the use of city police cruisers, Amey appointed Policeman Elmer Merriman as acting chief.

Main debate in the controversy, latest chapter in a long series of disputes involving police department authority, was expected to center on the word "forthwith" as used in the Chief's letter.

Amey wrote a letter of notification to the commission and dated it Dec. 17. He said he is under the impression it was mailed immediately and pointed out he had no control of its progress through local postal channels.

However, Vernon Hawkes, a member of the Civil Service group, said he didn't receive the letter of notification until Monday morning and that it was postmarked as Sunday.

Legal counsel for the Mayor said there is no cause for the chief's reference to the second point stressed in his letter, claiming rights to a hearing before the commission "within five days."

CONTENTION is that the law reads within five days of the date the commission receives the letter—and not within five days of the suspension announcement.

McCrady at first declared there was nothing doubtful in the legal points involved and merely announced, as he stood in the police station:

"I'm here and I'm going to work."

McCrady was suspended Dec. 15, the Mayor announced, because the Chief took a police cruiser outside the city without authorization.

Hydrogen Blast Kills 15 In Nagoya, Japan

Police, still digging through the ruins, said five persons were missing and 370 injured, 70 critically.

Their search for bodies dropped their figures from earlier reports of 30 killed and 550 injured.

The violent blast ripped apart the main works of the Toa Synthetic Chemical Company, one of Japan's major producers of chemical fertilizer. Homes and stores in a radius of several blocks were badly damaged.

The explosion demolished the new ferro-concrete building that housed part of the factory's ammonium sulphate plant. Damage was estimated at $14 million.

Authorities who launched an immediate investigation said the blast may have been touched off by a spark in a hydrogen tank where ammonium sulphate is extracted from a liquid chemical.

The company's president, Ikoma Nonaka, said the whole factory system probably would have to be closed. There was no fire of any proportions, however, Nagoya firemen said.

Experts Study Air Crash In Which 86 Died

Exhaustive Probes Sought Into Tragedy Involving Globemaster

And civilian officials, in and out of government circles, began a concerted demand for action to reduce the number of military plane accidents.

Saturday's crash, which killed all but 30 of the men aboard the U. S. military's biggest airplane, was the 10th in a recent series which has snuffed out more than 300 lives. Calls began immediately for grounding of military aircraft while safety precautions and plane checks are taken.

Sen. Richard Russell (D-Ga) called for an exhaustive investigation. He said it was possible a subcommittee of his Senate Armed Services Committee would take action in the disaster.

AT LARSON Air Force Base, starting point of the flight, the grim and tedious job of identifying the dead continued. The process was slow because many of the victims were mangled and burned beyond recognition.

Meanwhile, four Air Force generals huddled with other officers, civilians and technical representatives of aircraft and equipment manufacturers, trying to piece together the cause of the accident.

An Air Force captain with years of experience flying heavy equipment said he thought the plane just couldn't develop enough power to rise from the runway.

He was Capt. George Demas of Cleveland. His observations were made first hand—he was one of the passengers who lived through the crash.

"I had a peculiar feeling," he said from his hospital bed at Larson AFB, "that we were staying too long on the ground. I became convinced of this when I felt the plane bounced at the end of the runway and it seemed the plane had not developed enough power to complete the takeoff."

The pilot, Capt. Demas said, ap-

More Atom Energy Private Enterprise Urged By Board

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Security Resources Board urged today the government encourage greater participation by private enterprise in the development and use of atomic energy as a source of power.

This is one way, the board said in a report to President Truman, the nation can plan to insure against exhaustion of its strategic materials resources.

Other steps it recommended after a six-month study of long-term materials and energy supply problems included:

1 — A mineral leasing system as an optional alternative to claim-staking on public lands. The board said many provisions of existing law are obsolete.

2 — A law prescribing policy to be followed by the Department of the Interior in managing off-shore oil lands.

3 — Laws authorizing United States participation with Canada in constructing the St. Lawrence Seaway and power project, and providing for other multiple - purpose river development.

4 — LEGISLATION authorizing reduction or elimination of tariffs on raw materials in which this country is substantially deficient.

5 — Greater emphasis on mineral resources in technical assistance programs for under-developed areas of the world.

The board proposed that interested agencies draw an amendment to the Atomic Energy Act specifying conditions under which private interests "could operate commercially to benefit from their atomic power research, development and production."

The conditions would include such things as patent rights, availability of fissionable materials, and allocation of costs between industrial power and weapons.

The board said the interest of industry in participating in atomic power development is retarded by undertainties as to how it would be permitted to use its results. These uncertainties stem from restrictions in the present law.

Man, 36, Dies In Farm Lot

A 36-year-old man was found dead Monday morning in a hog lot on the farm of Mrs. Sam Tootle, north of Five Points in Monroe Township, where he worked.

He was identified by Pickaway County Sheriff Charles Radcliff as Fred Thomas Harmon, who moved onto the Tootle farm two weeks ago.

The sheriff said an unidentified man driving an oil truck past the farm early Monday spotted the man lying in the lot.

He drove on to the farm house and notified the persons there and then they returned to the lot. The man was dead.

• • •

DR. NED Griner, Pickaway County coroner, said the man died of a heart attack. He was believed to have died at about 10 a. m.

Radcliff said the man is survived by his widow, three children and three step-children.

DuPont Anti-Trust Suit Dismissed

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—Du Pont President Crawford H. Greenwalt says the Justice Department has withdrawn a criminal antitrust suit against E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Company but failed to publicize the action.

The suit accused the company and a retired employe, Henry Lackey, of conspiring with six other companies to fix prices, discounts and terms of sale of wood finishes. The case dismissed had no connection with the so-called "General Motors" antitrust sit involving Du Pont, Greenwalt said. This civil suit is now being argued in Chicago.

Ferman Larie Held For Jury

Ferman Larie of Columbus was held on a total of $200 bond in the court of Mayor Ed Amey for grand jury action on accusations of driving under revocation and being in actual physical control of an auto while drunk.

Larie lost his license here last Spring when he appeared in common pleas court for drunken driving.

Councilmen, Fire Group Set Meeting

City councilmen will meet with spokesmen for Pickaway County's Rural Township Fire Association here Tuesday night in an effort to iron out two important points in the city's agreement with the township group.

City firemen aid in fighting fires outside Circleville under terms of a contract between the municipality and the association, which covers nine townships in the county.

City Council recently declared the contract between the city and Association had lapsed, apparently by a misunderstanding never officially clarified. One item of business will be to seek renewal of the agreement.

Much more controversial is the claim, backed by several of the city lawmakers, that Circleville does not receive enough compensation for its help in battling fires in the townships. Leaders of the Association will probably be asked for a readjustment in this respect at Tuesday's meeting.

ONE OFFICIAL of the township firemen's organization has already said privately there will be no increase in the city's remuneration, presently set at $14 for each time the city takes the township fire truck on calls outside Circleville.

Councilman Harold Clifton, one of those who believe the city has sufficient compensation under the present setup, pointed out the township truck is available for fires inside Circleville.

He also emphasized that the city, by housing and operating the township truck, is able to get a lower rate for fire insurance.

Poultry Struck By Thieves Here

Thieves were hard on poultry in Pickaway County last weekend.

Officer Rod List said Mrs. Dora Reed of 386 East Mound street reported someone took two pet ducks from the back yard of her home during the weekend.

Parrott said thieves had picked the lock on the henhouse door.

In addition, city police were called to the home of Mrs. Henry Renick of Pontius Lane, where burglars had entered through the cellar door. Nothing was reported missing.

Brodie Twins Still Holding On

CHICAGO (AP) — The Brodie Siamese twins clung tenaciously today to the separate life surgeons sought to give them last week.

The 15-month-old sons of Mr. and Mrs. Royt Brodie of Moline, Ill., born joined at the tops of their heads, were separated in a 12 hour and 40 minute operation. Roger, the weaker of the two, is still in a coma and his condition is precarious. Rodney is still regarded in critical condition and has failed to continue the progress he had made.

45-5 Ballot Goes Against POW Claims

West Laughs Aloud At Accusations Hurled By Russia's Gromyko

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—A weary United Nations Assembly early today turned down a bitter Russian demand for condemnation of the United States for the alleged mass murder of Red prisoners on Pongam Island in Korea.

Red-eyed after a tense all-night debate, Assembly delegates voted 45 "nays" to 5 Soviet bloc "yeas" against the Russian proposal. Ten members of the Arab-Asian bloc abstained. Three in that group, Iraq, Lebanon and Thailand, voted against the Soviet move.

The Soviet bloc gained no support outside of its own tight little group for the resolution, which was denounced by U. S. Delegate Ernest A. Gross as a "sickening" and "shabby midnight propaganda stunt."

GROSS, replying to charges launched at midnight Saturday by Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko said the riot on Dec. 14 in which 87 persons were killed was engineered to help the Kremlin cover up the fact that "the aggressors and their sponsors have rejected peace in Korea." He said the guards fired at the rioting Reds to quell them and to avoid greater casualties.

Gross referred to the blunt rejection by the Communists of the India peace plan approved by the General Assembly Dec. 3 by a vote of 54 to 5 (Soviet bloc) with Nationalist China abstaining.

"The Soviet government," Gross said, "may now recognize the mistake it made in so brutally rejecting the Indian resolution for peace in Korea and in so contemptuously flouting the will of the UN.

"There is a lesson to be drawn from this midnight maneuver by the Soviet government. It is proof that when members of the United Nations unite on a moral issue and rally from all corners of the earth around the cause of peace and defense of the Charter—the enemies of peace are driven into corners of desperation. We do not believe that our upity can be broken or undermined by acts of lying desperation such as those we have witnessed here."

SELWYN LLOYD, British minister of state; Henri Hoppenot, France; Selim Sarper, Turkey; Alexis Kyrou, Greece; David Johnson, Canada, and Leslie K. Munro, New Zealand — whose countries have troops fighting in Korea—assured Gross they were standing with him in indignant repudiation of the Soviet tactics and allegations. Lloyd said it "is a matter of bitter regret on the eve of Christmas to have this poisonous propaganda injected here." He expressed confidence in the UN Command in Korea.

Gromyko, looking natty in a blue suit, also linked the riots with the UN adoption of India's peace plan. He said the U. S. wanted to perpetuate the Korean war and the India resolution was part of that scheme.

Gromyko said the International Red Cross report on last spring's prison outbreak at Koje Island criticized the U. S. for using weapons gaainst rioting prisoners. He said use of force against the prisoners was part of an American scheme to coerce prisoners into saying they did not want to go home. Those who refused, he added, were brutalized.

Gromyko charged that in May, 1951, the U. S. shipped 1,400 Chinese and North Korean prisoners to the U. S. to serve as "guinea pigs in atom experiments."

HE CLAIMED that on May 10, 1952, American hangmen gouged out the eyes of 18 prisoners, and that on May 30, 1952, the U. S. burned 800 prisoners alive in flame thrower experiments.

Lloyd burst out laughing at these claims. Jessup and Gross joined him.

Looking at the British, Gromyko said: "They are laughing louder

parently agreed, as he "tried to yank it into the air because it was too late to reverse the propellers and stop it."

The plane rose sharply, the captain related, then started to settle.

"THEN THE pilot turned sharply like he was attempting to come back to the runway. I looked out the window ad estimated we were about 75 feet in the air."

The pilot, later identified in the list of dead as Lt. William O'Connell of Portland, Me., probably changed his mind and attempted to resume normal course, Demas said. After that, the first thing Demas could recall was making his painful way from the wreck.

The 116 men in the giant twin-decked plane was not unusual, Air Force officials said. They told of tests in which 160 men with 100-pound packs have flown in C124s without overloading.

But Rep. Edith N. Rogers (R-Mass) asked the Air Force to ground the transports until the accident causes can be determined. Servicemen, she told Secretary of Air Finletter, "should not be crowded into one large airplane like cattle."

Sen. Stennis (D-Miss), a member of the armed services committee, called for a full report on recent Globemaster crashes.

ONCE UPON A CHRISTMAS EVE

By WILLIAM RITT

ESKI boards the ice floe and asks the reindeer what happened. "It's all Dunder's fault," says Blitzen. "He suggested we go for a little ride on this ice floe and before we knew what had happened it drifted out to sea."

JOYFUL, at finding the reindeer, Eski now faces another big problem: How to get them back to Santa Claus in time for the Christmas Trip. A whale, swimming up to see what's going on, gives Eski a good idea.

"SURE," says the friendly whale, "I'll be glad to take you fellows ashore. Just climb aboard and stand real still so you won't slip off into the sea. O. K., you lead the way and I'll follow you." So off they go back to Santa!

Health Council May Consider Dump Problem

Pickaway County Health Council has officially listed three projects already submitted as proposed targets for the organization's efforts.

The council also has announced plans for its meeting next month, when steps will be taken to decide formally what the group will try to accomplish first.

Selection of a new president has also become a priority business.

Mrs. Walter F. Heine agreed to take the council's helm at the time of its organization earlier this year, but stipulated she would have to be relieved of the top duties early in 1953.

Potentially one of the most representative organizations in the county, the council is composed of spokesmen from all local units interested in health programs. In at least one of the projects already proposed, the group's activities would be turned parallel to a problem which has already had the spotlight in Circleville.

"The city dump" is listed as one of the projects proposed for study by the new organization.

ALTHOUGH the health group would only have power to recommend changes under the present setup, its weight as a medium for public opinion is generally recognized.

Other two projects listed for the health group's consideration are:

Education for physically handicapped children;

Unification of city and county health departments.

Mrs. Heine has emphasized no projects have yet been selected officially by the organization she heads. It was indicated additional projects will be suggested when the council meets Jan. 28.

24 Deer Rout Car From Road

EPPING FOREST, England (AP)—A large stag led a charge of 25 deer against an automobile driving on a road through a forest north of London last night and knocked the car rolling over an embankment.

Two occupants of the small vehicle, an Austin 7, Mr. and Mrs. William Thomas Coe, were injured.

Married Pupil Ban Is Rapped By Attorney

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Florida's Atty. Gen. Richard Ervin says there is no legal reason to bar married children or girls in early stages of pregnancy from attending public schools.

"It's questionable that a rule to bar married children from attending public schools would be reasonable or be to the best interest of the school or pupils and could be enforced," Ervin told State School Supt. Thomas D. Bailey yesterday.

"It is commendable in married persons of school age to further their education and thereby be better fitted for life's work and its duties."

He said a pregnant girl under 16, young enough to be required to attend school, might need to be exempted from attendance for health reasons.

Bailey said he did not know how many married pupils are attending Florida schools but county school boards had often asked what should be done about them and he sought the attorney general's opinion.

Taft-Hartley Law Kill Drive Slows

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new head of the American Federation of Labor says the AFL, which long has demanded repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act, now is willing to settle for satisfactory amendments to the labor law.

George Meany, AFL president, said yesterday in a radio interview that the November election results "more or less stopped" the drive for repeal.

Favoritism In 37th Denied By General

COLUMBUS (AP) — The artillery commander of the 37th Infantry Division, formerly of the Ohio National Guard, says it isn't true that favoritism has been shown some division members in early discharges.

Brig. Gen. Kenneth Cooper cited the case of Vic Janowicz, All-America football player from Ohio State University, who got out of the service this month.

"Cpl. Janowicz enlisted in the Ohio National Guard June 24, 1948, for a period of three years and reenlisted July 12, 1951, for a period of one year, and when that expired he was eligible for discharge," Gen. Cooper said.

Gen. Cooper said morale is good in the 37th and no one is getting discharged ahead of time. The 37th is stationed at Camp Polk, La.

Cooper said only men with nine more months to serve are being sent overseas. Any man with less is being kept in the states.

The discharge of Janowicz and many other members of the division came through a new army department policy instituted last spring. Now members of the Guard are discharged when their enlistments are up. Previously they had to serve two years following activation of the division regardless of when their enlistment ran out.

Duke Of Windsor Back In States

NEW YORK (AP)—The Duke and Duchess of Windsor returned to the United States yesterday after several months in Europe.

As they arrived aboard the liner Queen Mary, the duke repeated his statement of last Tuesday that he would not attend the coronation of his niece as Queen Elizabeth II.

The Windsors said they planned to hunt quail near Tallahassee, Fla., and play golf at Palm Beach, Fla., during the next few months.

Girls Slug Woman

CLEVELAND (AP) — Two girls about 15 years old slugged Mrs. Mary Dobos, 73, Sunday night and stole her purse containing $10.

GOOD HOLIDAY ADVICE

EXPERIENCE HAS SHOWN the year-end holiday season is the most dangerous period of the year, Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council, points out in a communique that should be read and pondered by all citizens.

Traffic accident deaths on both Christmas eve and Christmas Day in the nation are approximately twice as high as the annual daily average. With a four-day holiday this year the death toll could be higher than the 351 traffic deaths during the Christmas week-end of last year, Dearborn says.

The safety head tosses out the following suggestions for a safe and merry Christmas for the motorist:

Driving or walking, put the Christmas spirit of "good will toward men" into practical use by being extra courteous — take time.

WHEN PRESIDENTS RELAX

FACING THE HARD prospect of four years of tension in the White House, President-elect Eisenhower already is giving thought to how and where he will relax from the strain of office. A duty the head of the nation owes to all its people is to keep fit by not letting the arduous tasks of his office drive him to a point approaching exhaustion.

Those familiar with how General Eisenhower likes to employ his leisure will not be surprised by the report that he does not plan to use the ocean-going yacht Williamsburg. The President-elect's idea for a summer White House is a place somewhere with a nine-hole golf course and fresh-water fishing not too far from the capital.

Herbert Hoover, when President, relinquished the Mayflower, which his predecessors had enjoyed, and did so in the name of economy, withdrawing to a retreat on the Rapidan, where he could fish to his heart's content. Another presidential fisherman was Calvin Coolidge, who took a long vacation in 1927 in South Dakota's Black Hills to try his luck. It was there he spoofed the country with his famous "I do not choose to run in 1928," an idiom perfectly understandable to any New Englander as absolute determination.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Great historic errors are never made by the people of a country; they do not know enough of what is going on. The errors are made by officials, by individuals, sometimes whimsically, sometimes wilfully.

Responsibility is often avoided by the mighty by the simple device of shifting the blame to smaller men who can hardly defend themselves. Often the people do not really know what has been done to them until decades have passed, archives have been opened and the appalling truth exposed, long after any remedial measures are possible.

In this country, we are fortunate that no man is too great, no office so sacrosanct that a Congressional committee might not uncover the actual facts of a situation if it is so minded. The Owen Lattimore indictment is a case in point.

The Lattimore testimony before the McCarran Committee consumed 817 pages of printed record. It was an amazing performance, often a violent denunciation of the Committee and its processes. I cite one brilliant example of the double skip, the ability to talk plentifully but not to answer the question:

"Senator Ferguson. Might I ask a question there? Did you intend to influence the people in the State Department?

"Mr. Lattimore. The program of the Institute of Pacific Relations was perfectly clear, Senator. It was to make available on the market, the market of ideas, the most accurate information that it could assemble on the subject of the Far East, so that those who were interested could use that information as they themselves saw best.

"The Chairman. Now, I would like to have you answer the question.

"Senator Ferguson. Answer my question: Did you intend to influence the State Department?

"Mr. Lattimore. We intended to contribute to the general fund of knowledge about the Far East. Any question of a particular intent to interest the State Department as a policy-making organ of he Government was, to the extent of my knowledge, never dreamed of."

The McCarran Committee established that it was the purpose and activity of the Institute of Pacific Relations to influence the Far Eastern policy of the State Department and its implementation.

Lattimore's bravado broke down after E. C. Carter's barn at Lee, Massachusetts, was raided and the files found were taken to Washington. Those files continued thousands of documents, some of considerable significance in the development of the great American tragedy, our China policy.

Until these files were examined, little comfirmatory evidence was available to show the extent of the I.P.R.'s activities. The files disclosed the entire story. No one has denied the authenticity of these files or of any document taken from them, and no one could, because the files contained original documents, some typewritten, some in longhand, some with marginal notes.

CHAPTER TWENTY

EMILY was forced to admit she felt no special urge to return to Joy Street and she was honestly glad to feel that she was being of some service to her grandmother. She worked in her garden herself again now, when it was warm enough. When Brian was home on leave, he frequently joined her there. Emily kept the wine closet well stocked and went in and out of the kitchen and pantry as occasion demanded; but she had not once been upstairs again since that night when she had walked from room to room, instinctively listening for sounds which did not come. Deirdre aired and cleaned the premises and reported that everything about them was unchanged. Emily was quite willing to take her word for it.

However, since Old Mrs. Forbes seemed to feel so strongly that someone should supervise every nook and corner of the house on Louisburg Square, Emily did this meticulously; and one day she asked Brian if he would care to go to the attic with her; she thought he might find it interesting. He did not quite see what an attic might possibly provide that would be intriguing; but he was entirely amenable to going there with Emily, if that was what she wanted him to do. So they climbed the last steep flight of stairs together and, when they reached the door at the top, she handed him a large key. As she did so, he noticed for the first time, that she had two small glasses in her hand.

"What are those for? To catch rain water when the roof leaks?"

"You don't suppose Grandmamma permits leaks in her roof, do you, Brian? Or that glasses this size would hold enough rain water to do any good, if there were one? Have a little patience, you'll see what these are for."

He unlocked the door and opened it. Directly in front of him stood rows of great hand-blown bottles, which were among Old Mrs. Forbes' most cherished possessions. The bottles were filled with rum and the neck of each was encircled by a chain, to which a tag was attached. He bent over and inspected the nearest one.

"'This rum was taken in this container around the Horn—1830, 1838, 1845,'" he read. "Why! It's more than a hundred years old!"

"Certainly it is. Look at some of those other labels. The old theory was that the prolonged rolling and pitching of sailing vessels improved the quality—in addition to aging of course."

"Here's another bottle that went around the Cape of Good Hope—three of them, by golly!"

"Yes, those are supposed to be the best of all. Now you know what the two glasses are for. We'll draw up a couple of those old tavern chairs, over in the corner, and have a drink of Great-Grandfather's super-special brand."

The tavern chairs to which Emily had referred certainly provided ideal seats for the enjoyment of entertainment conveniently at hand; and after Brian had placed them where Emily had designated, and filled the glasses from one of the bottles labeled GOOD HOPE, he leaned back, alternately sipping and sighing with satisfaction.

"Why didn't you ever bring me here before?" he inquired at length. "I'd say, without a moment's hesitation that this is the most interesting place in the house."

"Well, at the risk of having you pull that old line about the number of things I never think of, in spite of the treat I've just given you, I've got to confess that I never did think of this before—I mean of bringing anyone up here with me. I've just thought of the attic as a place I'd got to inspect, in the course of regular household routine, to make sure it was in order. I never thought of it as the setting for a tete-a-tete."

"I'd say it had everything needed for that—seclusion, comfort, atmosphere and the means of unlimited refreshment."

"I didn't intend to have the amount of refreshment unlimited, Briny."

He set down his glass, suddenly grave. "That's not worrying you, is it, Emily?"

"Isn't what worrying me?"

"That I drink too much?"

"No-o-o. I've always supposed you were a little on the thirsty side, as the saying goes. But that's really none of my affair, is it?"

"It might be. So I'd really like to set your mind at rest on that score. I did used to drink too much, now and again. But I just want you to tell me you're not afraid I'll ever disgrace you."

"Briny, I just said it really wasn't any of my affair."

"And I just said that it might be. Now I'll say that I hope more than anything in the world it will be."

She had continued to toy with her glass while they talked. Now she set it down on the floor beside her, as he had done with his.

"I'm not sure I know just what you mean, Briny," she said quietly.

"You aren't? Why, you must be! You must know I've been in love with you for years! You must know that I've waited and waited for the time to come when I thought it was decent to ask you to marry me."

"But I didn't! It never occurred to me that you were in love with me. In the beginning, I thought you rather disliked me."

"Disliked you! I fell in love with you at first sight. But after all, you were married to my best friend!"

"I tell you, it never occurred to me," Emily repeated persistently. The words came rapidly and she spoke with heightened color. "You didn't act as if you were in love with me!"

"Well, we might as well have a showdown. And, from what you've just said, I gather you expected me to do some kind of pretty violent love-making, either before Roger's death or very soon afterward."

"No—no!" Emily exclaimed again. "I didn't expect you to do that then, any more than I expected you to tell me just now that you wanted to marry me. I thought you did get to like me, after a while. And then, when Roger died, I thought you were sorry for me."

"I was. I was damn sorry for you. I knew what you were going through. No one could help being sorry for you who knew that."

"Well, and then you tried to help me realize there was still something ahead of me. Something worth waiting for."

"Yes. Gradually I tried to get it into your head that you couldn't live all the rest of your life with a memory. You're too young! You're too lovely! You're too—too feminine! You're bound to fall in love again. It's just as normal for you to do that as it was for you to grieve when Roger died. You were made to have children, you'd be a wonderful mother. You can't thwart nature, the way you were trying to do. You ought to be married right now. You're going to marry me, no matter what I have to do to make you! You'll be so glad, afterward, that you won't care!"

When Dagmar, one of TV's ten less-dressed women, exited from a stage door, certain young gentlemen were clamoring for her autograph. The one she accommodated first was a budding diplomat who said, "I recognized you by your voice."

Jan de Hartog, author of the stage hit, "The Fourposter," says he learned about telling stories when he was the youngest member of the crew of the schooner "Rising Hope." The bo'sun drew him aside on deck one day and said, "Kid, you repeat too many stories. It isn't the number of stories you tell that wins you a reputation in that field, it's their quality. Check your results before you add a tale to your permanent collection. Tell it first, for example, to the cook. Then wait outside the galley and listen. If the cook tells your story to the next fellow he sees, you're in! If he doesn't, forget it." De Hartog says he still follows that system. . .I try to myself.

By Ray Tucker

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22—A full dress review and revision of American foreign policy has been necessitated by a stunning defeat which the United States recently suffered within the United Nations. It demonstrates that this country cannot buy friendship, alliances or world peace even with the expenditures of billions of dollars annually.

The General Assembly's Economic and Financial Committee, an extremely important body, adopted by sizable vote a resolution which bars the United States from giving any protection to private investments overseas.

It even prevents our State Department from making vocal or written representations on behalf of American firms whose foreign properties are jeopardized by nationalization, confiscation or outright seizure.

ANTI-U. S. — Ironically, this amazing prohibition was proposed by Iran, which has successfully nationalized British petroleum holdings, and by Bolivia, which has taken over valuable and strategic tin mines owned by British and U. S. interests.

The anti-American vote was so large in several tests that adoption of the resolution by the General Assembly itself seems certain. Meanwhile, it is expected that spokesmen for both President Truman and President-elect Eisenhower will try to persuade the recalcitrant majority that they are biting off their own noses to spite the only power sufficiently well - heeled to develop their resources.

UNDERMINED—The 31-nation ultimatum, especially if it is ratified by the General Assembly, will undermine our present strategy in the cold war, which relies on Point Four, Mutual Security and similar expenditures to win us allies in any showdown with Russia. It casts considerable doubt on the value of the $12 billion Marshall Plan investment.

It comes at a time, too, when President Truman, Secretary Acheson and Mutual Security Administrator Harriman, as recently revealed here, have framed a program for encouragement and stimulation of huge private investments abroad

SCHEME DISCUSSED — Under their scheme, which has been discussed with Eisenhower's aides in this field, the United States was to expand enormously the system under which full or percentage recovery of exported funds is guaranteed by the U. S. Treasury. This sort of business-like assistance was supposed to surplant the current operations involving direct government loans and grants.

However, in view of the temper of the prospective beneficiaries, it is dubious whether Messrs. Eisenhower, Dulles, Humphrey and Stassen will look up on this suggestion as feasible. Even if they should, it is questionable whether Congress would approve or appropriate the money for it. The UN is already in the black books of many prominent men on Capitol Hill, including Delegate-Senator Wiley.

NEWS FOR STALIN—The outcome was a complete victory for the Soviet, as paralyzing to us in the diplomatic and foreign aid field as the North Korean attack has been to us in the military realm. Almost immediately afterward, Delegate Andrei Vishinsky took ship for home to report the good news to Stalin.

The vote on the key measure was 41 in favor, with only the United States opposed. Nineteen nations, including Britian and the Commonwealth bloc, did not vote because the Bolivia-Iran resolution violated their constitutions. Had they not abstained, they would probably have lined up with us Arrayed against the U.S. were the Latin-American, Asian, Arab and Soviet countries.

LEADS TEST—When the U. S. representative tried to postpone a showdown, the lineup against us was 25-3. Worst of all from our standpoint, the principal opponent on this test was the spokesman from King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia, who is supposed to be our good friend.

He is almost the only Middle East ruler who has not moved to break his petroleum agreements with American oil firms, largely because they have boosted his royalties to 50 per cent.

This clear-cut evidence of the rising tide of nationalism threatens new trouble in many hitherto quiescent areas. It accompanies rumblings of nationalization movements against U. S. oil firms in Venezuela, Iraq and elsewhere. It may also endanger investments in factories, utilities and railroads, as well as in natural resources overseas.

PROPAGANDA — In effect, it gives UN approval to the revolt against "colonialism" in North Africa, the Middle East, Indo-China, Egypt and China. It indicates that our erstwhile friends have been influenced by Moscow propaganda branding public and private financial aid from this country as "imperialism."

It is a fiery cross of world-wide rebellion against the old system, as well as Truman-Acheson well-meant modifications of it, which Eisenhower and the incoming secretary of state, John Foster Dulles, must heed.

Incidentally, although the State Department has not publicized this UN action or its reaction to the threat, the question has been discussed off the record with members of the new administration.

Sunday Afternoon Tea Given In Eshelman Home

Sisters Honored At Yule Event

Mrs. John Eshelman of N. Pickaway St. entertained Sunday afternoon with a tea for her daughters, Miss Sally Eshelman, who is a student at Laurel school in Cleveland, and Miss Nancy Eshelman, a student at Denison university.

Guests called between the hours of 5 p. m. and 7 p. m.

Miss Norma Howard, Miss Barbara Huston, Miss Beverly Huston and Miss Jean Heine, all of Circleville, Miss Patricia Hamman, Miss Gail Dunlap and Miss Shirley Dunlap of Williamsport and Miss Connie Mettler of Laurelville.

Assisting Mrs. Eshelman were Mrs. Crist, Mrs. Robert Musser, Mrs. Theodore Huston, Mrs. Luther Bower, Mrs. James I. Smith, Jr., and Mrs. Lemuel Weldon.

Household Hints

Washing improves table linens. Every time you use your fine linens, look for food stains immediately after the meal, and soak or sponge them out. Use cool water for egg, ice cream, meat and fresh fruit stains; warmer water for milk, cream sauces, candy and cocoa. Then launder them in hot soapsuds.

Cheap cutlery requires frequent sharpening and will not keep a keen edge long enough to warrant professional treatment. It pays to buy good knives. In sharpening knives at home on a steel or stone, hold the blade at an angle of about 15 degrees for best results. When using a rotary grinder, pull the blade through repeatedly, but don't push it back and forth.

Hospital Staff Is Entertained At Yule Dinner

Dr. J. M. Hedges and Dr. Ned Griner entertained Friday evening with dinner at Tink's Tavern for the entire hospital staff. Following dinner, a gift exchange was held.

Those present were Dr. and Mrs. Griner, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Smith, Mrs. Margaret Bradbury, Mrs. Eloise Rader, Miss Marjorie Greiner, Mrs. Janet Swingly, Mrs Elaine Bowman, Mrs. Mary Denman;

Purina Employes, Families Honored At Annual Dinner

Approximately 200 persons were present for the annual banquet given for employes and their families of the Ralston Purina Company, Saturday evening.

Preceding the dinner, Mrs. Verneal Thomas played half an hour of Christmas music on the organ in the First Evangelical United Brethren church. Each lady present was given a Christmas corsage.

Decorations, Miss Margie Merz and Glen Hines, chairmen, Bonnie Greeno, Patricia Eitel, John Downs, Carl Dumm, Glenn Justice, Tom Henkle and Martha Barthelmas; Food, Vaden Couch, chairman, Marvin Jenkins, and Marion Steinhauser.

Mr. Couch, local manager, presented the following service awards: desk pen sets for five years service to Mr. Steinhauser, Homer Barr, John Seyfang, Verneal Thomas and Richard Drum; ring or travel alarm clock for 10 years to Chester Spangler, Harold McNeal, Clell McNeal, Harry Shell and John Carle; wrist watch for 15 years service to Kenneth Baldwin and Kirk Cupp, and one share preferred stock to Robert Norpoth for 25 years service.

Ray Friend made the presentations for the driver awards, which were as follows: Ray O'Neal, who holds top honors in the whole company for a total of 460 thousand safe miles driven in nine years; James Steele, Harry Shell, Ellis Norman, Harold Davis, Charles Lagore, Chester Starkey and Richard Drum.

Santa Claus was present to distribute gifts among the group and music was given by a quartet comprised of Jack Miller, Mrs. Robert Spears, Miss Martha Barthelmas and John Carle, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Vaden Couch.

Guest speaker for the evening was the Rev. Troutman, who told of his trip to Europe the past Summer. Mrs. Troutman was also a guest. The Rev. Troutman presented Miss Merz with a red rose corsage for her many years service to the Lutheran church.

Following the banquet, a dance was held in Memorial Hall for the group.

Merchants Asking Customers To Go Easy On Store Clerks

Circleville merchants, prepared for the last big shopping nights before Christmas, have sent out an SOS—"Save Our Sales-people"—in hopes of easing the final buying jam on their employes.

Store executives, sales-people and the customers around the big corner at Main and Court seem agreed the main weight of the Christmas shopping may develop on Monday night, with Tuesday buying limited only to the desperate and absent-minded.

There was variance of views, however, while city stores were taking a firm grip for the last big buying spree of 1952.

As for the merchants themselves, their attitude could be summed up in the remark:

"Let 'em come! And if they look locally before they look in Columbus, they'll find all they want for the same price or better in Circleville."

Men and women of the sales staffs meanwhile joined in one fervent prayer:

"I HOPE when the customers hit us on this last big night or so, they'll try to decide pretty well what they want before they come in. It's too late now just to shop around as a person could do at other times, and we're going to be awfully, awfully busy!"

The customers? They're too busy concentrating on the piled-high counters to talk much, but their main desires in the final buying panic seemed boiled down to two:

1. They want enough sales-people on duty so they won't have to wait an unreasonable length of time.

2. They hope the average clerk has a fair knowledge of stock in other parts of the store.

The latter point arises from claims by some customers that clerks lack even a general knowledge of stock beyond their own departments.

Some merchants, in turn, point out a degree of this trouble can hardly be avoided during a heavy buying season like the Christmas rush, due to the necessity of hiring extra help who have little or no opportunities to learn anything beyond their own duties.

Aside from such matters pro and con, there was a general feeling that Monday night's shopping could be delightfully rough on the customers and still rougher on the clerks.

THAT'S WHY a number of the store owners agreed it would help a lot if the buying public, before it hits the line this last time or two for the Yuletide, could follow a few plain rules:

1. Try to have an idea of just about what you want before you go into the store.

2. Be as patient as you can when waiting for a clerk. By nine o'clock the sales-people are going to be foot-weary too.

3. Don't hold a clerk with small talk after you've transacted your business. There are probably several others waiting for a chance to buy.

THE BEAUTIFUL NEW ABC-O-MATIC

From the moment you turn the dial until you take out your sparkling-clean washing, ready for the clothesline or dryer, your wonderful ABC-O-MATIC does ALL the work for you! You just dial the dirt away!

ABC "shampoo-washes" the clothes, triple-rinses and "Spin-Aire" dries them as no other washer on earth has ever done before — gently, swiftly, quietly.

ABC-O-Matic gives you EXTRA VALUE—EXTRA FEATURES

- ✔ TRIPLE-RINSING: Power, Flushing-Overflow, Splash-Away Power Rinse.
- ✔ NO WADDING of clothes. Water action distributes clothes evenly.
- ✔ "CENTRIC" AGITATION is easier on the clothes.
- ✔ AUTOMATIC LEVELIZER
- ✔ SIGNAL LIGHT tells when washing cycle is completed.
- ✔ NO BOLTING DOWN — less vibration.
- ✔ GEARLESS automatic drive — fewer moving parts.

IF IT'S BUILT BY ABC IT'S AS FINE AS CAN BE

MITCHELL FARM and HOME STORE
FIVE POINTS, OHIO

So long as we have these things...

Christmas, 1952 . . .

Across the land, the bright lights go on, and bells chime out the beloved carols . . .

The postman's pouch grows heavier and heavier . . .

Little folk memorize lines for Christmas pageants . . . and their elders bring out replicas of the manger and figures of the Holy Family, the Wise Men and the Angels.

Holly wreaths appear in windows, and homes become fragrant with the perfume of firs, cedars and pines, and Christmas cooking . . .

Everywhere, the joyful anticipation of Christmas is so robust and real that you can almost reach out across the land and touch it.

This Christmas, may our homes be filled with light and laughter, and may the fires burn bright and warm in our hearths . . .

May there be cheer in our voices for those we pass, and the handclasp of friendship for those who linger with us . . .

May we have hearts filled with forgiveness and selflessness . . .

May we have prayers for our fellow Americans who are fighting to preserve liberty . . . for strangers as well as neighbors.

So long as we have these things, we will give and receive the full reward of Christmas . . . we will keep Christmas, in all its sacredness, in our hearts . . . and Christmas will strengthen us in the hope it gives men of good will.

'Case Of Missing Letter' Could Lead To Higher Fire Rates Here

Higher fire insurance rates for Circleville property owners loomed as a possibility Monday as "The Case of the Missing Letter," rolled back to the first chapter, appears to be going into the records unsolved.

Overshadowing the mystery itself is the fact the Ohio Inspection Bureau has recommended city fire department personnel be "at least' doubled—and the bureau, if its recommendations aren't accepted, could cause a boost in fire insurance rates for the community.

The bureau has notified Circleville it is waiting to see what action the city will take on its suggestion, which would give the city a minimum 15-man fire department. At least one city councilman has indicated the lawmakers feel the bureau's recommendations needn't cause anyone serious concern, however.

"We're always getting their recommendations," he said. "It's a routine they follow."

CITY FIREMEN, on the other hand, warn "there's nothing routine about it—and it's a serious question that the city better get around to answering before the bureau sends its survey men down here and puts us all in a higher rate bracket."

Behind the present status of the problem, one clearly rooted in the thin soil of city finances, is the unsolved "Case of the Missing Letter."

The missing communication was the original letter in which the inspection bureau sent its recommendations to Mayor Ed Amey last October. The mayor said he never received it.

The bureau mailed the letter here last Oct. 10. After waiting on the assumption the mayor had received his copy, Fire Chief Talmer Wise showed his own copy to Amey just prior to the meeting of City Council Dec. 2. The mayor promptly turned Wise's copy over to Council Clerk Fred Nicholas.

NICHOLAS, contacted after the Council meeting, said it hadn't been read and added he didn't recall any request that it be read. Later, however, he checked his records and announced the letter had been read to Council "almost as the last thing before adjournment."

However, the fact that the letter was read without apparently getting the attention it deserves has since become unimportant with the big questions arising from the muddle:

What action, if any, is the city going to take on the inspection bureau's recommendation?

Wise's copy of the communication was signed by Harry L. Krieger, assistant manager of the Ohio Inspection Bureau in Columbus. The bureau is maintained by fire insurance firms to aid in adjustment of rates for various communities.

Krieger told how, on last Oct. 1, he attended a meeting here of the Rural Township Fire Association, this city's fire-fighting link with the townships. Krieger made it clear he sat in on the meeting because of the bureau's "fire insurance rating" interest. Then he continued:

"In the discussion it was brought out that response to the township was only with one man and that response to the city of Circleville on certain days would be with only two men plus such untrained volunteers as could be recruited at the time of a fire. It is, of course, to be realized that untraihed men are more of a liability than an asset.

"NOT ONLY for response to the rural areas but also for much needed response to the city, it is, first of all, recommended that as many additional full-time men be provided as is possible; then, in addition to this, it is also recommended that a call force of at least 15 members be provided, the whole department then to be well trained as a unit.

"No attempt is being made in this letter to go into items other than manpower, for a survey was not made of other things; but in order for the city to have some degree of protection and at the same time grade as well as possible on this particular item, it is suggested that some action be taken on this.

"Will you please keep us informed as to what has been done."

Aussies Send Gift To Man Riding Boat

KURE, Japan (AP)—A group of Australian sergeants have sent two bottles of Christmas cheer—with aspirins attached—to Patrick Michael O'Brien, the man with a ferry but without a country.

O'Brien has been on the Hong Kong-Macao ferry for the past three months, shuttling back and forth between the British and Portuguese colonies because authorities will not give him a permit to land. His citizenship is in question.

Australian sergeants of the British Commonwealth base here got to talking about who should be remembered at Christmas time. O'Brien's name popped up.

It contained cigarettes, clothing, handkerchiefs and playing cards.

Baron Rothschild Weds Ex-Actress

LOCUST VALLEY, N. Y. (AP) — Baron Eugene de Rothschild and Miss Jeanne Stuart, former British actress, were married yere yesterday.

Rothschild is a member of the international banking family. His first wife died six years ago.

Sokolsky's

At one point, Lattimore said, "am I a citizen of America, or a subject of Czechoslovakia or Franco Spain? Am I expected to run around snooping on my fellow citizens?"

"Senator O'Conor. . . That statement is entirely unnecessary. The question of Senator Ferguson did not call for any such outburst as that. Now, will you kindly confine yourself to the question that is asked, and I think if it is answered in the same manner in which the question is asked, there will be no difficulty."

This sort of thing went on for days. In spite of an obvious effort to confuse the Committee, Lattimore contradicted himself. It is on the basis of these contradictions, carefully culled from the record, that the McCarran Committee cited Owen Lattimore to the Attorney General for perjury.

Attorney General James McGranery put a staff to work on the record, with the result that some of the contradictions, the ones which in the view of the Government's lawyers were not lapses of memory, but deliberate falsehoods, were placed before the Federal Grand Jury in Washington for an indictment.

That Grand Jury heard a number of witnesses and voted the indictment unanimously.

That does not establish Owen Lattimore's guilt. It merely gives him his day in court where he may, if he can, disprove the charges.

However, a case such as this, if properly handled in the courts, can open many doors which are now closed.

Big Ten 5s Involved In Upset Series

CHICAGO (AP)—With the Big Ten cage season no more than well started, its already evident a smooth round basketball can take funny bounces, just like a football.

At least two week end basketball results were reminders of the wild 1952 football campaign that saw virtually every conference team figure in some sort of sensational upset.

Michigan State's unheralded Spartans dazed mighty Kansas State Saturday 80-63. The surprise decision came just a day after the Kansans, ranked number two in the nation, had ended Notre Dame's undefeated record with an 80-83 setback.

Notre Dame Saturday night beat UCLA 68-60. The Uclans had taken Michigan State 80-64 the previous evening as part of a two-night doubleheader in East Lansing.

Purdue, able to win only one of three early nonconference games, opened its Big Ten season with a startling 65-59 conquest of previously unbeaten Wisconsin.

Indiana, another team with a 1-2 nonconference record, debuted in the Big Ten with a resounding 88-60 triumph over Michigan, which has lost three straight league games after a solid start against outsiders.

Other Big Ten and Midwest independent action Saturday saw Illinois continue unbeaten with a 75-59 beating of Butler, Ohio State take Pittsburgh 76-70 and Nebraska beat Bradley 73-65.

Torrid Pickaway County League Contests Halt For Next 2 Weeks

Pickaway County's highly-inflammable basketball league will be idle for two weeks during holiday vacations.

At just beyond the half-way mark in this year's county league, the eventual championship is a tossup, with any one of six teams capable of landing on top.

The league was thrown into a mixup during the last two weeks of operations when two of the previously undefeated favorites were knocked off, one of them twice.

Ashville's Broncos, strong contenders for the title, were downed two weeks ago by Scioto's Buffalos, and again last Friday night.

AND JACKSON'S Wildcats were handed their first taste of defeat in six starts last Friday night when they bowed to Pickaway's Pirates.

At the halfway point, Jackson still leads in the county battle with five wins in six starts.

But ranking just behind the 'Cats are five other teams who have only two losses each and who would step up if the Wildcats lose one more.

And four of the other county teams have only three losses to date, all seeking upsets in the upper bracket. Only Monroe's Indians have been unsuccessful this season, having lost all six of its league games to date.

Only Ashville and Walnut have games carded during the Christmas vacation.

Walnut is sponsoring a four-team round-robin tournament Friday and Saturday nights, with Ashville, Bremen and Hamilton Township participating.

On the first night, Walnut will meet Hamilton and Ashville will meet Bremen. On Saturday night, winners of the two games and losers of the two games will meet. Each evening's activities are expected to begin at about 7:30 p. m.

Next on tap for county schools will be Jan. 2, when three games are carded. Pickaway will travel to Clarksburg, Williamsport will invade Kingston and Darby will travel to Wurtland, Ky.

Darby also will travel to Greenup, Ky., on Jan. 3 to complete its trip.

Complete standings of the county league to date follow:

STANDINGS

Team	Won	Lost	Pct.
Jackson	5	1	.833
New Holland	4	2	.667
Walnut	4	2	.667

School Children To Be Admitted Free At Game

All school-age children will be admitted free Tuesday night to the Circleville-St. Charles basketball game in Pickaway Fairgrounds Coliseum.

But there is a catch. Each child admitted free of admission must be accompanied by an adult.

Tom Bennett, faculty manager of Circleville high school, said the special offer is being made in an effort to get the older fans out to the game, giving them a chance to see what the school team has to offer.

Falling Pole Gives Awful Impression At Meeting On Dump

Local Shopper Has To Yield Teddy Bear

Search Fails To Net Girls Peeved Over Circleville Rents

Little acts from Circleville's passing show:

When members of City Council filed into Pickaway County Commissioners' office not so long ago for a huddle on what to do about the municipal dump, County Engineer Henry T. McCrady happened to be present and snickered on his way out the door:

"This looks like it might be rough, and I'm going to get out of here while the getting's good."

A moment later, an eight-foot window pole leaning in a corner near Councilman Ray Cook toppled over and missed the head of Commissioner Bill Goode by four and three-quarter inches.

The pole was still clattering across the commissioners' desk when somebody in the adjoining office of County Auditor Fred Tipton chuckled:

"See! They're at it already!"

WHAT'S ALL this talk about a Christmas shopper who claims he walked into a downtown store carrying a teddy bear and had it taken away from him? Things have come to a pretty pass when a guy's teddy bear isn't safe in his own arms!

But maybe times are changing, and it certainly seemed that way not so long ago when two worried women stormed into the Pickaway County Engineers' office.

Both seemed to be from somewhere in the Columbus area, and one lost no time in getting down to business.

"Where," she demanded, "is the rent control board around this place?"

When it was explained no rent control office has ever been established here although the future may bring one about, the girls looked at each other knowingly and nodded in the manner of those who see through monkeyshines all of the sudden.

"Well," snorted the talking member of the pair, "that explains an awful lot! No rent control board, eh? No wonder the people around this burg are getting away with murder! The sooner I get moved out of Circleville the better I'll like it!"

And with that they were gone again—so furious and so fast that even a hot-foot chase down Court street couldn't locate the ladies to find out who got away with what.

EVEN NOW, in this time of goodwill and general merriment, there may be reasons to be furious—even if all you can do is go over in a corner and chew on the radiator.

Take the Post Office crews for example, and their current grief with careless handwriting—one of the biggest proofs that America is, and for a long time has been, in an awful hurry.

Just as they do in post offices all over the land, and in almost every other line of activity, Pickaway County folks every day find handwriting that looks as though it may have been done holding the pen or pencil between one's toes. But nary a one should cast a stone without first checking his or her own glass house, and while the habit lacks a good excuse we scribblers nevertheless have lots of company.

Furthermore, the people who print business forms of various types may be held partly responsible. When a person is told to "fill in" a blank or "write on the dotted line," and then finds the blank or line less than one-fourth long enough, there's only one solution.

And that's to write the whole thing in the one hopeless scrawl.

"There's not room enough here to write what you want," complained the weary shopper with a form-to-be-made-out in hand.

"That's all right," the twice-as-weary clerk replied, "I probably won't be able to read what you write anyway."

THE SINGING mood already has the local community in a firm grip, and that goes for a juke box that plays whenever it feels the urge at a downtown restaurant.

Apparently because it had just recognized a coin dropped in by a customer sometime previous, the music-maker suddenly burst forth with one of the latest tunes one recent morning when nobody even had music in mind—much less paying for it.

A waitress glanced around for customers who may have dropped in the coin, saw none, and shrugged:

"I'm getting out of this place. It's haunted!"

One local store that doesn't want public credit for the co-operation it feels it has done a good deed in behalf of the county-wide campaign against rats. An elderly gentleman phoned in from the rural sections to say he wanted two pounds of rat poison but wanted it delivered. It was delivered, and now may it do its duty—all two pounds of it!

Pickaway County's rat campaigners, by the way, should be told about that lady in Detroit who recently was brought into court for the way she rat-proofed her house. Neighbors, it seems, said she did such a good job of plugging up the holes that the rats already inside couldn't get out.

Fast talk in the great American home:

(In the course of a rambling tale about some early boy friend who was able to dodge arrest as a juvenile delinquent and made a big impression on the girls.)

"I'll tell you one thing! He was very kind and courteous, and when he had that automobile he offered to take me anywhere I wanted to go."

"Ha! One of the first of the mobile wolves! Didn't he say anything about etchings?"

"No, he didn't. But now that you mention it I did notice him scratch."

More State Financial Aid For Schools Asked By OEA

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Education Association wound up its 31st annual convention today after adopting a legislative program asking the state for more financial help in school assistance.

A 21-point program proposed to the 650 delegates by the OEA's executive committee was rushed through with only minor changes.

One proposal in the legislative program adopted earlier in the day is to ask the 100th General Assembly to hike the state guaranteed minimum level from the present $125 to $150 per elementary pupil and from $150 to $180 per high school pupil.

Another will urge legislators to raise the flat distribution to all pupils from $57 to $75 per elementary pupil and from $67 to $90 per high school pupil.

All public schools get the same flat distribution fees from the state. However, the state contributes toward the minimum level only when the districts fail to collect locally.

AN INCREASE of $12 million to aid new building construction, building rehabilitation and equipment for distressed areas; an increase of $2½ million in state aid for school bus purchases, and a raise in the starting and top salary limits under the state teachers minimum salary law are other major points urged in the program.

Other plans in the OEA legislative program include:

Creation of a state board of education by constitutional amendment, increased state support for vocational education and handicapped children, abolition of the 14 school districts which do not maintain schools.

Allocation of 100 per cent of the state film censorship fees to the state department of education (50 per cent is now allocated), and continuation of the present 8 per cent debt limitation to enable school boards to raise more funds locally for school building construction.

Carl H. Shanks of Wilmington was elected new OEA president.

The Ohio County Superintendents Association, meeting in conjunction with the OEA, elected Samuel E. Martin of Tiffin, president.

Other new presidents named by groups were:

Bad Weather Hits Central Part Of U.S.

CHICAGO (AP)—Snow, sleet and rain hit wide areas in the central part of the country today, curtailing travel on the highways and in the air.

The precipitation belt extended from Arkansas northward through Southern Minnesota and eastward into the Great Lakes region and the Lower Ohio River Valley.

The snow, up to seven inches, was confined to the extreme northern part of the storm-swept area. There was no severe cold. Lowest readings were near zero in Northern Minnesota.

The fresh falls of snow gave the northern states a wintry look on the last day of the autumn season. Winter makes its official entry at 4:44 p. m., EST, Sunday.

Travel was hazardous on highways over many sections hit by the freezing rain and snow. The sleet continued early today in Southwestern Lower Michigan, parts of Southwestern Iowa and in Southeast Nebraska. Rain fell in the southwestern portions of the precipitation area.

Snowfalls measuring up to seven inches were reported in sections of Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas and Wisconsin. Snow also fell in Minnesota and the Dakotas. The storms hit as the volume of home-bound highway traffic increased with the closing of colleges for the Christmas holidays.

Price Of Justice Said Too High

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. (AP)—Eighty-four manslaughter indictments brought by the state of New Jersey against the Pennsylvania Railroad for the deaths of 85 persons in the 1951 Woodbridge train wreck have been dismissed because it would cost too much to bring them to trial.

Middlesex County Prosecutor Alex Eber in getting the dismissal Friday estimated it would cost the taxpayers more than $25,000 on each indictment for which the maximum penalty is a $1,000 fine.

Ike Believes His New Team Of Businessmen A Good One

NEW YORK (AP)—President-elect Eisenhower is counting on the civilian team of businessmen who will head the armed services in his administration to save the taxpayers money without jeopardizing defense.

Eisenhower reportedly placed much emphasis on a need for what one aide called "sound American business sense" in his now completed search for a defense high command to direct the spending of billions of dollars.

His first step, taken late last month, was to choose Charles E. Wilson, the veteran president of General Motors, as secretary of defense to head the civilian team.

Eisenhower wanted not only a man who knew production but one schooled in the ways of getting full value out of every dollar.

He and Wilson looked for experienced businessmen to head the Army, Navy and Air Force Departments. Friday Eisenhower announced the selection of:

Robert Ten Broeck Stevens, 53, of South Plainfield, N. J., as secretary of the Army.

He is a textile executive and also is chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. He served as a colonel in the quartermaster general's office during World War II.

Robert Bernerd Anderson, 42, of Vernon, Tex., as secretary of the Navy. A Democrat, he is manager of a half-million acre ranch, one of the largest in Texas. He also is chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas.

Harold E. Talbott, 64, of New York, as secretary of the Air Force. He is a member of the Chrysler Corp. finance committee, a former chairman of the board of the North American Aviation Company and a former president of the Dayton Wright Company. During the World War II he served as director of aircraft production for the War Production Board.

Eisenhower also named Roger M. Kyes, 46, of Bloomfield Hills, Mich., deputy secretary of defense. Like Wilson, under whom he will serve, Kyes is a General Motors executive—general manager of the corporation's motor truck and coach division.

All of the defense high command appointees are Republicans except Anderson. All are resigning their private jobs.

Aides said Eisenhower is delighted about the business backgrounds of all of the men and feels their experience should assure savings without endangering defense.

During the campaign Eisenhower pledged repeatedly to work for a cut in federal spending. He reportedly feels there is room for savings in the military field, where he has spent most of his life.

In completing selection of top civilians in the defense setup, Eisenhower also let it be known he wants to name another woman to a post in his administration.

Mrs. Mary B. Lord of New York conferred with the general Friday and said afterward that he had authorized her to say he had offered her a job. She said she was considering the offer and would decide in a few days.

Mrs. Lord was co-chairman of the National Citizens for Eisenhower Committee.

Santa Quits Job; Says Kids 'Too Rough'

Harold Barker, an 18-year-old freshman student at Loyola University of the South, decided Friday that his role as Santa Claus in a New Orleans gasoline station was just too rugged.

All he had to do was give away lollipops and balloons and act cheerful.

Barker became frustrated and frazzled an hour after he reported for work Thursday when about 200 children decided to take matters in their own hands.

They grabbed all the balloons and lollipops and in the confusion, Santa's buttons and wig were ripped off.

Children overflowed into the street, cars couldn't get near the gas pumps and traffic was snarled.

With the speed of Dasher and Dancer, Santa fled to the safety of the station house and attendants secured the doors.

"They were just being friendly," puffed Santa wearily, "but they played too rough."

Two Nights Set For Home Judging

Judging for Circleville's Christmas-trimmed homes will be held both on Saturday night and Sunday night.

It was first planned for judging on Sunday night. Then plans were made to have judging on Saturday night.

Joe Bell, head of the Chamber of Commerce committee on the program, said many persons have contacted him to complain they had planned on the first announcement and would not begin trimming their homes until Sunday.

"So we have decided to judge city homes both nights," Bell said.

Taft Assured Of Top Post

Senate Floor Leader Job Going To Ohioan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Taft of Ohio was all but elected as the new Senate's Republican floor leader today in a fresh burst of party harmony.

Backstage maneuvering for the post apparently came to an end Friday with the announcement by Taft that he was a candidate for the job and that he had assurances from Sen. Bridges (R-NH) and Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) that they were not seeking the position.

Taft's announcement was preceded earlier in the week by a statement from Sen. Carlson (R-Kan) clearly indicating that President-elect Eisenhower had no objection to the Ohio senator becoming the GOP floor leader in the Senate session starting Jan. 3.

Carlson was one of Eisenhower's close advisers during the presidential campaign, and what he had to say was regarded by senators as signifying a desire by the President-elect to avoid any breach with Taft.

EARLIER, SOME senators had misgivings, not only because of Taft's fight against Eisenhower for the GOP presidential nomination but also because of his recent blast against the President-elect's choice of Martin P. Durkin to be secretary of labor.

Taft called the selection of Durkin for the Cabinet post an "incredible appointment," saying the Chicago union official was a Democrat who had fought Eisenhower's election and advocated repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor act.

In addition, Taft reportedly had been irked that his Cabinet recommendations had not been given consideration, and that a number of close associates of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, long his party rival, had been picked by Eisenhower for top spots.

Republican senators felt, however, that Carlson had taken pains to flash the signal that Eisenhower wanted to avoid a continuing quarrel with Taft.

Antioch Planning Campus Theater

Money for the project, the college hopes, will come through the school's $3.7 million New Century Fund drive that began this month.

Originally, the theater group gave its plays in the Yellow Springs village opera house. When it failed to pass fire laws in 1949, the group moved to a foundry on the Antioch campus. This kept the public from seeing any except the out-door summer plays. Now it plans to convert another foundry on the edge of the campus into a theater.

Final Preparations Being Made To Ready Present For Christmas

Final preparations for attempting to complete Circleville's Christmas present for the Pollock families were underway Saturday despite dripping skies.

Moving onto the scene with power equipment, Gerald Leist, city contractor, aided by Harry Clifton and Fire Chief Talmer Wise, began sizing lumber for Sunday's building operation.

Wise, father of the project to replace the homes destroyed last week by fire, leaving two families without shelter at Christmas time, and Clifton, commander of Circleville American Legion, have devoted the entire week to gathering materials and preparing for Sunday's program.

And, if the weatherman gives any cooperation at all, the house should be fairly well completed by the first of next week.

Using all available donations of cash and materials generously handed out by local firms and individuals, the guiding officials have nearly guaranteed completion by Christmas.

More money could be used for interior supplies, such as panelling and floor underlay and other necessities which may crop up.

Circleville American Legion members, along with other persons interested in having the home completed in time for Christmas, are urged to join in the building program Sunday.

Work at the site, located just behind the ice plant on Island Road, will begin at about 9 a. m. Sunday.

FLANKED BY U. S. marshals, Joseph (Specs) O'Keefe is brought to grand jury hearings in Boston after disclosure of an FBI affidavit that the 44-year-old convict was a "participant" in the $1,219,000 Brink's robbery of January, 1950, in which eight Hallowe'en masked bandits figured. O'Keefe is serving a term in Pennsylvania State prison for gun carrying. The affidavit alleges that when O'Keefe was in jail in July, 1950, a telephone conversation to his supposed wife in Stoughton, Mass., implicated him.

Friends Rally Around Polio Victim Facing Eviction Order

CHICAGO (AP) — The Christmas spirit was evident in suburban Park Ridge Friday and happiness came to a 27-year-old woman polio victim facing eviction from her home.

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Kitsmiller, who is almost completely paralyzed from polio and is confined to an iron lung, faces eviction for non-payment of rent to her mother-in-law.

In the first day after the story of the eviction order, friends and neighbors contributed more than $500 to the stricken woman.

She and her son, James H. III, 6, and her parents have been ordered to vacate from a six-room bungalow in 90 days. The eviction order was obtained by Mrs. Kitsmiller's mother-in-law, Mrs. Marion Kitsmiller, 50, of Evanston, for failure to pay $95 a month rent.

The Park Ridge Lions Club started the fund with $150.

POLICE CHIEF Willis F. Jones said more than $500 had been raised, including $201 turned in by a woman who canvassed a neighborhood.

The Rev. George Green of the suburb's Community Church, said a group of residents would ask Mayor Alfred Haake to organize a community-wide effort on behalf of the stricken woman. He said he hopes enough money could be raised to buy the house "so Mrs. Kitsmiller won't have to move."

The money - raising campaign was not the only note of cheer for the polio victim.

Friday night 25 men from the Park Ridge Men's Chorus serenaded her with Christmas carols. Earlier, a fully trimmed Christmas tree was taken to the home.

Second Thug Being Tied To Brink's Holdup

BOSTON (AP)—The FBI today reportedly has in custody a second man identified as a participant in the $1,219,000 Brink's holdup.

Reports said FBI affidavits named the unidentified man as having been in the group of hooded gunmen who escaped with the largest American cash haul after tying up five employes in the firm's vaults Jan. 17, 1950.

The man is described as 37 years old and having a long record. He is said to be in custody of the FBI but not necessarily in a penal institution. The inference was drawn that the man might "talk." But U. S. Atty. George F. Garrity had no comment.

The information was said to be based on FBI affidavits no longer available. The papers reportedly said the man at one time had approximately $60,000 of the Brink's holdup money in his possession.

First sworn affidavits, made available Thursday night, named Joseph "Specs" O'Keefe, 44, of Boston as one of the Brink's robbers. But since then, all papers having any connection with the holdup have been removed from files and hidden.

Scout Food Drive Delayed By Rain

A Christmas food-collection drive by Circleville Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts was postponed Saturday because of rain.

The drive will be held after school Monday and until the city is canvassed. Food staples are to be collected for needy families.

Dovie Dean Seen Getting Retrial

BATAVIA (AP)—Mrs. Dovie Dean, who faces a death sentence for the poison death of her husband, may get another trial.

Judge Harry Britton Friday set Jan. 16 as date for arguments on the motion for a new trial for the 54-year-old farmwife. Her defense counsel already has indicated it will battle the case through the higher courts. A Clermont County common pleas jury took only 45 minutes last Saturday to find Mrs. Dean guilty of the first - degree murder of her 68-year-old husband, Hawkins.

Evangelist Lauds Army In Korea

SEOUL (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham today gathered a dozen GIs around a microphone in Seoul to tell American radio listeners that U. S. troops in Korea form "the most compassionate army in history."

On a Christmas program, Graham told of what he had seen in his first week on this war-torn peninsula. The soldiers and airmen who appeared on the program included two Ohioans, Pfc. Tony Reeves of Oberlin and Cpl. Dale E. Wells of Zanesville.

Norway-Turkey Arc Said New Allied Strategy

Latest Setup Radical Change From Previous Western Concepts

PARIS (AP)—Members of the North Atlantic Treaty alliance have accepted a new basic strategy outline radically altering Western defense concepts as a result of the admission of Greece and Turkey into the pact, high military sources disclosed today.

The sources said the new strategy paper, placed before NATO foreign and defense ministers during meetings here this week, drew attention to the fact that, with the admission of Turkey, Allied forces have been brought virtually face-to-face with Russia's Caucasian forces.

Details of the outline, drafted by Allied military planners to take into account the new military position of the West, have been a closely guarded secret. But broadly, it sets the frontiers of Western freedom along the line of a giant transcontinental arc.

The arc stretches from Norway's Arctic tip southward through Denmark, along the line of Germany's Elbe River, then southeastward through Greece to the Turkish-Russian border in the Caucasus, between the Black and Caspian Seas.

This hint of future NATO strategy came after Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway had chided North Atlantic ministers for what he called their decision to slow down the Western European defense buildup.

Obviously irked, the supreme Allied commander declared "there can be no excuse for any slackening of effort in the rapid building of NATO defenses" in the face of a continuing threat of war.

Ridgway deplored economy moves of the North Atlantic Council. He declared:

"We do not know how long we shall be the Kremlin's target, marked for attack by war at a time of its own choosing."

Foreign, finance and defense ministers of the 14-member nations wound up a four-day meeting here after the council cut in half a call by Ridgway for $428 million to build more air bases and other installations in 1953.

Ridgway waited less than 24 hours after the ministers wound up their meeting to deplore its outcome. He said the decisions showed "unimaginative thought."

Until NATO gets the minimum requirements to defend Western Europe against Soviet attack, he said, there can be no "less insistence on our part in urging this action on the proper olitical authorities."

"As the responsible military commander in our present situation," he added, "I reject as unjustifiably dangerous the view that potential aggressors do not want war, are not ready for war and will not precipitate war; that we are in for a long cold war and, therefore, should adjust our plans accordingly."

Ridgway scoffed at what he called "a tendency to think that these things we wish to defend, will not be attacked."

Now We Know What Saucer Is

That's what Dr. Edgar F. Mauer of Los Angeles says in a communique to "Science" magazine.

In Topsy-Turvy Germany, There Are 2 'Princes Of Peace'

BERLIN (AP) — In the West, the Germans are singing:

"Oh little star of Bethlehem..."

In the East, they are chanting:

"Oh, great red star over Moscow..."

It's Christmas time in Germany and like everything else in this topsy-turvy land, there are two sides to even this. There are even two "Princes of Peace."

The West German, following long tradition, pays his yuletide homage to the Nazarene. The East German, dominated completely by Communist rulers, is forced to turn to a disciple of peace who wears the uniform of a marshal of the Soviet Union, Josef Stalin.

Pre-holiday preparations in two-headed Berlin illustrate the wide gulf of the two worlds. The free broke out early with the usual Christmas markets, giant posters of Santa Claus, a splurge of gifts, Christmas trees and ornaments, stepped-up church services, nightly caroling and a gay spirit of good will.

In the Communist East, the accent is on Stalin, "peace," "building socialism," eradicating "enemy spies and saboteurs," and resisting "the Western warmongers."

In East Berlin and throughout the East zone, city streets are full of posters and signs shrilling these familiar Red rantings. Shop windows are full of them, too. There isn't a poster of Santa Claus anywhere.

In the Western stores and factories, collections are being taken up for Christmas parties for the underprivileged. In the Soviet factories, mills and mines, workers are being urged to "exceed production" as a "gift" for Stalin's birthday Dec. 21.

Soviet zone efforts to kill the Christmas spirit by ignoring it appear to be working among the young, rabid Reds. But the older generation still hangs onto the habits and customs of the past.

Shockingly short on consumer goods the Red regime frowns on "wasting" fir trees by adorning them with ornaments and candles. Prices in the state stores are so high the average worker is lucky if he can buy a toy for his child. For most the holiday meal will consist of sausage, potatoes, bread and beer.

In West Berlin, bent by blockade and isolation, the poorest of families will have a goose, or a roast chicken, wine, fruit, nuts and liqueurs for the traditional holiday neighbor who "drops in."

The West Berlin Christmas market is loaded with luxury gifts. A pale, dingy reflection is the East Berlin market which presents household furnishings, books, clothing (mostly cotton), imitation leather goods, ersatz furs and wood carvings.

The Western Allies are collecting many thousands of dollars to provide Christmas parties and gifts for the needy. The Russians take up "collections" for the Korean War.

You Really Want 100-Cent Dollar Back?

Return To Pre-War Economy May Bring Unusual Situation

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—A drop in the cost of living—a restoration of the buying power of the dollar—would be a welcome Christmas present for everyone.

Or would it?

Call it "making a dollar worth 100 cents again", and it sounds fine. Call it "deflation", and a lot of people get worried.

The dollar actually has 100 cents now, as it always did, but inflation has chiselled away much of its buying power.

When you talk of a "52 - cent dollar," you mean that before the war 52 cents would buy as much in goods and services as one dollar will now.

The pre-war dollar bought more finished goods. It also bought more raw materials. And it bought more labor.

Many people, however, had fewer dollars then to spend on goods than they do today.

It is the others—those with only as many dollars a week to spend now as they had before the war—for whom the postwar rise in the cost of living is particularly rough.

Millions, for example, are trying to live on pensions or savings—earned when the dollar bought more, and being spent now when inflation has taken half of its buying power.

To deflate the economy, get back to prewar prices, and make the dollar as hefty in purchasing power as it once was, however, might mean that people would have to take in fewer dollars for the commodities they grow or mine, and get less for transporting them to factories.

Workers in factories and mills might have to take pay cuts. And those who supply factories with tools, materials and services would have to slash their prices—and incomes.

Stores would have to pay less for rent, light, fixtures and clerks than they do now.

Everyone would enjoy paying less for the things he has to buy. Few would relish getting less for the goods or labor he has for sale.

A Virginia farmer says of inflation: "I like having more money. I know it runs right through my fingers when I go to the store. But I like the feel of more of it in my hands."

And a Bloomington, Ill., man writes: "Our dollar is worth 100 cents, always has been and always will be.

"After all, a dollar is simply a token of a day's work, and the more days work there are, the better for everybody and the country in general."

Veterans Life Insurance Fee On Riders Cut

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Veterans Administration announced today a reduction in premium rates charged for total disability income riders on its five-year term National Service Life Insurance policies.

An official told a reporter some 45,000 to 50,000 veterans who had or have the riders will get refund checks which will total about $1½ million.

Under the riders, monthly income of $5 per $1,000 of insurance is provided veterans who become totally disabled for six months or more and their insurance also is continued in effect without further payment of premiums as long as the disability continues.

For some age levels the new rate is about a third of what it formerly was—at age 30 it is $1.07 a year per $1,000 insurance, compared with an old rate of $3.55 a year, and at age 35 it is $1.42 compared with $4.14. At age 55 there is no change, $9.12 a year per $1,000 under the old and new schedules.

Ohio Farmer Net Seen Below 1951

WASHINGTON (AP) — When final returns are in, they probably will show that Ohio farmers as a whole received less for their livestock and crops this year than in 1951.

A farm income report issued by the Agriculture Department showed cash received from farm marketings in Ohio totaled $613,243,000 over the first 10 months of 1952, or $14,410,000 below the 1951 total for the corresponding period.

Westinghouse OKs Special Yule Pay

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The 97,000 employes of Westinghouse Electric Corp. will get a pre-Christmas advance of $25 on retroactive pay due them after recent wage increases.

The pay increase, retroactive to Oct. 1, were approved Wednesday by the Wage Stabilization Board. Westinghouse announced the pay advances Friday "so that our employes can have at least part of the money before Christmas."

Wesley Hill Said To Be Improving

Wesley Hill, 20, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Alonzo Hill of West Corwin street, has been reported in improved condition in a British hospital in Gibraltar.

Hill became seriously ill recently while serving with the U. S. Navy on a Mediterranean cruise.

Shortly after leaving Greece aboard his ship, the former CHS football player grew ill and was transferred to a hospital ship. From there he was transferred into the British Garrison hospital on Gibraltar for specialized treatment.

Mrs. Hill said she learned of her son's improvement while she and Dr. and Mrs. V. D. Kearns of Circleville were in Washington this week.

Mrs. Hill and the Kearnses accompanied the Rev. Alonzo Hill, who left by airplane for Gibraltar to be with his son. The Rev. Mr. Hill was to have arrived at the hospital Saturday morning.

ONCE UPON A CHRISTMAS EVE

By WILLIAM RITT

WHENEVER Eski is sad or troubled, the little Eskimo child goes fishing. So, too worried over the disappearance of Santa's reindeer to sleep, Eski tiptoes out of the family igloo so as not to awaken either Father or Mother.

CARRYING a small-size kayak (that's an Eskimo canoe), the little child heads for the seashore. Maybe, while fishing in the icy waters, Eski can think of a way to help Santa Claus find his reindeer. There must be a way!

SITTING SNUGLY in the small canoe, Eski paddles far out to sea and thinks and thinks so hard the Eskimo child forgets all about the fish which, anyway, are hiding far down in the water, away from the icy cold.

ESKI suddenly looks up and -- lo, and behold! -- there is a big ice floe floating out to sea and on it are all eight of Santa Claus' runaway reindeer. Eski blinks and blinks. Can it really be true? (To Be Continued)

And Don Garrison of Clarksburg was fined $15 and costs for speeding at 65 on Route 23. He was arrested by Miller.

Brodie Twins Still Battling To Stay Alive

CHICAGO (AP)—The Brodie Siamese twins remained alive today but still in critical condition.

The world watched as specialists continued their fight to keep alive the 15-month-old boys. Their heads were separated in a history-making operation Wednesday.

One of the twins, Roger Lee, has remained unconscious since the operation. His condition was termed "very precarious." The other twin, Rodney Dee, was "doing better than his brother." But his condition also was critical.

Some physicians have said they never observed such remarkable recuperative powers as those exhibited by the twins.

The mother, Mrs. Marjorie Brodie, 30, a former nurse, said:

"I think it's a miracle that they've gone this far."

A bulletin by the University of Illinois medical center said there had been "no great change for better or worse in the last 24 hours."

The critical period for both boys, doctors said, will continue for another four to six days, at least, despite any day-by-day change.

'53 Wheat Crop Seen Below Par

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States wheat crop in 1953 may fall far short of market demand but reserves from past crops would make up the difference.

The total 1953 wheat production could amount to about 896 million bushels, the smallest in 10 years and much below this year's near-record output of 1,292,000,000 bushels. The 1953 figure includes a 611,141,000 bushel yield from fall-planted winter wheat, as forecast Friday by the Agriculture Department, and an assumed average spring wheat crop of 285 million bushels, which will not be estimated until early summer.

Ammo Cache Is Linked To Cuban Plot

MAMARONECK, N. Y. (AP)—Westchester County police raided an abandoned gasoline station in this New York City suburb Friday and seized a large cache of munitions which authorities linked to a planned Cuban revolution.

The descent on the boarded-up station uncovered about two truckloads of napalm grenades, rifle grenades, bazooka shells, rifle clips and gunpowder, parachute flares and a drum of napalm powder.

After the raid police arrested three men, including 29-year - old munitions dealer Alfred Manheim. Westchester County Sheriff John E. Hoy and Asst. Dist. Atty. M. Morton Edmiston said Manheim told them he was collecting the arsenal in behalf of ex-President Carlos Prio Socarras of Cuba.

Later, however, Manheim denied to newsmen that he mentioned Cuba and said he was getting the munitions for an unidentified customer.

Manheim, who lives on plush Park Avenue in New York City, was seized when he drove up to the station with Frank Connell, 49, of Brooklyn. Although Connell claimed he was just along for the ride, he was accused of being in charge of shipping the cache. A third man, 35-year-old Jose Duarte, was arrested in nearby Yonkers, N. Y. Hoy named Duarte as purchaser of the munitions. Police said at least two others were being sought.

Allied Planes Plaster Reds Along Fronts

Scattered low clouds over much of North Korea in the afternoon limited Allied air strikes and kept Communist Mig jet fighters north of the Yalu River, which divides North Korea from Manchuria.

On the ground, Allied and Communist riflemen traded small arms and hand grenade fire in light contacts along the front as temperatures skidded below zero and snow fell in the west.

The raiders claimed nine Chinese were killed and seven wounded, but they pulled back when Communist tanks opened up.

Who's Jealous Of A Jughead Green Statue?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—There is a small green goddess who has come to our house to stay and she lives in my wife's bathroom.

I call the little bronze statue, corroded by the centuries, "Miss Far East of 1660." Frances prefers to refer to her as "that jughead." And I think she regards her as a rival.

The statue, which is about a foot tall, once rested in the window of an antiques shop in Seoul, the South Korean capital. I fell in love with her at first sight, for on her faded gold leaf face was the look of a heavy-lidded Oriental Mona Lisa.

Every day on the ride up to the front I would pause and look at her. One day, as the Chinese Reds were massing to engulf the city, I saw the antique dealer was closing his store and preparing to flee South.

I entered and asked him the price of the statue. He said I could have her for about 24,000 Korean dollars. Well, as that was only eight U. S. bucks—I'd buy the Brooklyn bridge at that price—I took her.

"Who is she?" I inquired as he wrapped her.

"The goddess of pity," he said.

A few nights later the goddess and I fled flaming Seoul together, and a month after that we were in America. When I tenderly unwrapped her with my other souvenirs, Frances said:

"Goddess of pity nothing! I think she's horribly ugly. And see how moldy green she is. She looks more like the goddess of jealousy."

Well, I put her on public view anyway on a bookshelf in "the brown study," a room which started out to be my den and is now the place where Frances likes to do her sewing. And most of our friends loyally agreed with Frances: "Goddess or not, she's downright homely."

Then one night during a party a friend said, "You knwo the way your little goddess has her hand cupped. . .I think she was meant to be holding a candle in it."

So we pared down a table candle, fitted it in the tiny curved palm, and lit it.

"Now let's turn out all the other lights," said our friend.

We did—and in the semi-darkness my goddess of pity came instantly alive. She sat there with one hand lifted in a gesture of eternal mercy, and the soft candlelight flickered on a face of mysterious beauty. That was the way she had been meant to be seen—glowing through the dusk of a vanished Oriental temple, worshipped to the music of hidden gongs.

The guests were fascinated. But the next day the little green statue was gone from the bookshelf. When I asked Frances, "where's my goddess?" she replied:

"Oh, she was out of place there. I put her on the window shelf behind the door in my bathroom. You don't want to stare at a creepy thing like that all the time, do you?"

I looked at her and laughed, and Frances said sharply:

"Look, Rover, if you think I'm jealous of that silly jugheaded statue, you're crazy. I told you she just doesn't fit into this room."

But it doesn't help at all when our guests say on arrival now:

"Let's bring in that goddess and turn out the lights and look at her. Why do you keep such a wonderful showpiece in the bathroom, Frances?"

Lt. William Hill With 73rd Bn. On Korea Front

First Lt. William G. Hill of 126 S. Pickaway St. is serving with the 73rd Medium Tank Battalion in Korea.

Hill is with the same battalion in which John Porter of Circleville saw service in the Korean area. He reported to the group shortly after Porter returned to the states.

Hill's commendation was as follows:

"At a time when this unit was employed in supporting the entire battalion plus B company of the 14th Tank Battalion, and was operating across a four-division front, it was the courageous and tireless performance of duty by you and your fellow drivers that enabled the tanks to stay in the fight.

"THERE was no time or place, including the tanks on the front, when gasoline or ammo was needed that you did not willingly keep them supplied.

"The casualties among the drivers are a testimonial to your willingness to deliver the goods under fire."

Lady Thugs Forget To Bring Pistol

The gun!

"When on of them opened the cash register and reached for the money, I slapped it out of her hand," said William Brown Jr., a service station attendant who was being "held up."

One woman suddenly remembered she had forgotten the gun ran to her car and came back brandishing a revolver. That made Brown angry. He punched the woman and took her gun away. The girls fled.

Workman Killed

Teenage Girls Held By FBI In Extortion

PITTSBURGH (AP) — FBI agents have arrested two teenage girls—one 14, the other 15—and charged them with attempting to extort a total of $30,000 from H. J. Heinz, president of the food firm bearing his name, and Arthur Rooney, owner of the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League.

Fred Hallford, special agent in charge of the FBI office here, said his men had waited in vain six times for writers of extortion notes to the two prominent Pittsburghers to pick up the money they demanded. Then one night the two young girls walked into the darkness of a Northside Pittsburgh Park and picked up a package lying on a bench that allegedly contained $12,000. Instead it held a bundle of worthless paper.

Hallford disclosed the two girls had been arrested Thursday night. He declined to identify them, except to give their ages. He said both girls admitted writing the notes—10 in all—to Heinz, demanding $20,000 and to Rooney, asking $10,000.

The extortion letters were similar, Hallford said. The girls threatened to harm the Rooney's 13-year-old twin sons and the 11-year-old son of Heinz.

The last of the threatening letters was sent to Heinz Dec. 13. Heinz was instructed to place the money in a package at the park.

Federal School Aid Assured, GOPster Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—A key congressional figure said today he believes the new Republican Congress will continue federal aid to the states for construction of schoolhouses in areas of concentrated government activity.

Rep. Sam McConnell (R-Pa), slated to become chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee in the 83rd Congress, says he considers federal aid to government "impacted" areas of vital importance.

He also said he approved of general school construction in needy local school districts.

The so-called federally "impacted" districts are those which are unable to finance school services because a government project has brought an influx of workers whose children overtax existing facilities.

Another type of impacted district in one where federal acquisition of land and property removes it from the local tax rolls and reduces the tax income for school purposes.

McConnell said aid to these hard-up areas was "a definite one" for Congress to supply.

But at the same time, McConnell ruled out proposals for general federal aid for maintenance and operation of schools—such as payment of teacher salaries or financing auxiliary services like school bus transportation.

Christ, God-Man Will Be Theme For Lutherans

This Sunday morning in Trinity Lutheran church there will be a special pre-Christmas worship service. The sermon will center around the human and divine natures of Jesus Christ, the God-man.

Theme to be employed by Student pastor Jacque Schweiss' is "And the Word Became Flesh." He will present a study of the person of Jesus Christ before and after His incarnation. Particular stress will be placed on the fact that our Redeemer not only is true God from all eternity and to all eternity, but from the time of the incarnation is also true man.

At 7 p. m., the Sunday school will present its annual Children's Christmas Worship Service in the church. There will be readings by both individuals and groups, and songs by the various classes and the children's choir.

The program will center about a colored filmstrip entitled "Christmas Joys," which focuses attention on Jesus as he is revealed in the Bible.

Pastoral Letter To Be Read In St. Joseph's

Parishioners of St. Joseph's Catholic church Sunday will hear a pastoral letter from Bishop Ready urging them to be generous in their contributions at Christmas in giving for orphans. This money is used for the upkeep of the orphanages in the diocese.

Msgr. George Mason will also read another pastoral letter proclaiming a day of special devotion Dec. 28. On this date, special devotions will be held in all churches of the diocese with prayers offered for their brethren in Christ who are facing martyrdom in countries behind the iron curtain. Final arrangements for these devotions will be announced at a later date.

On Sunday afternoon, members of the Senior CYO group will go to St. Peters church, Chillicothe, to attend a southern deanery CYO meeting.

Wednesday is day of fasting and abstinence—one of the most strict fast days in the church calendar. Even the military are not exempt from the fast on this day. All persons who plan to receive communion at the midnight Christmas Mass are to fast for four hours previous to midnight. Confessions will be heard from 3 p. m. to 5 p. m. Wednesday and from 7 p. m. to 9 p. m. The church will be open to the public at 11 p. m. Wednesday night for the midnight Mass.

Masses on Christmas day will be at 8:30 a. m. and 9 a. m.

'Apostle Acts' Is Theme In Christ Church

"The Acts of the Apostles" will be the theme of study Sunday during worship services in church of Christ meeting at 159 E. Main St.

This is the beginning of a series of lessons on the book of Act, designed to create a better understanding and greater appreciation for this book which is the connecting link between the Gospel records and the Epistles.

The following points are given from this lesson by Evangelist Charles Cochran:

"The book of Acts was written by Luke, the beloved physician who is also the author of the 'Gospel According to Luke.' This book could very well have been called the 'Book of Conversions' inasmuch as it deals with a number of examples of conversion. The greatest of all questions, 'What Must I Do to Be Saved' is answered by the apostles; the gospel is first preached to all nations; and the church Christ said He would build (Matt. 16:18) had its beginning on Pentecost (Acts 2).

"Acts also gives a record of the great sacrifices made by the early Christians in order to fulfill the command of Jesus to 'Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature' (Mark 16:15).

"The apostle Paul was able to say about thirty years later, in his epistle to the Colossians, that the gospel was 'preached to every creature which is under heaven. .' (Col. 1:23).

Sunday evening sermon subject, announced for 7:30 p. m., will deal with the theme "How to Study the Bible." In this lesson will be discussed rules of Bible study, and emphasis will be placed upon the necessity of studying God's word to learn His will.

Cantata Planned Sunday Evening In First EUB

Fidelis Chorus of First Evangelical United Brethren church will present a Christmas cantata entitled "The Monarch Divine," at 8 p. m. Sunday.

Mrs. Verneal Thomas will play the "Gloria in Excelsis," after which the congregation will sing "It Came Upon The Midnight Clear." "The Light of the Star," a responsive reading, will be led by the Rev. Carl Wilson, followed by a prayer.

The cantata words were written and selected by Mattie B. Shannon with the music written by Lawrence Keating. Mrs. Thomas will play the accompanment and Jim Brown will direct.

The program is: "O Monarch of the Ages" by the chorus; "Behold the Days Came," a bass solo by Fred Brown and the chorus; "Faithful the Word of Jehovah," alto and tenor duet by Ruth Styers and Elliott Hawkes and the chorus; "The Annunciation," trio by Fern, Velma and Leona Wise and soprano solo by Fern Wise; "The Shepherd's Vision", soprano duet by Delores Mavis and Virginia Wise and soprano and alto duet by Marsha Morgan and Ruth Styers.

"Little Babe of Heavenly Splendor", alto solo by Delores Valentine; "There's a Song in the Air," by the chorus; "The Quest of the Wise Men," tenor solo by Elliott Hawkes; tenor and bass duet by Elliott Hawkes and Fred Brown; baritone solo by David Steele and the chorus; "The Star Led On" by the Chorus; "Our Christmas Prayer", soprano solo by Phyllis Hawkes; and "Praise Him, The Heavenly Monarch" by the chorus.

The chorus will appear in new robes which will be dedicated following the cantata. Mrs. Thomas's offertory will be "Christmas Meditation." The postlude-recessional is "Procession of the Magi."

The public is invited to attend this service.

Special Programs Due Sunday For Presbyterians

Choir of Presbyterian church, directed by Mrs. Clark Will and accompanied by Mrs. Theodore L. Huston at the organ, will present its Christmas music during worship service at 10:30 a. m. Sunday.

During the service, the story of the coming of the Lord will be told in Scripture, carol and anthem.

The Rev. Donald Mitchell will read from the Gospels of St. Luke and St. Matthew, the New Testament records of "The Annunciation to Mary," "The Magnificat," "The Annunciation to the Shepherds" and the "Quest of the Kings of Orient."

The Choir will sing a carol-anthem, "Sing, O Sing This Blessed Morn," a Christmas carol, "In Excelsus Gloria;" and anthems "There Were Shepherds" and "Hail To The Lord's Annointed."

Mrs. Dick Robinson, James Carr, Melvin Yates, and Patsy Huston, will sing solo parts in these numbers. Mrs. Richard Boerner will sing a soprano solo, "Gesu Bambino."

At the organ, Mrs. Huston will play "Christmas Pastorale on Herald Angels" and "Glory To God In The Highest."

Primary department of Presbyterian Sunday school, assisted by the Junior department, will present its annual Christmas program for parents and friends at 9:30 a. m. Sunday in the pirmamry department rooms of the church.

Primary teachers and their classes have prepared tableaux. and carols depicting the birth of the Christ Child.

They have extended an invitation to the entire congregation of the church to share this hour with them.

Westminster Fellowship youth group of the church will present a Christmas carol program at 7 p. m. Sunday in the social rooms of the church.

The program will be in the nature of a talent night, using instrumental and vocal music to tell the Christmas story. Larry Thornton, moderator of the group, will preside.

Members and friends of First Evangelical United Brethren church will make their annual Christmas offering to the Otterbein Home, the church's home for children and elderly folks in Lebanon at the close of the church school lesson study Sunday.

Annual Christmas Eve candlelight service will be held at 9 p. m. Sunday in First Methodist church.

Cantata Planned For Sunday In Methodist Rite

Senior Choir of First Methodist church will present its annual Christmas cantata during worship hour Sunday morning.

The Cantata, "The Story of Christmas," portrays the prophecy of the coming of Jesus and the annunciation to the Virgin Mary

The cantata story continues with the vision of the Shepherds abiding in the field, and with the journey of the three wise men from the East to Bethlehem and finding the Holy Babe.

This cantata concludes with the fulfilment of the prophecy and the Alleluias praising the birth of the King.

Spiritual Rite Of Christmas Is First EUB Theme

"Christmas Medley," played by Organist Mrs. Verneal Thomas, will introduce morning worship service in First Evangelical United Brethren church at 9:30 a. m. Sunday.

Other yuletide music for the service includes organ numbers "Melody of Faith" and "March of the Shepherds;" congregational hymn, "Oh Come, All Ye Faithful"; and a Fidelis Chorus anthem, "Silent Night!"

The Rev. Carl L. Wilson will conclude an Advent sermon series by speaking from the text in St. Matthew 2—"When they saw the star, they rejoiced with exceeding great joy. And when they were come into the house, they saw the young child with Mary, His mother, and fell down and worshipped Him: and when they opened their treasurers, they presented unto Him gifts; gold and frankincense and myrrh. And being warned of God in a dream that they should not return to Herod, they departed unto heir own country another way."

From this text, developing the theme, "The Perfect Christmas," the Rev. Mr. Wilson says: "What makes a perfect Christmas? From many the answer comes it is merely a feast and a holiday kept because of traditional reasons. Such a reply eliminates the true spiritual impact of Christmas.

"Analyze the scripture in St. Matthew 2 and one finds the right answer. A perfect Christmas is a day of joy. 'When they saw the star they rejoiced with exceeding great joy' because it was His star which stood for the newborn King of the Jews, the Messiah, the Savior It is soul-stirring to think that the wise men had a perfect Christmas because they worshipped the Christ-child as Savior and Lord.

"They went a step farther to make the experience perfect, they rendered patronage which was the equivalent to service as they presented their gifts of gold, frankinscence and myrrh. Climaxing the perfection was obedience exemplified when they returned into their own country by a different road. A perfect Christmas — joy, worship, service, obedience. I see the Star. I worship the Christ-Child. I open my gifts and lay them at His feet. I go back by a new road."

Church school classes will study a Bible lesson, "Emmanuel—God With Us."

The school will meet in the sanctuary following the lesson study when the annual Christmas Otterbein Home offering will be received.

The Rev. Mr. Wilson and Church School Superintendent Edwin Richardson will direct the offering dedicatorial service.

At 8 p. m., Fidelis Chorus will present a cantata, "The Monarch Divine," with Jim Brown director and Mrs. Verneal Thomas organist.

Christmas Story Planned Sunday In Calvary EUB

The Story of Christmas, the day of the birth of Christ, Sunday will be given again in various forms in the worship services and Sunday school hour in Calvary Evangelical United Brethren church.

In worship at 9 a. m. the service will begin with a Christmas prelude by Miss Minnie Wilkerson, followed by call to worship and Gloria Patri and Apostle's Creed by direction of Dale DeLong.

The congregation will then join in singing the Christmas story in song by the use of Christmas carols.

Scripture for the morning is from Isaiah 9:2-7, which is the prophecy of Isaiah of the coming of the Messiah, Son of God.

Senior Choir under the direction of Mrs. J. A. Herbst will sing an anthem entitled "Shine, O Wonderful Star."

As his message for the morning, the Rev. James A. Herbst has chosen to speak on the subject "The Coming of The Light of The World," using as the text these words from Isaiah 6:1: "Arise, shine; for your light has come, and the glory of the Lord has risen upon you."

Following the hour of worship, the congregation will meet as class groups for study of a lesson "Emmanuel, God With Us". During the worship hour in the children's department, various classes of this department will present a program of worship of their own telling the Christmas story.

They will see the Christmas story in pictures as the Pastor will show to them a film strip entitled "When The Littlest Camel Knelt".

The Sunday school will give to each child from the nursery class through the intermediate classes a special Christmas treat as they leave for home.

In the Sunday services, members will be bringing in their Christmas gifts of food, clothing, toys and cash donations for a deserving family which has been chosen.

Young People To Give Pageant

Young people of Circleville's Church of Christ in Christian Union are to present a Christmas pageant, entitled "Beneath His Star," at 7:30 p. m. Sunday in the church.

Children from each class of the Sunday school will participate in the services with songs and recitations.

A galvanized steel pail, decorated with paint or decals, makes a sturdy, fireproof waste basket for dens and recreation rooms.

Emmanuel -- God With Us — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Matthew 1.

An angel appeared to Mary of Nazareth announcing that she would be the mother of a Son, whose name she should call Jesus.

The angel also appeared to Joseph, Mary's betrothed, to say that Mary would have a child by the Holy Ghost, to fulfill prophecy.

The prophecy was, "Behold, a virgin shall bring forth a Son, and they shall call His name Emmanuel," which means, "God with us."

Following the appearance of the angel, Mary bore her Son in Bethlehem in Judaea, and they named Him Jesus.

CLARIFICATION NEEDED

Two points of legal disputes about the Taft-Hartley Act hinge on the intent of Congress. One is whether the National Labor Relations Board alone may seek injunctions against unfair labor practices affecting interstate commerce. The other is whether state courts have jurisdiction to issue injunctive relief where reliance rests on the federal law.

The way appeared cleared to a final determination when the Supreme Court of the United States accepted review of a case involving the two points, which had gone against the unions in Alabama's Supreme Court. The latter sustained a lower court's temporary injunction against a local trades union council for picketing a building in course of construction.

The injunction was obtained by a subcontractor who employed union labor while the general contractor did not. According to the petitioner, the picketing had a twofold purpose: To induce his workers to stop work with the object of forcing the general contractor to unionize and also to cause the petitioner to cease doing business with the general contractor. This was held to be in violation of Taft-Hartley Section 8 concerning secondary boycotts and other forms of coercion.

Before the high court, questions from the bench resulted in most of the allotted time being taken up with discussing whether the court was not inhibited by the federal judicial code from reviewing a temporary injunction. The code limits the power to review to "final judgments or decrees rendered by the highest court of a state." Counsel for the union contended that the state court's sustaining the injunction was in a sense final judgment.

Now the court rules the contention without merit, deciding by a 7 to 2 vote that the code precludes review. While this leaves the Alabama court decision intact, it would have been better to have had a clarification of it from the high court. But the Supreme Court is to be commended for the meticulous care it evinced to avoid even the appearance of exceeding its powers.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Men are as they think and those who are products of the Great Depression are likely to think in an atmosphere of fear. They take on a clerk-like disposition whether in government or business, recalling that courage and enterprise and thrift were forced down in the ugly days of the 1930's. Those who risked most, seemed to suffer most.

This, perhaps more than any other cause, produced the lust for security in place of the vision of a self-made career based on initiative and thrift. A few enterprising individuals risked greatly, even in the worst days of the Depression, picking up businesses that had collapsed or were on the verge of collapse and building them into mighty enterprises. Other brave souls started new ventures and many of them did well. And some of the older ones were rescued by new management.

But even among these people, the fear of a recurrent Depression had the effect of penurious thinking, not so much in the definition of penny-pinchings as in the sense of keeping one eye always peeled for the worst that never happened. A people that has not the courage to fail, never reaches Olympian heights of enterprise, because the view is narrowed; the mind is small. The depression attitude expresses itself in all strata of society in the desire for a guaranteed life in the form of government-provided social securities, in pensions, in fringe benefits and similar devices to eliminate risk.

In government circles this has been particularly true and has been responsible, in no small measure, for the fear of Russia, the dependence on Britain, the appeasements in policy and the acceptance of such insults as we take in our stride, for instance, in the United Nations.

We did experience the historic fact that we could win a war and lose it simultaneously and that freightened our statesmen as much as the Depression frightened our generation. If that could happen, anything could happen. Yet, the explanation for it is so simple that it should have been understood; we were courageous in fighting; we were cowardly in negotiation. When we fought, we were old-fashioned Americans; when we negotiated, we lived in the depression-born atmosphere of fear. We thought that we could buy peace by dollars as we gained prosperity by subsidies.

Those who inherited great or even small fortunes were particularly affected by the fear psychology of the Depression. They saw their fortunes diminish by the loss in values and the depreciation of currency. They witnessed the effect of taxation, especially inheritance taxes, on the rich. They concluded that there would be no more rich men in America. They hoped to mitigate the force of the revolution.

Many of them joined Roosevelt, not because they believed in him. Actually, in private conversations, they ridiculed him shamelessly. But they did believe that the techniques which he evolved in the New Deal arrested the revolution before which they cringed during the Depression years. They believed that he had saved them from the barricades and the guillotine. They put on the masquerade of a hardly understood liberalism, in the hope that

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

IN the usual type of rupture or hernia, the body wall that holds the contents of the abdomen—intestine and other organs—becomes weakend, and these internal organs protrude beneath the skin. The most common site for a hernia is in the groin. However, it may occur in many other places throughout the body.

Certain people have an inherited predisposition for hernias. They are born with defects present in their abdominal wall or its supporting structures which may easily lead to a rupture. A severe injury, heavy lifting, or any strain of these already weakened tissues can very well open up the defect.

Tissues Weaker

As a person becomes older, his tissues become weaker, also making it easier for a rupture to occur. The heavier the person and the more fat in his tissues, the weaker are the tissues—hence greater the chance for a rupture.

If a rupture occurs and the person is in good physical condition, the best treatment, as a rule, is to have it repaired surgically. In most cases, this gives very satisfactory results. Usually the operation is not too dangerous, and can be done with great ease.

If a hernia is repaired before it becomes too large or has progressed too far, the type of operation is usually very simple, and there is not too great a chance of recurrence.

However, many people leave ruptures go for years until they get so large it is difficult to restore the abdomen to normal. These are the cases where recurrences are frequent.

Many ruptures that are neglected can become greatly enlarged as more of the intestine and other abdominal contents are squeezed out of the abdomen and into the small sac forming the rupture. Finally these contents tend to strangle, because too much is contained within the sac. This causes gangrene of the bowel and may be fatal if not corrected.

Ruptures are common and should be corrected early to prevent difficulties later on in life.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

C. R. H.: Is hemorrhage from the lung always due to a case of tuberculosis?

Answer: Hemorrhage from the lung may be due to many causes; it need not always be due to tuberculosis. A severe lung infection, such as pneumonia, a tumor of the lung, varicose veins in the tubes leading to the lungs, and certain heart conditions may all cause a person to cough up blood.

The best way to determine the cause is by X-ray examination of the chest. However, in certain cases, it is necessary for the physician to look into the lung tubes with an instrument which is known as a bronchoscope in order to find the exact cause.

CHAPTER NINETEEN

ROGER never knew how he reached Joy Street. He had no recollection, later on, of drawing up to the curb in front of his house and mounting the steps and unlocking the door. He had a dim impression that he called to Emily and that she answered him, but everything was very hazy, for all at once vertigo overcame him completely. When she reached his side, he was lying unconscious on the floor.

After that, there were moments of awareness. He knew that he was in his big soft bed and that Emily was standing near it. He heard the doctor saying, "There's no cause for uneasiness, Mrs. Field. Pneumonia isn't what it used to be, you know. Why, we'll have his temperature down, with penicillin, inside of twenty-four hours." Roger was meant to overhear that, he knew. But he was not so sure he was meant to overhear what the doctor said when he came the next time. "Well, of course, occasionally there is a case... I think perhaps I'd better arrange for oxygen."

For the first few weeks after Roger died, Emily was mainly conscious of numbness; then she was aware only of overwhelming fatigue and uncomparable apathy tinged with sorrow.

So the shutters were closed and the shades were drawn in the Joy Street house. The silver was put in the bank, the rugs in storage, and the furniture was slip-covered with clean, colorless linen. Emily went through the premises, the night before she left, to make sure everything was in complete order. At least, that was what she said. But that was not the real reason. The real reason was that she wanted to say goodby to it and this was the first thing she had definitely wanted to do since Roger died. She started on the third story, in the small guest room with the spool furniture and the old pastel of the little girl, playing with her puppy, where Priscilla had spent so much time; then she went past the rooms on the second story, all the way down to the ground floor—to the drawing room with its tapestries and portraits, and the library with its Gaugengigl etchings and first editions, and the dining room with its massive, well-rubbed mahogany, and next, out into the garden, where the crocuses and forsythia were just beginning to come out. But she did not stay in the garden and, after she went away from it, she tried not to think about these things.

Then Emily went down the steps and got into the car. Clark held its door open respectfully and Officer Tupperty saluted from the sidewalk and Emily was driven down Mount Vernon Street to Louisburg Square.

Old Mrs. Forbes talked briskly all through their tete-a-tete luncheon, but Emily could not think of much to say, and afterward she could not think of much to do. She lay down for a little while, because that seemed to be expected of her, but she did not like to lie down in the daytime and she did not go to sleep; she merely kept still, glancing at the clock every few minutes until an hour had passed and she felt justified in getting up again. Then she watched Doris unpack her clothes, and put them neatly away on scented shelves and padded hangers, and carry off a few to be pressed and cleaned. By and by, Doris came back with some tea; Mrs. Forbes had thought that probably Mrs. Field was tired after her moving, that she would like to have tea in her room. If she would prefer to have dinner there, too, Mrs. Forbes would understand and Doris would be glad to bring it up. Emily realized she was expected to say, yes, she was tired; yes she would like to stay in her room. As a matter of fact, she did not feel at all tired and she did not care in the least where she stayed. She knitted for a little while and read for a little while and then she went to bed because there did not seem to be anything else for her to do.

For the next month nearly all her days seemed equally aimless and equally empty. She had a number of callers, some of them very old friends and she saw them because she could not excuse herself on grounds of ill health or preoccupation; but she would have been just as contented to remain alone.

Eventually, every pleasant day she walked up the Hill and sat for a little while in her garden and then walked back to Louisburg Square. On the afternoons that Dan worked in the garden, she watched him and occasionally made a suggestion. But he did very well without suggestions, so it really was not necessary to make them. On the afternoons that Dan was not working there, she sat with her knitting or a book in her hand and sometimes she worked a little or read a little, but not much. She had not told anyone about the habit she had formed of going there, so she had no reason to expect that she would be disturbed, and she was slightly startled when, one evening, someone was jiggling the old brass knocker in a way that suggested a special signal. Emily leaped up, crying out in amazement and unbelief.

"That's the way Brian always knocked, when he came to play poker. He and Roger called it his password. Why, it can't be—"

But it was. Brian, leaner, browner and seemingly taller, stood on the threshold, grinning broadly. Emily threw her arms around his neck and hugged him hard, still uttering little cries of unbelief which nevertheless, were tinged with joy.

"Briny, Briny, are you real? Are you all right? Wherever did you drop from?"

"I'm as right as rain and as real as the sun. And I didn't drop from anywhere. I alighted, with my usual unimpeachable dignity, from a plane. My, but I'm glad to see you! And to see you here! I called and called the house and couldn't get any answer and even my warm Irish blood ran cold. But my heart began to beat again when I got your grandmother on the telephone and she said you were in your garden. Well, as I live and breathe, the same tray—the same glasses—the same bottles—and the same liquids in the bottles! What about the same old mixture for me? I bet you don't remember what it is!"

"Of course I do. Whisky and plain water. With lots of ice and not too much plain water."

"Good for you! Well, here's to you! And you'll not be making a lone drinker out of me, I'm hoping!"

Emily laughed and filled her glass.

"Please give me a few more details, Briny," she begged, after he had taken several long swallows and given sighs of deep satisfaction. "It isn't very informative just to say that you alighted from a plane, even when you add that mendacious touch about your usual dignified fashion."

"Well, you knew that I'd been in Manus for nearly a year."

"I knew you were there, but I didn't know for how long and I don't know what you were doing there, or much about Manus itself."

Brian struck an attitude. "Manus, my dear girl," he announced in a declamatory note, "was one of the five finest harbors in the world until the U. S. Navy and the Seabees got hold of it, and turned it into the finest and probably the busiest port on any of the seven seas. Nobody except a few professional mariners knew much about it before the war, because the native village there wasn't a trading point. Now it teems with activity, as the saying goes. By a great stroke of luck, I cut my foot on a jagged piece of coral, while swimming off the sandy shores, and got an infection in it."

"This is the first time I ever heard an infection called a piece of luck."

"Well, you've heard it now and you have the evidence of it before you. I don't know what's going to happen to me next. I may get shipped back to the South Pacific or I may be sent to the B Docks in Norfolk—there's a rumor going around that my legal talents are too great for confinement at Manus. While that fine technical point's being decided, I'm spending a little time in Boston, much of it, I hope, in your company. Incidentally, I've got a whole pocketful of gasoline coupons. What about a nice long drive out into the beautiful spring countryside?"

"It's awfully kind of you, Briny, but I haven't been anywhere yet and—it's less than three months since Roger died."

"Yes, I know that, too. So what?"

"So I haven't wanted to go anywhere. I haven't wanted to see anyone or do anything. For two or three weeks, after I'd recovered from the first shock and grief of his death, I didn't feel at all. I was just—well, I was numb all over."

"And that was perfectly normal—for two or three weeks."

"Since then, I haven't been numb exactly, but I've felt exhausted."

"Which was also perfectly normal. But you don't feel as exhausted now as you did when you first began to go to your garden, do you?"

"No, not quite. But I don't seem to want to see anyone."

"How can you tell without trying? You were glad to see me—or at least if you weren't, you certainly put on a pretty good act."

"I didn't put on an act," Emily retorted indignantly. "I was glad to see you. But—"

"I'm going to start counting the number of times you say 'but,' if you aren't careful. You're not in a state of apathy or exhaustion any longer. You were, you should have been. Now it's about due to be over."

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

By Ray Tucker

Editor's Note: Every Saturday this veteran Washington newspaper correspondent answers readers' questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions may be sent direct to Ray Tucker at 6308 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20—"What is the lowdown on the NATO defense organization?" asks H. G. of Bridgeport, Conn., along with many other anxious readers. "Is it building an army and air force that will be able to resist a Russian invasion of Western Europe?"

Answer: There is no use in trying to deny that NATO is a flop, insofar as building an adequate defense or even a holding operation against a determined Red attack across Europe's historic battlegrounds. Despite optimistic statements here and abroad, the participants have fallen far behind the Lisbon schedule of 25 fully manned and armed divisions and 25 in reserve.

Our principal allies, the British and French, insist that they cannot fulfill their promises without inviting bankruptcy or domestic sacrifices that would turn Churchill and Pinay out of office. Pro-Russian or anti-American governments might be elected in their stead.

RIDGWAY REBUFFED—England insists that her military expenditures in Malaya must be taken into consideration, and France makes the same contention with respect to her resistance to the Reds in Indo-China. The other NATO members are making only negligible contributions.

Only a few days ago, the European nations flatly rebuffed General Ridgway's demand that they make good their commitments to build airfields and other facilities in the West. Instead of cooperating to organize a German army of 12 divisions, which are admittedly essential to any real defense system, Paris and Bonn are squabbling and recalling the bitter memories of 1870, 1914 and 1939.

DETERS RUSSIA — NATO spokesmen profess to believe that they are fulfilling their original mission, and that conditions will improve. But reading between the lines of their official and unofficial statements suggests that they are whistling in a graveyard.

They give two reasons for having no fear of a Russian onslaught during the period of our unpreparedness. The first is that this country's supply of atom bombs and atomic artillery deters Moscow because they deprive her of her great superiority in manpower. They do not seem to realize that Stalin's possession of these weapons may neutralize our atomic advantage.

LET U. S. DO IT—They also argue that Russia's internal conditions, such as shortages of food, industrial production, petroleum and transport lines, will not permit her to wage large-scale warfare. On the other hand, many economists point out that the Soviet is steadily strengthening its internal structure along these lines, while our allies plead poverty.

As our diplomatic and military experts discovered at the recent NATO conference and progress review at Paris, the European Defense Community will never become a going concern unless the United States contributes a lot more men (soldiers), money and materials.

BURY ADLAI?—"I note that you conclude (with some pretense of regret)," writes Mrs. M. J. of Springfield, O., "that you must assist at the burial of Governor Stevenson. America presumably has no place for him. Do you think that this reflects well on the intelligence of the American people? Should we 'bury' a man who was recognized almost instantaneously by the rest of the world a sone of the most outstanding personalities we have produced in this half-century?"

STEVENSON'S ROLE — Answer: I was not "burying" Governor Stevenson as an individual or personality. I was simply reporting the ascertainable political reaction to proposals that he remain as the active and recognized leader of the Democratic Party. Anybody who knows practical politics, and reads the results of the November 4 election, must recognize that he cannot continue in that role.

There was no "pretense" in my regret. However, I have more faith in Stevenson than Mrs. M. J. seems to have. If he feels so inclined, I believe that he has sufficient ability and initiative and resourcefulness to make an even deeper imprint on the nation's mind, and an even greater contribution to the American society. I also think he could fill this role better if he severed partisan ties.

ELEANOR—"Do you think that Eisenhower will continue Eleanor Roosevelt as a member of the American delegation to the United Nations? inquires F. G. of Binghamton, N. Y.

Answer: I do. Like her or not, she has become a national and international figure. Nor would it hurt Ike, politically, if he kept her on.

Girl Scouts And Brownies Hold Christmas Activities

Parties Are Held At Methodist Church

Members of Girl Scout Troop 13 met recently for a caroling party. They caroled at the E. Main St. and E. Mound St. Home and Hospital, Berger hospital, Kearns Nursing home, Children's home, County home, and at the homes of Mrs. Ora Pontius, the Rev. Robert Weaver and Mrs. O. C. King.

The group returned to the Methodist church for a Christmas party and gift exchange. The table was decorated with small Christmas trees and red candles. In charge were Mrs. George Barnes, Mrs. David Goldschmidt, Mrs. William Steele and Mrs. Robert Smith.

Party Is Held

Members of Brownie Troop 17 held a Christmas party for their mothers recently in the Methodist church. Each guest was presented with a miniature wishing well, which the Brownies made.

Leaders, Mrs. Robert Thomas and Mrs. Karl Johnson opened the party with group singing of Christmas carols, and a gift exchange was held among the members.

Refreshments were served from a table decorated in a Christmas motif. Members of the troop committee assisting with arrangements were Mrs. Forrest Brown, Mrs. P. C. Routzahn, Mrs. Elliott Barnhill, and Mrs. C. Ray Barnhart Jr.

Other honored guests present were Mrs. Rose Pickens, Mrs. George Gerhardt, Mrs. Emmett Wood, Mrs. Hattie Pickens, Mrs. Ed Amey, Mrs. Charles Goeller and Mrs. Smith.

Pythian Sisters Conduct Meeting And Yule Party

Majors Temple Pythian Sisters met Thursday evening in the K of P hall for their regular meeting and Christmas party. Forty members and one guest were present for the occasion.

Mrs. Edgar Carmean, most excellent chief, presided at the meeting, after which the Christmas party and gift exchange was held around the lighted Christmas tree.

A banquet was served to the winning team of Love by the losing team of Fidelity. Mrs. Frank Davis was chairman.

Tables were decorated with lighted trees, miniature Christmas candies and garlands of cedar extending the length of the tables.

A program of songs and contests was held with Clarence Radcliffe leading the singing and Miss Mary Kay Kennedy and Mrs. Robert Acord as committee.

The next meeting, Jan. 1, will be installation of officers.

Christmas Theme Followed At Meet Of Grange Group

Patti Barr, whose birthday comes on Christmas Day, gave a recitation, "A Christmas Birthday," written by Mrs. Joseph Peters. Nancy and Patty Collins sang, "He'll Be Coming Down the Chimney," and "Poppy the Puppy."

LeRoy Owens gave a recitation, "The Night Before Christmas," Bonnie Beers and Patty Collins presented "A Christmas Story," and Lynn and Ray Noecker sang, "Frosty the Snowman."

"Jus' 'Fore Christmas" was recited by Jerry Owens and a reading, "Aunt Fran's Christmas Gift Suggestions," was given by Mrs. Russell Hedges.

Patty Collins read, "Hearing Santa Claus" and, "Farewell Wishes," was presented by Nancy Hines.

Group singing of "Jingle Bells," closed the program after which Santa Claus arrived with gifts.

Christmas Dinner Served GOP Club

The spirit of an old fashioned Christmas was carried out when members of the GOP Booster Club held their annual turkey dinner in the home of Mrs. Howard Clark, Walnut St., Thursday evening.

A large turkey centered the table, decorated for the occasion, and carols were sung by the group around the table.

Mrs. John Steinhauser read, "A Child Is Born," and Miss Lucille Dumm read, "Let's Keep Christmas."

Gifts from the "grab bag" provided entertainment during the evening and a gift exchange was held. The names of "secret booster pals" were revealed and new names were drawn for the coming year.

Contests were held and prizes went to Mrs. E. S. Minor, Mrs. Irvin Smith, Mrs. Roy Dumm, Mrs. Henry O'Hara, Mrs. George Mavis and Mrs. Charles W. Winner.

Teen Tips

No matter how much you like the Big Date in your life, it's no cinch to choose a Christmas gift for him. Right?

But you can be sure of this: It shouldn't be terrifically expensive, because it's "the thought that counts" and because it would embarrass him if your gift were more lavish than his.

Incidentally, it's best not to give him a gift at all unless he plays Santa Claus to you first. If you think he's going to give you a present, you'll want to have one ready for him—but not otherwise. Here are some suggestions that are considered good taste because they're not too costly nor too, too personal:—

Accessories — A silk or wool scarf. Matching tie and handkerchief set. Handkerchiefs with his initial. A comb and nail file in a leather or silver case. A pen or automatic pencil—or both.

Something you knitted with your own little hands—A tie or socks perhaps in his school colors, with his initials or fraternity insignia. A sleeveless sweater if time allows.

For his hobby — A record album. Snap-shot album. A tool or gadget for his hobby if you know exactly what he wants or needs.

A book — Science, adventure or travel, according to his tastes.

Water-repellent corduroy school clothes may be laundered in rich, lukewarm suds, rinsed three times, and hung up to drip dry. Do not wring them.

Mrs. Turney Glick Serves As Hostess At Unique Party

Mrs. Turney Glick of Circleville Route 3 was hostess Thursday afternoon in her home at a "cookie swap." Each guest brought a quantity of Christmas cookies, which they "swapped" with other guests.

The group decided to meet annually for a similar event.

Berger Guild 6 Names Officers

Mrs. Warren Baker was hostess Wednesday evening in the home of her mother, Mrs. Ralph Curtain of 124 E. Union St., for the Christmas party given by Berger hospital Guild 6.

Officers named for the coming year were as follows: Mrs. Baker, chairman; Miss Elizabeth Hilyard, co-chairman; Mrs. Gilbert Starkey, secretary; Mrs. Oscar Turner, treasurer, and Mrs. Fred Roundhouse, publicity.

Miss Hamilton Hosts Circle 6 At Yule Party

The home of Miss Marie Hamilton, of W. High St. was beautifully decorated with Christmas greenery and other colorful ornaments when she entertained members of Circle 6 of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist church on Friday evening.

A large Christmas tree, tinkling brass bells, and pine boughs were placed in the living room and in the hall. Miss Ollie Sockrider and Mrs. George Schaub were assistant hostesses for the meeting. The president, Mrs. Eli Hedges, conducted the business.

Mrs. Schaub gave devotionals suitable for the Holy season, while Mrs. Jack Heeter gave a talk on Christmas carols, and music was played representing each song by Mrs. John Chilcote, who accompanied her on the piano.

Each member told of her own best observed past Christmas. Sixteen members attended the meeting. They discussed plans for contributions to South Side Settlement house in Columbus for their project in early Spring months.

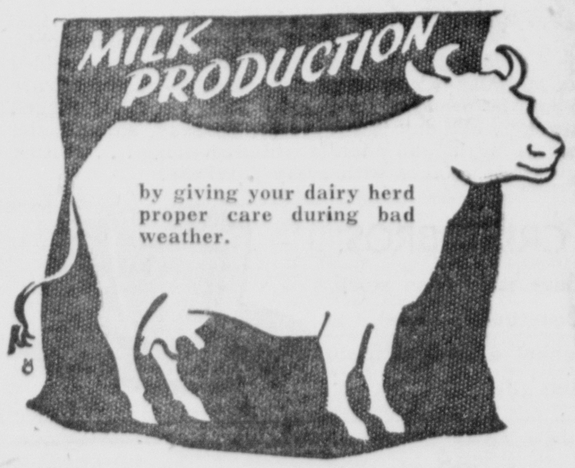

A salad course was served by the hostesses and a gift exchange was held at the conclusion of the meeting.

GUARDIAN'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

Alta E. Goldsberry, Guardian of Bernard C. Morton, an incompetent, Plaintiff vs

Bernard C. Morton, et al, Defendants

IN THE PROBATE COURT
PICKAWAY COUNTY, OHIO

In pursuance of an Order of Sale issued to said Guardian from said Court in the above entitled action, I will expose to sale, at public auction, at the door of the Court House in Circleville, Pickaway County, Ohio, on Monday the 5th day of January, 1953, at 2:00 o'clock P. M. EST the following described real estate situated in the county of Pickaway and State of Ohio and in the Township of Monroe and bounded and described as follows:

Severally bounded and described in two (2) tracts as follows, to-wit:

First Tract. Being a part of Adam Shepard's Survey No. 4289, beginning at a stone and two dead Elms in the north line of said Shepard's Survey and south-east corner to Thomas Hill's heirs' Survey No. 8039; thence with said Shepard's Original line N. 88½ deg. W. 36¼ poles to a stone and burr oak; thence S. 1½ deg. W. 61¾ poles to a stone in a line of William Longberry's land; thence with his line S. 89 deg. E. 13½ poles to a stone and Hickory, corner to same; thence with another of his lines S. 1¾ deg. W. 44½ poles to a stone; thence S. 87½ deg. E. 60 poles to a stone; thence N. 1½ deg. E. 106½ poles to a stone and broken topped Black Oak in the north line of said Shepard's Survey; thence with said line N. 88½ deg.W. 40¾ poles to the beginning, containing Forty-Five (45) acres of land, more or less. Being the same premises described in the deed of Seth and Sarah Morton to Edward L. Morton, dated Dec. 10th, 1858, recorded in Deed Book No. 32, at page 761, of the Pickaway County Deed Records.

Second Tract. Being a part of Adam Shepard's Original Survey No. 4289, commencing at a stone from which a Maple Tree bears N. 24 deg. W. 14 links distant; thence N. 1½ deg. E. 11 chains 19 links to a stone; thence N. 89½ deg. W. 37 chains 21 links to an Elm on the bank of Clark's Run; thence down the run with the meanders thereof S. 20½ deg. W. one (1) chain and 25 links; thence S. 28½ deg. W. 3 chains, 12 links; thence S. 48¾ deg. W. 78 links; thence S. 57 deg. W. 2 chains; thence S. 23½ deg. W. one (1) chain, thence S. 16½ deg. W. 50 links; thence S. 7 deg. W. 71 links; thence S. 17½ deg. W. 2 chains, 53 links to a stone on the west bank of Clark's Run; thence S. 88 deg. E. 42 chains, 75 links to the beginning, containing Forty-two (42) acres and 141 4-5 poles, more or less. Being the same premises described in the deed of William and Phoebe McCafferty to Edward L. Morton, by their deed dated, March 5th, 1870, recorded in Deed Book No. 41, at page 106 of the records of deeds in the Recorder's Office of Pickaway County, Ohio.

Also the following described Real Estate, situated in the County of Pickaway, State of Ohio, and Township of Monroe: Beginning at a point on Route No. 56 between the property of Charles Hosier and the Bailey land; thence South to the south-east corner of the Bailey land, the north-east corner of land of J. W. Call; thence west to the south-east corner of Bernard C. Morton land and southwest corner of Bailey land; thence north with said boundary line to Route Number 56; thence in a southeasterly direction parallel with Route 56 to the place of beginning containing thirty three (33) acres of land, more or less and being in Survey No. 4289.

Said above three described tracts containing a total of 120 acres and 141 and 4-5 poles to land, more or less.

Said premises appraised at $24,200.00, and must be sold for not less than two-thirds of the said appraised value.

Terms of Sale: 10 per cent of the purchase price to be paid in cash on the day of sale and the balance of said purchase price to be paid in cash on confirmation of the sale and delivery of the deed.

Wholesale Price Index Tumbles

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Bureau of Labor Statistics reports its wholesale price index fell three-tenths of 1 per cent in the week ended last Tuesday.

The index stood at 109.3 per cent of the 1947-49 average.

County Voters, Candidates Get Reminder

Mrs. Nellie Stout, clerk of the county board of elections, called attention to two elections slated Feb. 3 and deadlines which come the following day for primary candidates.

A special county-wide election will be held Feb. 3 on a proposed additional tax to provide funds for support and remodeling of Berger Hospital. A 60 per cent affirmative vote will be needed for passage.

And Orient's election for incorporation is also scheduled Feb. 3. The positions of mayor, clerk, treasurer and six councilmen will be at stake.

ON FEB. 4, all officers to run in the municipal primary for Circleville must have petitions filed by 6:30 p. m.

All officers for villages and townships who plan to run in the November election must also have their petitions filed by 6:30 p. m. Feb. 4, a requirement under new law and one that is not generally understood, Mrs. Stout warned.

Sokolsky's

when the revolution did come, they would not be taken for ractionaries.

Many men and women of this segment of our society worked their way into the numerous agencies which, since the war years, have been associated with the conduct of our foreign relations an the development of our foreign trade. There was no courage in their hearts.

All that they could permit themselves were such ideas as "the containment policy," or the support of socialist parties in Europe, or appeasing the Russians in the hope that they might become good Christians by imitation. They were always afraid because they were conditioned by the Depression years to be afraid, to live in fear of the very revolution which they always saw before them as the only future possible for them.

I write not of Republicans or Democrats but of a sick generation that had lost confidence in a way of life that had given them greater benefits, even during he Depression, than any other people enjoyed.

They were without hope, expecting at best to stop the tide of revolution before it completely engulfed them. They were willing to give up most to save something.

Maybe a new generation will now take hold.

City Motorist Suffers Injury

The accident happened at about 7:15 a. m. Saturday on Route 23, three miles south of Circleville.

Deputy Carl Radcliff said the Smith car was travelling south and was attempting a left turn when an auto operated south by Thomas Hopkins, 34, of Sandusky Route 1, attempted to pass.

Society Notes Work Of Circleville Man

.. Circleville man has been honored by the Ohio Society of Professional Engineers.

James R. Lytle of 601 N. Pickaway St. has been offered the Society's Junior Membership Award, constituting membership in local and national activities of the engineering group through 1953.

Notification of the professional honor was received here in a letter from Lloyd A. Chacey, executive secretary of the Ohio Society.

Lytle was invited to join the engineers organization because of his high rating in a state test given for professional engineers and surveyors.

Jackson 'Cats, Ashville Broncos Knocked Off By Pirates, Tigers

For the second time in as many weeks, upset victories by underdog teams have disrupted Pickaway County basketball league standings.

And those disruptions have given county cage fans promise of a terrific league battle this season, plus a whing-ding of a county tournament next February.

Two top contests featuring upsets in county league play Friday night were Pickaway's 59-52 victory over previously unbeaten Jackson Wildcat courtmen; and Walnut's thrilling 52-51 victory over powerful but once previously beaten Ashville Broncos.

After the smoke had cleared from those two battles, Jackson continued to hold the county league lead, but by a smaller margin and closer to striking distance by any one of five other teams. And Ashville, tied for the league leadership only last week, now has settled back into a virtual five team battle for runnerup position.

IN THE Pickaway Pirate-Jackson Wildcat tiff, the Pirate quintet announced its intentions of sending the 'Cats home disappointed in the first frame, when they racked up a 17-12 advantage.

The Pirate sharpshooters were never headed throughout the remainder of the fracas as the fans grew edgy. The Pickaway team posted a 37-26 margin at the halfway mark and collected a 45-34 advantage at the three-quarter mark before taking the final seven-point victory.

Vic Pontious spearheaded the Pirate attack during the encounter by bucketing 21 points, while Jackson's Glen McFarland and Herb Holbrook led the 'Cat counterattack in vain, each posting 15 points.

Pickaway reserves made the upset evening complete during the preliminary fracas, scoring a 40-19 victory of the 'Cat reservists to hand them their first league loss of the season.

And earlier in the day, Pickaway's junior high team battled to a lopsided 60-32 victory over the Jackson junior high cagers.

Pickaway's victory brought the Pirates up into a three-way tie for fifth place in the county loop, while lowering the 'Cats into shooting range.

IN THE Walnut-Ashville fracas, Walnut's Tigers opened the game with the same 17-12 margin Pickaway had used to inform Jackson things were going to be tough, while holding onto a narrow 28-26 lead at the halfway mark.

Walnut spread its advantage by seven points at the end of the third quarter to establish a 45-38 margin, while outlasting the finals period assault by the Broncos to nab the one-point victory.

Ronnie Althaus of the Walnut crew was top scorer in the Tiger victory with 22 points to his credit, while Ronnie Wilson of the Broncos paced the losers with 21.

CHS Varsity Loses To Blue Lions As Reserves Win Third In Row

Circleville's fast-developing Tiger basketball team continued its lose one, win one schedule Friday night when invading Washington Blue Lion cagers handed them a 52-45 defeat in the first South Central Ohio League game of the season.

The invading, highly-touted Lions led throughout Friday's league opener, but was never able to pull away for enough to feel comfortable.

Washington opened with a 9-5 advantage in a slow-moving first period, advancing to a 22-16 halftime advantage.

Circleville cagers rebounded during the third stanza, however, and whittled the Lion lead down to only 33-32 going into the final period.

Tiger courtmen knotted the score as the game drew near the end, only to lose out as Washington grabbed off several quick points and then stalled the ball.

Washington reservists opened the game with an 8-5 edge over the locals, but the junior Tigers retaliated during the second canto to post a 19-16 edge.

Circleville coninued to hold the upper hand during the third chukker, registering a 28-26 advantage at the three-quarter mark before running up the final 11-point margin of victory.

Gene Stonerock was tops in scoring for the CHS juniors in the contest witha total of 17 points. Ed Meyer was high for the visitors with 10.

Circlville's next varsity and reserve contests will be Tuesday night in Pickaway County Fairgrounds Coliseum when Columbus St. Charles invades. Box scores of Friday's varsity and reserve games follow:

How Much Is Telephone SERVICE
Worth To You
Could you put a price on your telephone when you have to call a doctor for your sick child? How much would you take for your telephone when you need it to call the police, fire department, or a loved one in a family emergency? How many steps does your telephone save you each day? How much business does it help you transact? Your answers to those questions measure the value of telephone service to you.
And here's another thought . . . telephone service is becoming more valuable every day. As more telephones are installed, you are able to call more people, and more people are able to reach you. So for business, for pleasure, for convenience, in emergencies — the value of telephone service is increasing every day.
